Thread: Firefox Exploit Generator - CVE-2013-1670/CVE-2013-1710

prilux - July 28, 2017, 4:38 am

This is a toolkit to generate Firefox exploits that works on Firefox from version 15.0 to version 23.0 on Windows.

Note: You will need to obfuscate or encode the result generated in order to avoid or reduce antivirus detection. Also both generators have the exploits in plain text therefore they may be detected. (Don't trust, check the source before using them)

The purpose of both generators is to offer to beginners a easy way to generate custom exploit code for this two vulnerabilities without requiring coding. (Just Copy/Paste or simple batch programming)

Yeah "PM me for download" bullshit and please give the fucking credits you did not make this, Privateloader did.

HiddenEyE - July 28, 2017, 7:17 am i can bet that this exploit does not still work on recent firefox.

"that works on Firefox from version 15.0 to version 23.0 on Windows"

Current version: 54.0

You don't have to be a PC mastermind in order to realize that you should first read the 1st sentence in a thread before making a dumb statement regarding the thread, lmao..

why are you updating this thread, having in mind that the exploit attached to the published tool is old prilux - August 8, 2017, 5:47 am

This payload was something i came up but didn't had it published yet.
