Looking good, definitely a niche I haven't seen advertised here for a while, or at all.

If I had to change anything I'd ditch the Technology tab, focus mostly on your niche and technology kinda branches away from the business niche. For once a Marketplace actually belongs in this kind of forum(because it's all about business). Not sure how populated your forum is but it gives you one less section to populate if you removed the technology section.

Good luck with this.

The dark theme is really not a cool look for a general business forum, looks more warez and underground like, shady is the word I'm looking for.

I'd try going for a more light, professional look.

Anyway I'll sign up, I wanted to start something like this myself but never had the time.

Personal experience, there's way too much forums, making it feel big and empty.

I would (and have successfully) opened many forums in the past, and let it evolve with the users.

People wanna feel like they are a part, and not come to a table ready, and empty.

snappari2 - July 28, 2017, 5:58 am

Just signed up really nice forum site mate

Ice. - July 28, 2017, 6:07 am

Looks good, custom theme by Dynaxel, custom user bars, however as a guest not knowing anything about your forum I would recommend you allowing people like myself to view threads on index but not the actual thread, that way if I do see they're talking about this "method to become a successful businessman" it may lure people in rather than looking at your forum as a guest and seeing nothing but a theme, awards, and user bars.

edit #1: After further viewing your website it seems not all sections would be suitable to guests however currently, as a guest, when I look at your stats I see this:

So to fix this I would enable general sections like your community category (No one really posts anything too crazy there) Viewable or partially viewable.

Note: These are just suggestions to improve and not hate.

Nice Forum, great design. But you can change UPGRADE to yellow color, it will help you to attract people.

Logo isn't bad, it's simple and good. But it can have some color like the category buttons. Names of users and admins should have more color, it's to "simple"

If do you some changes it will be perfect.

Great looking! Interesting concept... a "business" forum is cool I have never seen it before. Keep it up!

I've been checking up a lot recently but the majority of the times I visit it's down, or crashes after first load.

axel - August 22, 2017, 10:25 am was about to check it out, but it's currently offline :(
