Thread: Gold farmers | Is it profitable?

thePoltergeist - July 19, 2017, 7:57 am

Hi all,

To start with I am a complete RS NOOB! I have seen a few people making good money from farming gold using scripts.

Do you have any opinons on this? Is it profitable?

It can be if you know what you are doing, but there is a startup cost (VPS, VPN, Scripts (If you can't code), client)

There is also a difference in p2p & f2p bot farming. F2P requires less of an investement but there is a higher risk in getting banend and making less profit. While P2P requires membership, but will likely be running longer (doesn't have to) and makes you more money in the long term.

But you need ALOT of bots to even make a "decent" amount of money.

It's profitable if you know what you're doing and have a really good setup.

I wouldn't suggest doing it if you don't have an investment for accounts/vps/proxies.

To be success at anything, you need to be knowledgeable on the topic. I would suggest you learn the game inside and out before you try farming gold. In order to farm gold you're going to have to invest money in VPNs, Private scripts (Last much longer than public scripts), and possibly accounts depending on your methods. There is a large market and many people are successful at farming. Just research everything you can.

botting is all about niche things that come from your knowledge of the game.
