Thread: Twitch View Bot

???? - July 17, 2017, 11:07 am

Friend wants to start streaming and want's to bot some viewers down the line after a few weeks so it'll just help him grow faster.

What's the best service to use for this? He tried <http://www.twitch-viewerbot.com/> but they never sent him details after he paid, and other people are saying they don't work anymore but are still accepting sales (Scamming)

So does anyone have any experience with this that could recommend a site?

Also, sorry if this is in the wrong section I didn't know where to put it! Feel free to move it moderator(s) :)

I used that site you mentioned before and it worked for me, that's weird.

I heard <http://streamboosters.com> works good.

He purchased it an hour ago and when he goes to login to his account it says he isn't premium, he emailed them so maybe they aren't scamming but we did read several people posting on their youtube video recently saying they were still accepting sales while not working. We will see soon.

(Jul 17, 2017 11:13 AM)- Sam - Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) A view bot will not make him grow faster lmao. In fact it will permanently destroy his channel.I have a friend that averages 50-100 viewers every stream (not botted) because he grew his audience because of botting.

You are 100% wrong, it can help a streamer grow because it puts them higher up on the stream list.

(Jul 17, 2017 01:47 PM)- Sam - Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Lmao. You clearly have no idea to what you are talking about. Viewbotting your channel permanently marks your channel as being viewbotted. Twitch have statistics of the amount views you had since the registration of the account.

So when your friend attempts to apply for partnership he will be denied due to botting his channel for views.

Also if you even consider using a viewbot as an attempt to grow your channel you don't deserve to stream. I bet your friend is the type of kid who has a panel in huge font stating "Donate Here". He has a sub button LOL

If you read above my other friend thats looking into botting isn't botting early on, he's streaming for several weeks getting a few viewers legit and slowly botting more viewers he isn't making an account and dropping 25 viewers, 1000 channel views, and 100 followers out of nowhere.

XeCheats - July 17, 2017, 3:06 pm

it actually works as of recently. I used it and it was working but when i got it a month or two ago it wasn't (Jul 17, 2017 03:05 PM)- Sam - Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) He has a sub button and wants to viewbot... nice. Link me his channel because I don't believe you.

If you are wanting to boost viewers using a viewbot whilst affiliated with Twitch you must be completely retarded.

Also when a legit viewer joins the stream and looks at the viewer list and seeing nobody type in chat they will assume he's being viewbotted therefore won't stay. You don't know how terrible this whole idea is lol, this won't progress his channel whatsoever if anything he will be banned soon. These are two different people...

Friend #1 Has sub button, slightly botted to gain publicity AFTER already streaming for several weeks and only getting a few viewers. He was smart about botting and made it look legit.

Friend #2 Is looking into botting.

The person looking into botting doesnt already have a sub button or he wouldn't really wanna bot lmfao

His account was activated he emailed them and they said there was a mixup between emails so it didn't activate the right account. He hasn't tested anything yet.

So hopefully everything still works on that site.

(Jul 17, 2017 03:13 PM)- Sam - Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) So your friend is lacking viewers and wishes to viewbot. Maybe consider the fact nobody wants to watch because he's not entertaining? A viewbot will not make people watch lmao.

Do you realize how hard it is for non-female streamers to get started on Twitch? How many people do you know go to Twitch channels with 1 viewer? The whole objective of this is to get higher on the list, so more people give the channel a chance, and it worked with my friend LOL

You're honestly so delusional its funny.

???? - July 17, 2017, 3:23 pm

(Jul 17, 2017 03:17 PM)- Sam - Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Not delusional I know how Twitch and it's community works. You think a viewbot will make people watch a persons channel when in reality it relies on the broadcaster to be entertaining.

I've seen people register Twitch accounts and end up getting 10k viewers within just a week due to being incredibly talented and entertaining.

Stop trying to force viewers. This is not how to stream... Also it's hard to become noticed noways because a lot of people purely stream in hope to earn money.

I know a viewbot will not make people watch a channel. That's common sense.

Let's say you're a company selling a product, and nobody knows who you are.

Not many people will buy that product, right? Now you pay for advertising, get your product out there and more people are going to buy the product if they like it, correct?

Same concept my friend used on Twitch. Except with views. He would bot 20 or so viewers while he already had people watching so that his name would be higher on the list and after a while of only botting a few extra people, he kept getting real people following and watching him. And at that point he was getting real people coming everyday, so he stopped. A while after he stopped, he applied or whatever to get partnered and they accepted him and he now has a sub button and does not bot because he doesn't need too.

I'm not trying to argue if it can work, because I KNOW it can work if done correctly, I've witnessed it. I realize you think you know everything there is to know, but you're wrong.

If you want to, you could try otohits, I have used it for various sites and it has always worked for me.

CryptoKings - April 2, 2018, 2:49 pm

Stream boosters is pretty good

Danny Khalifa - April 2, 2018, 3:10 pm

I used this too when I used to stream CS GO and DOTA 2 lol

It works

Awesomearmyman69 - February 24, 2019, 6:31 pm

I paid for that website, it doesn't work do not buy it, I also emailed support and they did not get back to me and it has been 3+ months.

Black Hat - February 24, 2019, 7:04 pm

you should just use viewerlabs instead.

old post fucking grave daigger gtfo
