Thread: If you could choose an animal to live as, which one would you choose? and why?

Acta - July 31, 2017, 10:27 pm

I'd most likely choose to be a Great White Shark.

The reasoning behind in wanting to be a Great White is because I'd stay away from all humans and be a to myself Great White Shark and not attack anyone and enjoy the ocean life. :)

What would you wanna be?

Steve - July 31, 2017, 10:29 pm

I have never really thought about which one, but I would most definitely be some type of bird. Probably like an eagle or a hawk. Reason being is because the miracle of flight.

Enchantress - August 3, 2017, 4:44 pm

I would have to say I'd choose to be a dolphin. Why you ask? Well dolphins are like the 2nd smartest species besides humans, plus they get to swim all day and night long which would be awesome. And I'd really love to explore the ocean to the fullest. Those are just a few reasons I'd like to be a dolphin.

Oh and echo location would be pretty bad ass too!

A human because we are the smartest creatures to ever exist. Any other animal doesn't have the mind capacity to even ask a question, yes humans are the only creatures that are capable of asking a question. The human mind is so crazy and we don't even know that much about it yet.
