Thread: Instagram/Twitter Profile UI Design

AvessoVision - August 2, 2017, 12:56 pm

I haven't done anything lately and I needed to practice a bit before engaging with other projects.
This is a combination of Twitter and Instagram that focuses on a scroll down mixed gallery that can be used to post anything from plain text to links, videos, photos and such.

Novica makes an appearance out of the sudden.

I am aware of the blue being a bit too bright on the hashtags.
Thought I fixed that already.

The initial design had a few variations until this one came along.
Although not entirely pleased with it, but it will still end up in my portfolio.

I really like the dark one!

Love both of them. I think the darker one flows better though, something about the brighter one doesn't work out for me. Maybe it's the blue.

They both are amazing.

I want it!

Thank you,
The white ones needs better coloring or at least work on the shade of blue.

Thank you,
Although they're not for sale.

Yay, new follower! :3

Looks great. I prefer the right version, but the left one looks just as good.

The only thing I 'd change is the shade of blue(tags), kinda having a hard time reading "kdot" and "loyalty".

Thank you,

Indeed, I've been having a hard time reading them well, although thinking on changing the blue completely with something more appealing to the white background.

Maybe pink, from that other version?

Would look pretty dope IMO. :3

Ditch the outdated shadow.

Why does the button fall off the edge of the page?

Fix the odd spacing between the text.

I would advise researching more UI projects on dribbble, behance, and various blogs to pick up techniques and styles from, it will help you begin to design things better.

Overall a decent attempt, keep up the creativity.

I'm using the shadow to give depth to all of my flat UI. It's also a pattern I'm following for a new portfolio.

Button does not fall, it was envisioned like so. If you payed attention, you'd see the avatar being positioned the same way.

There is no odd spacing between texts. It had different values on different segments.

Will take notice on my next project.

I don't need dribbble or other blogs. I am only using instagram when I need some inspiration, but I do not want other people's techniques since I am self-taught and I like improving on my own on every aspect while practicing.

Although I'd like to thank you for your time on pointing these out.

They might not be visible to me, but I will take notice of these issues as I proceed with my next UI soon.
