Does your client know this isn't your original sketch?

It's ok to do them for your personal use, but don't go commercial with other people's ideas or images.

The coloring and shading looks good at least.

I've always enjoyed your work.

Great job

The coloring is good even though shades could definitely use some work. Some of them kinda look weird - some parts are rounded while other parts are sharp.

But if this is not your original sketch, you had very little to do with it, so claiming it as your own work without linking the original sketch as a reference is a shitty thing to do. On top of that, you sold this, again, as your own work, even though you "stole" the idea from someone else. Have you no shame?

Ay, go ahead and call me a hater.

if that's the problem , can edit op and post the reference there .

anyway , on topic , the colors are chosen by client .
thanks for your critique tho..

Well, yeah, it kinda is a problem, don't you agree? Giving credits to the original author is a must IMO.
Just put yourself in that situation. If someone stole your work and claims it as his/her own

Also, like I said, coloring is good, so your client did a good job picking the colors. You are the one who messed up some of the shapes(of the shades) - obviously not a big deal, but since you posted this in a RMG, thought I'd help. Gj.
