The buy-in price for Novus Ordo Seclorum is $25 PayPal or Bitcoin. To purchase, simply PM one of the two owners.

Each buy-in comes with a 30-day guarantee, meaning that after you purchase, the group will not be sold for at least 30-days.

When are you guys going to be hosting a regular recruitment?

Honestly we've hosted a few and didn't like the results. Our current approach is if you guys pay to be in our group then we should expect you to care about the group and remain active. So to answer your question, the next recruitment is undetermined.

Fair enough mate. Best of luck!

Not trying to sound like an asshole because I like the idea of your group, but how can you say you're a 'highly exclusive club' when you accept buy-ins?

Good luck guys, not a dig whatsoever, just a general question.

Nah I have nothing against them or the group man, just curious how you can accept buy-ins yet call yourself a highly exclusive club.

You said there was a previous owner, now there is a new one. I don't see what the problem is? If you don't like the buy-in then just don't post, that's what I do with revolution who haven't even had a recruitment yet and are just doing buy-ins.

Hi, I'd like to correct you. We have had free recruitments and have now moved on to buyins. What is your issue?

Keep your drama off of my thread. We have had recruitment, it didn't work as planned. Now its buy in only.

7 members in our group right now. When you join a country club it is exclusive to the members and you pay a fee to be apart of those members right?

Thats not relevant at all, Bandors has nothing to do with this group it was sold to me and zSerity.

As a fellow owner/leader (not sure of your position) I am sure you know how threads can get in this section. Wasn't trying to be a dick I would just like to stay on topic :)

tf it's not there's a competition to sell the most membership spots you shouldn't look at some other completely unrelated group as a competitor because they aren't

That's a very valid point. Although, there needs to be something that makes it worth the exclusivity. I'm not saying there isn't by any means, I have no idea what's on the inside of the group.

edit: just noticed the subforums. if ran correctly that would be an exclusive asset.

Yeah, but this is HackForums.net an Internet forum.

That was not a good example to use.

The group has done a couple recruitment already, this is the first time buy-ins are being offered for basic membership. I don't see what the problem is to be honest?

You obviously didn't read what he said the ones we had before were $100 for gambling membership and our tipster service. Doesn't matter though anyways, we can sell buyins if we want.

"being offered for basic membership"
