Thread: 14-Year-Old Girl Was Raped Twice In One Night

RainbowHentAi - July 28, 2017, 5:52 pm

Quote:A 14-year-old girl was raped twice in one night in separate attacks at a British train station, authorities said.

On Friday, detectives released surveillance images of two men they're seeking to interview in connection with the assaults, which took place Tuesday night in Birmingham. A description was also provided for a third man.

"We are now doing all we can to trace the people responsible and bring them to justice," senior investigating officer DCI Tony Fitzpatrick said in a statement. "This was a horrifying ordeal for this young girl and we have specially trained officers supporting her."

According to British Transport Police, the girl was with a friend at the Witton rail station in Birmingham around 7 p.m. Tuesday. A man approached her and took her to a secluded part of the station, then raped her, police said.

British Transport Police

He was described as an Asian man in his early 20s with light skin and brown eyes, with a skinny build and approximately 6 feet tall. The man was wearing a gray track suit with black running shoes, police said.

A second man may have been present during what lead up to the rape, police said. He was described as an Asian man in his early 20s with a heavy build and tight beard, about 5 feet, 6 inches or 5 feet, 7 inches tall. He was wearing a blue top with long sleeves and black jeans.

British Transport Police

The girl left the station around 2 a.m., and was disoriented. She then flagged down a vehicle, and after getting into the car, she was raped again, police said.

The man in the vehicle was describe as a heavy set man with large biceps and approximately 5 feet, 6 inches tall, police said.

Transport police as well as the West Midlands police are asking residents to come forward if they saw a suspicious vehicle around the station, or anything else unusual. Since the crimes were first publicized this week, police said they've already received some new information.

"A number of people have got in touch and I am extremely grateful to them," Fitzpatrick said

Classic Birmingham, wouldn't step foot into a train station after 6 o'clock. Horrific situation though, feel really bad for the girl, such a sketchy place to live in.

Unfortunately that won't happen, but will happen is when they're hopefully arrested, jailed the other inmates will find out what they did and f*ck them up.

Something sounds seriously off, it could be just me but this sounds like classic prostitution, just by looking at the times & the situation alone.

Just looked at the source, looks like there were cameras, so probably identified her the next day and she said rape obviously, the only way this shit seems even remotely connected is prostitution, including the car

Hydra - July 29, 2017, 10:31 am

Like 2 others, I'm also questioning this. Doesn't make sense. The chances of this happening is so... Idk. Something is off. She might not be telling the truth. Did her friend just leave her after she got raped? Why weren't they together? And the chance of you flagging a car with a rapist in it is near impossible. She's either super fucking unlucky and truly feel bad for her or she's a prostitute.

Predators locate these type of people, they want people that they can plan their actions with.

If you think at 14 you have usually been at your secondary/high school for 1-2 years, it's not that uncommon to travel alone at that age. I used to take a 45minute bus journey twice a day from the age of 12 to get to school. It was public transport too, not a designated school bus, so I spent an extra 30minutes-1hour per day waiting for arrival.

Why does a 14 yr old girl traveling alone not have a cell phone? I didn't read the article posted because I saw it on the news. It was never mentioned that she had a cellphone. Not saying the guy would let her keep it but, she could called someone after the first incident. It's odd more detail hasn't been released yet.
