

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Dropped my phone in the lake

IzzyJohnson - July 19, 2017, 5:49 am

Just great. Went out with friends the other day to the lake behind their house and we were messing around in their paddle boat and it fell in! I was able to retrieve it but its been acting funky ever since. So now it finally crapped out on me and it doesnt even turn on :(RIP my S7 ?

canine - July 19, 2017, 5:50 am

Boo. The same thing happened to me back when the iPhone 3gs was poppin. Maybe you could have saved it if you buried it in rice afterwards.

IzzyJohnson - July 19, 2017, 5:51 am

(Jul 19, 2017 05:50 AM)w342 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Boo. The same thing happened to me back when the iPhone 3gs was poppin. Maybe you could have saved it if you buried it in rice afterwards.

I did. It sat there for like a whole day and a half. Thats how it lasted a few days then finally poof its ded.

True Money - July 19, 2017, 5:53 am

Did the same with my iPhone 4S a few years ago...

I was skating in Singapore and it fell out my pocket into a lake...

I was so mad so I bought an Gal S6 lul.

Fruitcake - July 19, 2017, 5:54 am

Damn dude... rip rip rip... I hate when I break a phone like its the worst thing ever... Im on it all the time

Debugger - July 19, 2017, 5:54 am i think you should put into in a rice bag for few hours it may help u lol i recovered my phone once like that but it was didn't dropped on lake but sink lmfao

B?ue - July 19, 2017, 5:59 am

Leave it to dry for a few days, don't chuck it. It might come back to life!

I found an old Ipod in a bush during heavy rain and it didn't turn on. I still kept it and like.. ages later It turned on.

SEOAaron - July 19, 2017, 6:00 am

Wow that sucks haha. Feel your pain

Arkks - July 19, 2017, 6:08 am i dropped my phone is a bucket of hot water and disinfectant stuff and it was surprisingly working after. the sound was muffled but after a few hours in rice is was back to regular. i had that phone untill last week when i lost it in my house lol even posted a thread on it.

JillianV - July 19, 2017, 6:16 am

RIP your phone OP :(

Did it slip from your hands or was it on a surface when it fell in the lake?

Reeko - July 19, 2017, 6:42 am i dropped my nokia 320 in the water and it still worked after being in there for 30 minutes

i'm happy my customers can still ring me for their drug desires

IzzyJohnson - July 19, 2017, 6:46 am

(Jul 19, 2017 06:16 AM)JillianV Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) RIP your phone OP :(

Did it slip from your hands or was it on a surface when it fell in the lake?

It actually slipped out of my pocket :(

Marxist - July 19, 2017, 7:11 am

Do you have insurance on your phone? Check your bill

Eagerkid - July 19, 2017, 8:16 am

I have dropped my phone fishing so many times :(it sucks

snappari2 - July 19, 2017, 8:40 am

You should try putting it in a bag of rice for 1 day.

IzzyJohnson - July 19, 2017, 9:02 am

(Jul 19, 2017 08:40 AM)snappari2 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You should try putting it in a bag of rice for 1 day.

I did for like a whole day and a half. It worked for a but and finally stopped working on me :(

R3VOLT - July 19, 2017, 9:12 am

S7's should be waterproof. Did you crack it beforehand?

IzzyJohnson - July 19, 2017, 9:39 am

(Jul 19, 2017 09:12 AM)R3VOLT Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) S7's should be waterproof. Did you crack it beforehand?

They are not waterproof they are water resistant. The deeper in the lake the more pressure.

boost - July 19, 2017, 9:40 am

Two of my buddies dropped their phones in the lake to yesterday, RIP.