FlyingBlanket11 - July 15, 2017, 1:04 am

Who deserves the title of the GREATEST RAPPER OF ALL TIME?

My opinion?

EMINEM

One, repped tf outta Detroit.

Two, he has so much meaning in his bars just straight legendary in my opinion.

THIS IS NOT WHO IS THE MOST FAMOUS OR KNOWN, who's the best.

HangMansheart - July 15, 2017, 1:13 am

He's the world's greatest rapper, a fact that's undisputed

But for some reason he acts like he's persecuted

If you think he's a turkey, well you can just stuff it

He's the only MC to have a beef with a puppet

He could rap about Afghanistan, Iraq, or BP

But he'd rather make fun of some minor celebrities

Some good songs, but he uses controversies just to stay in the topics.

He got old and crazy, he do shit which isn't necessary just to stay famous, coz he know he is fading slowly.

Same with the kardashians they do the same to stay famous.

Except they have big ass.

You're actually a fucking retarded child if you believe he is a lyrical genius.

I don't have a problem with people who enjoy trashy music like this because usually, it is fun to listen to and is mindless. But if you honestly believe he is a lyrical genius then you must be comparing such genius to a piece of shit with a speech impediment.

That's a hard question. 2pac will always be one of my favorites and considerations for his ability to really hit home with his more inspirational songs but Eminem is just a flat out genius when it comes to vocabulary and word play

Persecute - July 16, 2017, 1:51 pm

Eminem.

He doesn't rhyme words, he rhymes syllables along with throwing in great punchlines/clever wordplays.

Ex:

This is our future. I'm not really mad he's dumb as long as he keeps making good music.
I also love Joey Bada$$, guy is amazing. I don't really have a favorite rapper, I have favorites.

Some of those:

Vic Mensa
Vince Staples
Lil Pump
Beerbongs and Bentlys' aka Post Malone
Migos
Rich The Kid
Rick Ross (old Rosay) and sooo many others.

People that I think have had the biggest influence:

Eminem
Dr. Dre
Nas
Tupac
The Notorious B.I.G.
N.W.A.
Wu Tang Clan - probably forgetting a few but oh well.

I don't really like Nicki Minaj
I liked Jay-Z's older stuff.
Eminem is great.
Biggie has a few good songs.

I agree with 2-Pac being overrated. If you show any towards him everyone just bandwagons you talking shit about your music taste, though I like a few of his songs mostly California Love.

Lil Pump just looks like a cotton candy ass dumbass. He's younger than me and I think hes a total fucking tool also. I hope he gets locked up for the shit he's done.

Kanye West has had some few songs that were good, mostly his older stuff, Stronger is a good song by him for some motivational pump up music.

Drake is a shitty rapper, the only song I like by him is Forever, but that's because it includes so many other artists.

A lot of rappers are actually in debt by a lot, if I recall isn't Kanye West in debt by 50 mill or something?

So many have been exposed for wearing fake watches, renting out houses for a day and say its theirs, its quite entertaining.

A absolute trash rapper in my opinion is that dumbass Soulja Boy.

A lot of rappers from my generation are kinda whack but a few have good songs.

My guess is that you're not old enough to really know that isn't true. One can easily say guys like Ice Cube and Ice-T were doing what Tupac did years before him. I'm sure both of those artists were inspirations to 2pac.

Also, my favorite fact is that 2pac was in the band Digital Underground before he was solo. IMHO he was mad fake and it was Suge Knight that molded him more than anything. Suge is real real real gangsta. And 2pac always had better talent working with him like Dre and Snoop.
