

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Chargebacked -\$500 from 1-2 months ago

Sharjah - July 17, 2017, 2:42 pm

Got a call from my dad that an amazon code I sold about 2 months ago chargebacked on PayPal from eBay.

Is anyone able to help resolve this for me? Don't wanna risk a $500 dispute but this is bull shit since it was on my dads business account

Aqzxc - July 17, 2017, 7:06 pm

I'd advise getting in touch with the other party. I'd also advise that you gather as much proof as you can against his case, as well as giving PayPal a call.

M?xim - July 17, 2017, 7:08 pm

Cryptic is pretty good with PayPal. I am sure he will help you out if you catch him having spare time.

Sharjah - July 17, 2017, 7:35 pm

(Jul 17, 2017 07:06 PM)wisconsin Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'd advise getting in touch with the other party. I'd also advise that you gather as much proof as you can against his case, as well as giving PayPal a call.

Last time this happened I was able to win one of them, but it was only a $115 dispute and PayPal told me normally there's a 99% chance that sellers lose these due to evidence they can not gather. Had to go on Amazon live chat and screenshot the chat as proof and all that, but still, I feel like there's an easier way than sending enough proof you can when it comes to Amazon cards. There just has to be an easier way.

This is a business account made since 1998~ I believe.

perm - July 18, 2017, 12:48 am

An Amazon code? You mean you sold an Amazon gift card on eBay and the person charged back?

Aqzxc - July 18, 2017, 6:13 am

(Jul 17, 2017 07:35 PM)Vossen Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Last time this happened I was able to win one of them, but it was only a $115 dispute and PayPal told me normally there's a 99% chance that sellers lose these due to evidence they can not gather. Had to go on Amazon live chat and screenshot the chat as proof and all that, but still, I feel like there's an easier way than sending enough proof you can when it comes to Amazon cards. There just has to be an easier way.

This is a business account made since 1998~ I believe.

Honestly, I didn't want to tell you this, but I think you might be SOL. It's going to be extremely difficult to win your dispute, so the best option is getting it cancelled by the buyer.

ProtectNull™ - July 18, 2017, 6:25 am

2 months till he disputed it? What for? The code didn't work?

If so why did it take 2 months for him to dispute it?

vaiperboy - July 18, 2017, 6:27 am

(Jul 18, 2017 06:25 AM)ProtectNull™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) 2 months till he disputed it? What for? The code didn't work?

If so why did it take 2 months for him to dispute it?he got broke after 2 months xD

ProtectNull™ - July 18, 2017, 6:30 am

(Jul 18, 2017 06:27 AM)vaiperboy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) he got broke after 2 months xD
That's ridiculous for someone with an Amazon code to charge back two months later

hopeforme - July 18, 2017, 6:40 am

(Jul 18, 2017 06:27 AM)vaiperboy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) he got broke after 2 months xD

this is the most likely scenario then he decided to scam to earn $500, which is a lot of money.

ß|?cksí-í?d?w™ - July 18, 2017, 5:17 pm

That's very sad , but if its Digital delivery then you lost it . But you may ask PayPal about the logic of chargeback after 2 months for this , if he disputed Item not as described or working . If he issued CB from his Card company then you already lost it , since it will never go to your favor if that's digital item . Did he left positive feedback on you for this trade ?

Xepher The Cat - July 18, 2017, 5:31 pm

(Jul 18, 2017 05:17 PM)ß|?cksí-í?d?w™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's very sad , but if its Digital delivery then you lost it . But you may ask PayPal about the logic of chargeback after 2 months for this , if he disputed Item not as described or working . If he issued CB from his Card company then you already lost it , since it will never go to your favor if that's digital item . Did he left positive feedback on you for this trade ?

PayPal protects digital sellers now. Did he send it as good and services?

test - July 18, 2017, 5:39 pm

Contact Amazon, explain your situation and kindly just ask if the code was redeemed and when it was redeemed. I'm not sure if they can provide that kind of information but it will help you immensely.