Thread: Post to PM

Rule is no longer in-effect. It has been removed from Help Docs. If I missed it somewhere LMK.

Dotexe - July 22, 2017, 2:14 am

Good change Omni, will you bring this back in the future ?

NurSpec - July 22, 2017, 2:15 am

Damn, Omni going nuts with all of the updates and changes today. Good decision again, agree totally with the removal of this policy.

test - July 22, 2017, 2:16 am

Never saw many people violating this rule anyway and when they did it wasn't a huge thing. Glad you are taking the time to revise the rules and prune the irrelevant or otherwise pointless ones.

@Omni

6. No "Post here to PM me" type threads.

It use to be a problem where threads were just running 1000 replies just for people to post "me too, can I get one" or worse. The MT in particular was horrible. The rule was placed to increase site quality. It's no longer needed though. I doubt the troubles will return.

Danny Khalifa - July 22, 2017, 2:25 am

Great news.

Thank you for the updates Omni!

Pronouncer - July 22, 2017, 3:31 am

I dislike this change... I made two threads unsure if I was allowed to and states all over it, if it was not allowed to tell me so I can change it and I got warned for it... #BringBackPost2Pm

Redwall - July 22, 2017, 3:32 am

Sounds good.

Thanks for the update.

Hell - July 22, 2017, 3:37 am

This is a good change omni. I don't see many people abusing this

1 BTC - July 22, 2017, 4:18 am

We are sorry but we require 25 quality posts to send a PM. Any LQP (Low Quality Post) spamming will result in a closed account. If you upgrade to L33t membership this requirement is removed.

Armada - July 22, 2017, 4:23 am

So, correct me if I am wrong, but your literally alleviating the few things we had to keep the shit posting to a minimum. And this help us, how? ?

Omni, I will only say I disagree...

snappari2 - July 22, 2017, 6:00 am

Sounds awesome didn't see many break this rule anyways

Riggs - July 22, 2017, 6:10 am

I really don't think this was a good idea.

To illustrate my reasons, here's my impression of why...

S?????i - July 22, 2017, 6:49 am

I never understood this rule fully. Never understood the wording of it.

?ictor? - July 22, 2017, 7:30 am

I too never got this rule, but glad it's gone. Hope everything stays HQ still.

Testing M - July 22, 2017, 7:33 am

It still says

Happeh - July 22, 2017, 8:29 am

Really hope people don't abuse the fact you've done this. Was awful back in the day so hope we don't repeat.

webdev77 - July 22, 2017, 8:46 am

Not personally a fan of this change, but I'll live with it.

Prince™ - July 22, 2017, 9:32 am

The post to pm rule isn't regarding the profile post requirement to send a PM, it refers to threads that require a user to post on the thread before receiving a PM with the free item.

sonex - July 22, 2017, 3:22 pm

Its your call however the amount of shitpost starting from now on will just degrade the quality of this forum.

Can't imagine the troubles won't return tho.
