I ve seen this method before and even tried on some other online casino. It ended in the system giving me 14 loses in a row until I was not able to double it anymore. So I m not convinced it ll work. Still, thx for the share.

Really? I wanted to try it out :P . Also, how do I know this method will work in a specific casino?

many people think that this method will work, iv lost 7 times in a row before losing all my money. As past results dont have anything to do with the next result it means that mathematically its possible to lose 20 times in a row and even more. You will find that you will earn a lot of money at the start but the longer you bet the more that the law of averages takes place.

If you done believe me there was a rich guy that went to a casino and challenged them. if im correct it was at roulette (i cant remember correctly i read this in a book about the law of averages that i read a few weeks ago) and he basically entered the casino with 12 mill. the casino told him hes not allowed to leave into either he loses his 12 mill or he wins 12 mill from the casino's money. The guy was winning and made 10 mill profit then the law of averages came into place(as it does the longer you play) and he lost all of his 12 mill.

the moral of that story is that this method does not work because yes you will make some money at the start but the longer you play the more the law of averages comes into play and you will lose and the odds are against you.

btw there may be some grammer issues above sorry i typed this quick as im in a rush.

[edit] in the video description it says " impossible that you lose, because it's impossible to lose more than 7 times in a row in online Casinos." in games where the past result impacts the next result eg blackjack rules that this apply because once all the aces have been used(all 4 if you use 1 deck) its impossible for another to come out into there is a deck shuffle. games like roulette are not like that so technically it could land on red 100 times in a row even tho the chances are small theirs still mathematically a chance.

Ok thanks, so if I was going to invest, with the same strategy he uses in the video and the same website. What is the suggested amount for me to invest in order to have the least risk?

IWannaLearn144 - July 25, 2017, 1:40 pm your not investing your gambling and your will end up losing eventually 100%. the method you are trying to use is called the martingale method which is proven to not work in the long run. more info here

<https://www.bettingexpert.com/casino/roulette/strategy/martingale-system>

the reason casino's are still running is because they run on people like him who don't know the maths behind what they are doing they just look for a technique and bet.

think about it lets consider you are playing European roulette where there is one "0" and not two like there is on american roulette. when you bet on red or black you have a 47% chance of winning because the casino get the other colour and the green "0". this means that the casino have a 53% chance of winning on every bet. this might seem small but as the law of averages states that in the long run the odds will go against you and you will lose. if this technique works so good why is everyone not doing it? casino's are not stupid.

How would this actually work? The max bet you can see on the roulette table is €10. This strategy is called "Martingale". The max bet is set in place to stop people doing it.

it doesn't work, and yes casinos have been doing max bets for this reason. you will see they do it on blackjack and other tables too.

if you did want this method to work i suggest just doing it to you earn $15-$20 then never do it again. that way you have only played for a short amount of time allowing the law of averages to not impact them as much. the longer they play the more the law of averages takes place.

if you want to make money from the casino i would recommend blackjack. its based on skill and not just luck like roulette or slot machines and if you know how to play well you can lower the casino advantage all the way down to about 0.05 depending on how many decks of cards that table uses.

the worst casino games are games like slots or roulette because there is no skill involved only luck.
