Thread: Is there a way to get in contact with owner of Amazon

Themis - July 19, 2017, 12:21 pm

Or someone from his close team. I would like help on this manner. To get in personal phone call with account specialist or someone similar. Not just regular customer service who can't do anything, if anyone has any knowledge on how to approach this let me know.

thePoltergeist - July 19, 2017, 12:22 pm

Your absoloute best bet is probably Twitter!

Trappy - July 19, 2017, 12:22 pm

I suppose if you call customer service and insist to speak to a supervisor, then tell the supervisor what you have to say, and if he considers it important enough he may let you talk to someone higher up, and so on and so forth.

Not sure if there's a direct way to contact the CEO, if there is it probably takes months for a reply.

Biker BoyZ - July 19, 2017, 12:23 pm

Social Media is your best bet , They reply if something bad happened. it may take time but they normally comment saying" Hi User, We fully apologised this has happened blah blah, Please PM us blah blah"

Yeah he's an AGC buyer, but not all AGC's get scammed/carded. Sometimes they're SE'ed which in their system shows up as legit js. Maybe it's a legit reason, for a legit issue?

If you forward your email chain with Amazon support to him, You will get a response. He's gotta be one of the best CEOs.

The Sanity - July 20, 2017, 1:34 am

Send him a PM on HF, he usually responds to those.

ßj?cksí-í?d?w™ - July 20, 2017, 8:07 pm

Don't think you will able to contact Owner of Amazon lol , Amazon not small company and they has lot of customer service steps for customers . So i am afraid you have to go through with customer service only . But you may give a try " jeff@amazon.com " ?

Yea I have had the same problem it is annoying as fuck, and account specialist do not have a phone support either, i've tried myself for most of june trying to contact them I just gave up because they send the same automated shit back every time I send an email and let them have my $475 agc, that was a big hit to me.

Eagerkid - July 21, 2017, 7:21 am

"owner of Amazon" Amazon is a publicly traded stock, so there are thousands and thousands of "owners". I am assuming you mean the CEO etc, in which your best bet would be to tweet at him or something. The issue is that his time is extremely valuable, and Amazon has many people that are hired in customer support to help you. So the chances are slim that you would be able to talk with the CEO if that is what your going for.

Jeff Bezos is worth $87.3B + he wouldnt even set up a meeting to talk with you for 15 minutes for $200k, so your chances are very thin

Mr. Robot - July 21, 2017, 7:23 am

If you can explain to me what the problem is, I can get you in touch with someone who can assist-provided your reason is valid and worthy.

luke - July 21, 2017, 7:25 am

Jeff Bezos is known for reading and responding to emails if they are worth responding to, it's commonly known that his assistant reads all emails coming through and then Jeff forwards them to high-up positions that can deal with them.

Bombaclut - July 21, 2017, 7:27 am

Themis,

While the traditional methods of sending him a direct message or emailing him are great, I would highly suggest writing a letter to him. For the simple fact that him being he is bombarded on all digital mediums, so an offline medium might help you stand out.

So pen a letter to him on what your issue is about and send it to the following address - Jeff Bezos, Amazon HQ, 410 Terry Ave. North, Seattle, WA, 98109-5210

If you are not able to draft something outstanding and want some help in it, do get in touch with The Indian Handwritten Letter Co. maybe they could do it for you. Hope this helps.

If you are referring to Peter Thiel, I dont believe he works with paypal anymore as he sold it and isnt on any board to my knowledge. Zero to One is a very good book if you havent read it, talks a little about Paypal

Yeah he doesn't. And yeah thats a very good book - the e myth is also a good one

Elitas - July 21, 2017, 2:44 pm

Contacting customer service, immediately proving you are a paying customer, and the requesting a supervisor, who you then explain your situation to, and they should be able to assist you.

Themis - July 22, 2017, 6:55 am will try the letter thing beside that tried everything else

True Money - July 22, 2017, 7:29 am

What did your Amazon account get banned lmao ?

Monie - July 22, 2017, 11:26 pm

Jeff Bezos does not give a single fuck about you.

I find it odd that you won't even explain why you need to speak with a higher-up.

test - July 22, 2017, 11:28 pm

Try social media. I doubt you will get anywhere you need to go just by contacting customer support. You could always call customer support and ask the best way to go about it?

Or answer Mr. Robot's question

Ratt - August 7, 2017, 3:34 pm

Wait is all of this literally because of a gift card?

bdawn - August 7, 2017, 3:36 pm

Assuming this is legit, get in touch with a partner/associate/third party company and see if you can move on from there.

Could always try social media...

vaiperboy - August 7, 2017, 3:37 pm

what kind of dumb question is that OP?

just call the guy using his phone number, jeez. idiots everywhere

Bear - August 7, 2017, 3:41 pm

I could possibly help you with this if it is a legit concern where someone high up in Amazon needs to be contacted. Which dept is concerned with this?

4158996621556 - August 7, 2017, 3:43 pm

I know you've already tried everything but have you tried adding him on Discord?

Jokes aside, I think the 3rd richest man in the world would be pretty busy.

I really don't think you should be contacting him for a simple giftcard issue (if that's the case)

Maybe if you found a way to exploit the gift card system / amazon itself.
But even then, I don't think you can have a one-on-one conversation.
He'll forward you to bla bla bla team and bla bla bla department

I dont see a solution for this kind of matter, I had exactly the same issue with invalid gift card and my amazon account has been reinstated after a year or so. I have tried everything exepct sending him a latter lol
