Thread: Revolution | Official Recruitment | - #1

Meow - August 4, 2017, 6:27 pm

The Revolution's main focus is just having a great time. The Revolution promises sanctuary to those who need it on HF. The group will focus on various topics such as Gaming, Marketing, and even Crypto discussions. The topics aren't limited to just those as Revolution is open to any and all discussions. If you're looking for a relaxing and laid back group, and not worry about having to put effort into a project for the group that will probably never be used then this is it. Join the Revolution, come make new friends and just have a great time.

How to join?

Fill out the form listed below:

Please do not PM me applications, post them below.

Questions?

Post them below or PM one of the leaders.

UPDATE!!:

Quote:If your application is quoted down you've put some time in your application and/or I like your profile. Vyrez is going to read everything over once more and then we will decide who will get in and who wont.

If your app is not below don't worry, this is only the first reading, we'll go thru applications atleast 2-3 more times before adding anyone. ?

edit: seems like vyrez will not be reading these, only me. ?

I originally joined Hack Forums because I was really into the whole Minecraft griefing scene and everyone told me that this was the best place to find hacked clients. After joining, I soon realized that Hack Forums was more than that and that it had a lot more to offer me.

Why should we accept you? I'm not gonna beat around the bush, if I am accepted, Revolution will gain a chill member who is always down to make friends, and contribute where I am needed. I will regularly produce content for the group in public forums, and within the group's private sub forum.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I will increase the overall value of the group, in my opinion, because the group will be gaining a member who isn't just looking to make his profile look cooler, but its genuinely looking for a community that he can bond with. I'm looking to meet people and be a part of something, and contribute in any ways I can.

Why do you want to join Revolution? I want to be a part of something that will add value to my internet browsing experience. I really just want to be a part of something where I can gain close friends, and contribute in a genuine way.

(Aug 5, 2017 07:49 AM)Lukas Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Why & how did you join HackForums?

Nearly 6 years ago, I was the average 12-year-old computer nerd who thought that DDoSing someone was considered hacking. I joined this forum because I wanted to expand my knowledge about general hacking and further my capabilities. In the long run, even though this was not the case, I still adapted to the forum and picked up common interests among users in the community. If my memory serves me correctly, I made my way onto the notorious search engine Google, and typed in the keywords: "hacking, forum." This is when I met my first love.

Why should we accept you?

I am a very active and involved member of the site, I will partake in discussions, offer my services when needed, and provide quality material in, and out of the sub forum. I enjoy meeting new people, offering advice, and discussing any topic that sparks my interest. I'm a very opinionated and self-respected user, but I know my limits when it comes to discussion. I state my opinion in a kind manner and am considerate of the other's view, as I always try to look at a point from their perspective.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I have substantially large plans for my future here, and I would love to assist Revolution's name in doing so. I will bring myself: a hardworking, active, self-motivated, developer, designer, and young adult. The possibilities to enhance the group's stature are endless; therefore, I would fit amazingly.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

Revolution has been an organization that I've only wished about joining. I wasn't sure if I'd ever have the opportunity, and even if I did, if I was a pristine enough to join this respected group. When posting in any section, I always see a member(s) from Revolution on the thread. I believe you one of the most active and involved groups on the forum, which I heavily respect and believe could contribute to your crusade.

I was recently asked this question again by a member of Revolution and this was my response:

Spoiler (Click to View) Overall it just looks like a great group to be in. I considered buying into it, but I've never bought into a group before and decided to take the gamble of waiting for a recruitment. I respect the group's activity most importantly, but to throw some additional reasons as to why, I'd have to say because of the image that it portrays. It's lead and owned by a respectable user who is actually involved with the forum, rather than just milking it for rep and money. From what I can tell, it looks like one of the groups that has its shit together unlike most.

during 2016. I was not active, and I was a leecher. I did not take this forum serious until Formal told me that he uses it. I was not very big on forums before I started using HF. I think I thought of them as pointless and outdated, but being on HF has changed my opinion on them. I honestly think that if it was not for my friend, I would not even be using HF right now.

Why should we accept you? I like to think of myself as a chill person. I get along with pretty much everyone that is not a dick. I try to treat all members the same whether they are upgraded or not. I am very respectful towards other members, and I do not sales trash. I try to help new members out by showing the the Help Documents so they can get a better understanding on the rules of HF.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I can bring my good attitude and friendliness. I have a problem with very few members on this forum. I have a good attitude and try to bring good vibes everywhere that I go. I do not really have an ego online. I tend to try to be funny, so I can also bring some comedy in to the group. I also play video games, so I could bond with other members via gaming.

Why do you want to join Revolution? Revolution seems like a chill group to be in. The members that are already in the group seem to be laid back and chill members that do not cause any problems for the other members on this site. I want to surround myself with good vibes, and Revolution seems like the right group to fit in.

I originally joined Hackforums when one of my friends here on HF had introduced me to it and I generally was curious about the whole concept about it so I ended up signing up and have been here since.

Why should we accept you?

I feel as I would be a great asset to the group as my qualities can better improve the group in general. I love motivating and speaking with others and this would be great to have within the group. Not only this, but I do have a passion for gaming on top of this and it would be nice to find others with this same passion to interact with them and speak of some games we both find in common. I recently had started by business online and had managed to make thousands in months. I recently had started my business online and had managed to make thousands in months. After starting up on HF, I posted a thread in which I offered to help others succeed in their business and give them insight on how I started mine (what I do etc.). I have PM'ed and helped over 150+ users now and it is something I definitely want to keep doing.

The thread can be found here: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5567491>

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I can definitely be a positive vibe within the sub-group and outside of it to encourage positivity all around the group.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I wish to join Revolution to simply encourage motivation and positive vibes throughout the sub-group. I love interacting with others on a day-to-day basis and I feel as if I can do that best within a group that shares the same encouragement as me.

Percyi - August 4, 2017, 6:44 pm

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined about 3 years ago in hopes of learning more about RAtIng and in general, hacking. I was introduced to HackForums by a person I met over Skype who directed me to this website to learn more. Been here ever since. HackForums is very unique in its own way such that the community is very kind, giving, and informative. Whereas on other sites I have been on, no community is this large and organized.

Why should we accept you? I am a very loyal, hardworking, and kind member. I love to help people. I have a passion and drive to do whatever I can to help myself as well as this community grow. I am very interested in learning whatever I can and I can consider myself very active and eager to learn more in the Cryptocurrency sector as well as the Gaming sector. Revolution seems like an amazing group with great leaders and great members, and it is a group that I want to be a part of.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I am great at writing and I am very active. I love learning whatever I can and I think that I can make Revolution better than it already is. I enjoy doing whatever I can to help grow the community and as a part of Revolution, it would help me along that path.

Why do you want to join Revolution? Revolution seems like a great group to be a part of and I would surely want to be a part of it as well. I consider myself a team player and I am very social and active in the community. I am very eager and excited to learn whatever Revolution can and will teach me. Can't wait to see what this group has in store for HF.

Yandere - August 4, 2017, 6:57 pm

Glad to see you guys are recruiting.

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined because I saw some people talking about it on Twitter and got curious so I decided to check out the site. After joining I realized that this site was about more than hacking and that I had various topics I could discuss with other members so I decided to stay around here.

Why should we accept you? I think you should accept me because I'm a kind and active member both within and out of groups sf's so you don't have to worry about me being inactive. I also avoid drama and don't start any on here so you won't have to worry about me starting anything with your members or non-group members.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I can bring a friendly attitude and a willingness to make new friends with your group members, I'm always down to talk about whatever.

Why do you want to join Revolution? It seems like a fun, HQ group that has similar interests such as I do like gaming and making new friends on HF, have a nice laid back time with your group.

Thanks for reading and taking time to consider my application. ?

Revolution Application

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I joined HackForums a while back when I was still into E-Whoring. As soon as I joined HF, I quickly moved out of that field seeing what a vast array of options were available besides that nasty way of stealing money! I've heard of HF many times from friends and on the sites that I was active on in the past, so I decided to sign up. I obviously love it here greatly!

Why should we accept you?

I feel as if I'd be a great and active addition to the group. I have interest in a very wide variety of topics (gaming, technology, cryptos, business...) and feel as if I can bring content to the group wherever is need be. I have a ton of free-time on my hands, and I'd love to meet some new people and have a great time.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

Well, as said above, I'd be very active. I'd love to share a lot of knowledge with the group and the website as a whole under the groups name!

Why do you want to join Revolution?

Being apart of Revolution just seems like a perfect fit for myself. I've been in a few other groups in the past, but none really interested me as much as Revolution does. They were always based on solid topics and/or not kept together well. Revolution is a place where I can discuss many topics that I enjoy talking about!

Why do you want to join Revolution? To be fair, a lot of members from an old dead group is here, and I've heard a lot of good things such as how social, active and crazy the group is and that would fit me well. Being surrounded by a lot of like-minded, social and crazy people is what I enjoy about this forum. Furthermore, it's the reason why I am able to stay active, having a place I know I can post in every day.

Why & how did you join HackForums?

Nearly 6 years ago, I was the average 12-year-old computer nerd who thought that DDoSing someone was considered hacking. I joined this forum because I wanted to expand my knowledge about general hacking and further my capabilities. In the long run, even though this was not the case, I still adapted to the forum and picked up common interests among users in the community. If my memory serves me correctly, I made my way onto the notorious search engine Google, and typed in the keywords: "hacking, forum." This is when I met my first love.

Why should we accept you?

I am a very active and involved member of the site, I will partake in discussions, offer my services when needed, and provide quality material in, and out of the sub forum. I enjoy meeting new people, offering advice, and discussing any topic that sparks my interest. I'm a very opinionated and self-respected user, but I know my limits when it comes to discussion. I state my opinion in a kind manner and am considerate of the other's view, as I always try to look at a point from their perspective.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I have substantially large plans for my future here, and I would love to assist Revolution's name in doing so. I will bring myself: a hardworking, active, self-motivated, developer, designer, and young adult. The possibilities to enhance the group's stature are endless; therefore, I would fit amazingly.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

Revolution has been an organization that I've only wished about joining. I wasn't sure if I'd ever have the opportunity, and even if I did, if I was a pristine enough to join this respected group. When posting in any section, I always see a member(s) from Revolution on the thread. I believe you one of the most active and involved groups on the forum, which I heavily respect and believe could contribute to your crusade.

I was recently asked this question again by a member of Revolution and this was my response:

Spoiler (Click to View) Overall it just looks like a great group to be in. I considered buying into it, but I've never bought into a group before and decided to take the gamble of waiting for a recruitment. I respect the group's activity most importantly, but to throw some additional reasons as to why, I'd have to say because of the image that it portrays. It's lead and owned by a respectable user who is actually involved with the forum, rather than just milking it for rep and money. From what I can tell, it looks like one of the groups that has its shit together unlike most.

Varane - August 5, 2017, 7:58 am

Looking forward to seeing some fresh faces in the group.

Elitas - August 5, 2017, 7:58 am

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I joined HackForums because I wanted to learn more about Kali Linux and penetration testing. I really wanted to delve into CyberSecurity.

I joined this forum through a simple google search when I was looking for resources to learn from.

Why should we accept you?

You should accept me to this group because of my skills and qualities that make me unique.

Everyone is differentiated based on what they know and what they can do. Therefore, you should accept me for my qualities.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I can bring my skillset, and I will provide help to everyone that needs it regarding the following.

- Graphic Design
- Programming
- Writing

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I want to join Revolution because I want to be apart of a group. I looked through most of the groups and Revolution "fit the bill."

Thank you for reading my application, I decided to keep it short, sweet, and simple. Best of luck to everyone applying!

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I found out about HF while I was on vacation in freshman year of high school. I was extremely interested in making money and the various exploits in games/code. Currently I am a senior in high school and i'm very involved in the crypto scene and an extremely active currency exchanger.

Why should we accept you?

I should be accepted because I believe that HF is a very active community with different people that I'd want to meet and chill with. I'd love to talk about different topics in gaming or crypto or help online group members out with a currency exchange. Im online a lot so I can take part in any discussions or talks.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

Revolution seems like the perfect group for just about anything. If I was in the group I'd mostly be chilling with other members or talking about Gaming/Cryptocurrency. If possible I can be a middleman or exchange AGC/BTC.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I want to join Revolution because I want to experience being part of a good group that can discuss about interesting topics/subjects. I want to be a part of a community that I can contribute in and learn new things from. Out of most groups I see in the section, I strongly believe that this one is the right choice for me.

Why & how did you join HackForums? honestly, don't remember why, but I was coding a lot and google told me there was info here. The how, is I put in my info and hit a button, likely was submit but I don't recall.

Why should we accept you? I am a pretty hq member here, mature but not anal lol.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I guess that would be for us both to find out, pretty sure I'd be a benefit overall tho.

Why do you want to join Revolution? Just looking to meet new people, chill. Laff, maybe teach a bit, help and learn a bit. I know from experience hf groups can help make tight knit friends.

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I joined HF about three months ago, a good friend of mine addressed me here. I was really into cyber related stuff such as hacking, mostly bruteforcing and that's why I joined.

Why should we accept you?

I find my self to be a pretty decent guy, fun to hang around with, trustworthy, loyal, active user, very friendly, helpful and mature.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I'd like to share my knowledge on tech related stuff and also learn new things from the group members.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I like the fact that the group offers a relaxing place, with cool /friendly people to hang around, talk with and that is open to all dicussions. Seems like the best choice for me.

PS: I know that I'm new to this forum, no reputation, but I guess I deserve a chance so I can prove you guys that I'm worthy.

Thanks in advance.

Nebo - August 5, 2017, 1:29 pm

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined HackForums in February of this year since I felt quite lonely. I came to an idea that I should find some cool communities to join and learn a bit more about hacking while socializing with like-minded individuals at the same time. Thus, I found out about HackForums and I did not regret the decision to join this site ever since.

Why should we accept you? To be quite frank with you, there's no special reason to accept me. More so, there's reasons not to accept me. I'm a LQ person - I'm true to my own emotions and I don't care about appearing HQ in front of the community.All I care about is to have a good time on here. Thus, it's up to you. I'd love to get accepted however if you can't appreciate me as I am, there's no point in lying in the application. However, I do hold some positive sides - I have a major interest in CPA,online entrepreneurship, cryptocurrencies and technology in general. I have some knowledge and I'm willing to discuss it and share with my fellow group members.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I can bring the group activity, I'm a very active member and I love to engage in healthy discussions with people on HF. Other than that, I'm a very diligent person and I could help out with anything, if the need arises. I can be chill at times however I can also be very serious when necessary.

Why do you want to join Revolution? I want to join Revolution since I believe the group has potential and I really like the group and it's current members. Would really like a shot, thank you for reading my humble application. Have a nice day, whoever is reading this.

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined Hack Forums in 2013, no different from your average skid. I was fascinated by hacking and cyber security among other things and over time I learned to love HF and its community.

Why should we accept you? I've been told this is the best group to be in if you want to have a good time and meme a bit with fellow members. I'm good with people and I consider myself to be a fairly nice guy to talk to.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I'm open minded. I have several areas of expertise and I always try to be there for people that need me. Other than that I have lots of great ideas to share with you guys.

Why do you want to join Revolution? I want to join for the members in it. There are a lot of nice people in revolution and I want to be in the group where I can interact with them. (I'm looking at you Regulus, my invite for a night out to drink beer still stands)

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I believe I was looking into coding at the time and stumbled upon Hackforums then realized that it's actually a great community and decided to stick to it. I obviously "lurk" around a lot more than I post but I try to be helpful when I do post.

Why should we accept you?

The only reason I can think of is that I'm a very chill person that would talk to you about anything and contribute where I can.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

Truthfully, probably nothing. The group has an amazing reputation and I believe that there is almost nothing to be added to it. I'd probably only make it better if I get the chance to review threads members are posting and to give them a different point of view. For example, if someone is making a sales thread, I'd take a look at it and give them an opinion and maybe some advice as a "potential customer".

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I just saw that the group is recruiting and considering there are many awesome members in the group, I thought why not try to join and get to know some people specially since I'm trying to be more active on HF than I used to be.

Pebbles - August 5, 2017, 2:43 pm

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I joined back in 2014 thanks to a great friend that introduced me to the site. At first I didn't really think much of it, I was never really active and didn't really find interest in Hackforums. It's funny because I was searching for things in social engineering and Hackforums had just banned anything social engineering related. (Not sure if it was banned right when I joined).

Why should we accept you?

For the past year or two I've really come to understand how being a member of Hackforums is extremely beneficial and fun! There's so much to learn and so many people to meet (although there are some big scumbags). I've also realized that in order to continue my journey to being a more active Hackforums member joining a great group would help a lot. I believe that revolution is one of those groups that can help members be more active and also to escape from whatever it is they need a break from. As it was stated in the OP, "Revolution promises sanctuary to those who need it on HF." I feel that this is extremely important to certain members out there and can possibly change lives. I know it may sound absurd but believe it or not I truly believe that it can provide that "sanctuary" that people need and I want to be apart of that.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I must admit that I am a little fish on this forum and I have so much more things to learn. I have been a lot more active on HF and I am continuing to learn lots of things I.e, coding, cryptocurrency, online marketing skills and most importantly I am learning a lot about myself. Being able to participate behind a computer allows me to express more about myself freely.(doesn't mean I go around trolling but instead I participate in convos that I normally wouldn't in real life) As I grow as a member and a person I promise to help those that are struggling and to aid in growing a great community.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

Like I said earlier based on the OP, I feel like Revolution will provide a home for members and can really turn into something great. Even if that means I made one friend. It would be all worth it. Helping those in need and being involved is all I can ask for. I hope to learn and grow mentally. Hackforums is a great place but there's so much more to Hackforums than meets the eye. I want to be a part of something that let's people know that this can be a home.

HighTier - August 5, 2017, 2:43 pm

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined HF during 2016. I was not active, and I was a leecher. I did not take this forum serious until Formal told me that he uses it. I was not very big on forums before I started using HF. I think I thought of them as pointless and outdated, but being on HF has changed my opinion on them. I honestly think that if it was not for my friend, I would not even be using HF right now.

Why should we accept you? I like to think of myself as a chill person. I get along with pretty much everyone that is not a dick. I try to treat all members the same whether they are upgraded or not. I am very respectful towards other members, and I do not sales trash. I try to help new members out by showing the the Help Documents so they can get a better understanding on the rules of HF.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I can bring my good attitude and friendliness. I have a problem with very few members on this forum. I have a good attitude and try to bring good vibes everywhere that I go. I do not really have an ego online. I tend to try to be funny, so I can also bring some comedy in to the group. I also play video games, so I could bond with other members via gaming.

Why do you want to join Revolution? Revolution seems like a chill group to be in. The members that are already in the group seem to be laid back and chill members that do not cause any problems for the other members on this site. I want to surround myself with good vibes, and Revolution seems like the right group to fit in.

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I originally joined Hackforums when one of my friends here on HF had introduced me to it and I generally was curious about the whole concept about it so I ended up signing up and have been here since.

Why should we accept you?

I feel as I would be a great asset to the group as my qualities can better improve the group in general. I love motivating and speaking with others and this would be great to have within the group. Not only this, but I do have a passion for gaming on top of this and it would be nice to find others with this same passion to interact with them and speak of some games we both find in common. I recently had started by business online and had managed to make thousands in months. I recently had started my business online and had managed to make thousands in months. After starting up on HF, I posted a thread in which I offered to help others succeed in their business and give them insight on how I started mine (what I do etc.). I have PM'ed and helped over 150+ users now and it is something I definitely want to keep doing.

The thread can be found here: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5567491>

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I can definitely be a positive vibe within the sub-group and outside of it to encourage positivity all around the group.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I wish to join Revolution to simply encourage motivation and positive vibes throughout the sub-group. I love interacting with others on a day-to-day basis and I feel as if I can do that best within a group that shares the same encouragement as me.

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I joined hackforums 3 years ago, I saw my cousin on it and just wanted to be on a website where I can hang out, meet new people etc. Also, I saw there was a marketplace and thought that I would be able to meet people in the business world that would help me learn and grow as an entrepreneur and possibly make a little money while doing it.

Why should we accept you?

I should be accepted into Revolution because I believe I bring a good amount of information to the table when it comes to anything business or social media related. Also, I am a very active member that loves a good ole conversation and meeting new people.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I can be an extremely active member that will always give good conversation and never be low quality. Also, I'm always willing to help a fellow member that is in a need of anything. If I don't have an answer, I will find one. I'm also very knowledgeable in business, and I dabble in GFX so I can always be useful in those aspects of anything.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I want to join Revolution because I want to be in a group that has good members who stay active. I also don't want to be in a low quality spam lounge group, and this seems like it is the complete opposite of that. I have quite a few people I know in Revolution atm and would love to be reunited with them in a group.

MrShakoz - August 5, 2017, 7:39 pm

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I join'ed Hackforums in Novemember of 2016, i was invited by my friend that used to be somewhat of a reputable member before his account got jacked. I wanted to join HF to be apart of something fun and interactive. My boy told me HF was the place and man was he right. Everyday i logon to this forum i meet new people see new things and learn something new.

Why should we accept you?

I feel you should accept me because i would like to be apart of something bigger on HF and would like to make my stay here mean something. I give back to HF all the time and i feel if i was in Revolution i could make my forum reach much stronger and reputable. Being apart of this group would make me meet a group of people that i could chill and kick back with on a daily basis Also I'm a pretty chill and funny kid if you need a laugh just pm me and i will try my best.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I feel i could bring my Crypto Coin experience, and somewhat of my marketing experience. If i was invited to the group i could help out with Crypto coin topics, and i could also help a member of Revolution to market his product and advertise it to the best of their ability.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

As i said above in this application, i'd like to join to be apart of "something bigger" on HF. I feel if i joined Revolution it'd be like a family type of vibe, and that's where my idea's shine the most.

Mr.DoomHead - August 5, 2017, 8:06 pm

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I stumbled across hackforums last year just looking for some decent forums that I would be able to learn a thing or 2 from. I lurked around abit and figured I would sign up and register so that I could experience it from the inside and not feel like such a leech. Be able to contribute instead of just taking away.

Why should we accept you?

I tend to get along with most people i come into contact with. Ive had to place the peacekeeper on a few occasions between disgruntled friends. Im a hard worker and always finish projects that I start or help with. I tend to be very driven when I have my mind set on a task and others seem to be pulled toward that. I want everyone on my team to not just survive but to THRIVE!

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

Inspiration. I like to inspire people to achieve more than they think they are capable of. I feel those around me should always strive to grow and to never become complacent in their lives. I am constantly learning new things and am eager to share with others. I hope to be the catalyst that helps some find their way, a friend for those who need an ear, or a buddy that is just gonna tell you a super inappropriate joke at the right time.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I know some of the current members and they are stand up guys that I have alot of respect for. I need to be around that. Im a firm believer that you need to surround yourself with the best people possible if you yourself seek to grow and become better. Revolution is full of those types of people. I would like to join not only to help the group grow and prosper, but to also grow myself.

I appreciate the opportunity to apply and thanks for taking the time to read this.

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I joined HackForums ages ago in 2011 to learn about hacking and whatnot as most people did around the time of my join date. I ended up outgrowing that phase and left HackForums for a while until I got into Currency Exchange with Bitcoins. I decided to login in and since then, I've become more active and enjoy helping others out, offering services, and currency exchange.

Why should we accept you?

I believe I should get accepted because I enjoy having a great time and as always, helping out other members as much as possible.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I would bring positive vibes and help if anyone needs help.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I want to join Revolution because the group seems like a good fit for myself and I like the idea of it.

I joined hackforum to find fun and meaningful applications for the programming knowledge I was gaining at uni

Why should we accept you?

I'm a fun easygoing individual who likes to be social and interact with people,I'm not just here for personal gain

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I can help with coding idea and discussions, share my input in people's ideas and be a active member of the group

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I have no agenda and I feel I need one with other groups whereas with this one I would be able to just enjoy myself

SIM-403479 - August 6, 2017, 3:01 am

Excited to see some more members.

Probably the most active group on HF right now!

Clarence - August 6, 2017, 6:58 am

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I joined HF to try and make some friends and to learn about things that happen across the forum and see the knowledge other users have to offer. I found out the forum holds much more than just hackers but it holds a nice community that has various topics on pretty much everything to do with the world and online subjects.

Why should we accept you?

You should accept me because i try and help others if i know how to help and to gain knowledge from others and to all round meet new people. I would also feel if i joined i would learn about different things that i don't know about that well.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I can bring a nice person to chat to as i try and be as active as i can i would like to try and share information on things that i know about ranging from things online to things out side of the internet and overall just try and make people have a nice time while they are online.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

Because i saw that you was recruiting and i thought i would give it a shot as i have never been apart of a group on HF only L33T and Ub3r I want to join to try and make friends and as said to try and share information on things that i can talk about also i would like to be apart of something new see what other things i can learn about.

Why & how did you join HackForums? I believe I was looking for a way to fuck with people in CS:S and somehow Hack Forums popped up. Can't remember 100%.

Why should we accept you? Because I am extremely active and high quality. I am friendly and very easily approached which makes for a good member in a lounge-style group. I am not a userbar whore and only apply to groups that interest me.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I'm extremely active and will always participate in group projects, lounges, activities and whatever else is required. I will represent the group professionally and maturely and never inflict damage upon the groups reputation.

Why do you want to join Revolution? Seems like a really chilled group with a family like aura that represents itself well. I'd love to converse with fellow chilled Hack Forums members. I have never really been in a 'lounge group' and would love to experience a chilled, laid back style group.

Why & how did you join HackForums? I like to surround myself with like minded people.

Why should we accept you? I have skills in business and bitcoins and making money.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I can bring my business skills and bitcoin skills. And my knowledge and experience.

Why do you want to join Revolution? I want to join because I want to be part of group who enjoys the 3 things I like gaming, marketing and cryptocurrency.

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I joined HF about three months ago, a good friend of mine addressed me here. I was really into cyber related stuff such as hacking, mostly bruteforcing and that's why I joined.

Why should we accept you?

I find my self to be a pretty decent guy, fun to hang around with, trustworthy, loyal, active user, very friendly, mature. I try to communicate and get to know everyone who's down for making new friendship and generally likes to talk. I'm quite new to this community but I'll try to do my best at assisting those who are in need.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I'd like to share my knowledge on tech related stuff and also learn new things from the group members. Also I play a lot of games, a way to connect to all the gamers in this group. I can bring my sense of humor and good attitude.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I like the fact that the group offers a relaxing place, with cool /friendly people to hang around with who I can discuss about different topics. Seems like the best choice for me.

PS: I know that I'm new to this forum, no reputation, but I deserve a chance so I can prove you guys that I'm worthy.

Thanks in advance.

Tostig - August 7, 2017, 12:37 pm

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I was like 12 or something, I wanted to get back at this guy who kept hitting my internet offline, I don't remember all the details (that was like 5 years ago). I'd say it was either that or I was looking for Minecraft cheat clients. Sad. I stuck around because I wanted to make money and I've made a small fortune off of HF since then and was able to buy my first car with money purely from HF.

Why should we accept you?

What is this, a job interview? I'm coming back to HF and most if not all of my allies or friends or whatever have left so I need a new group to screw around in.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I don't think there's much that a single person can do to make a group more "HQ". So probably nothing if I'm being honest but I just want to have people to screw around with.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I want to play games and screw around online with people other than my schoolmates basically.

Why & how did you join HackForums? I've always hacked and programmed, I heard about hf from a friend and decided to join

Why should we accept you? I'm easy to get along with and would like to get involved with the hf community

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I'm motivated but also relaxed, I like teaching noobs and pros how to code.

Why do you want to join Revolution? To make friends within the hf community and learn more

Ruins - August 7, 2017, 2:55 pm

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined HF originally due to modding, A lot of "smart" people who knew what they were talking about were on this site, Ive really been sat in the JTAG RGH Section ever since 2012 just helping people out when i can also the lounge is also fun and relaxed on this site

Why should we accept you? Im laid back, Can take banter, i dont bite when someone is salty, dont start arguments (unless i have done my research on the topic at hand)

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I am always willing to help out when i can, I'm motivated and i can be one of those extra people to have a laugh with or help in serious situations

Why do you want to join Revolution? I have not been in a group now for almost a year (mainly beacuse the last group i was in was inactive as hell) But i would love to be apart of a group again and make some more friends on the site.

Why & how did you join HackForums?I joined HackForums back in 2013 because of one of my friends suggested me to join named Brandon because he saw I was helpful and that there are a lot of tips are on here as well as the community being amazing.

Why should we accept you? You don't have to accept me if you don't want to, obviously. But, I'd be able to help with mostly anything you guys need. If you need something to be spread around, I can do that. I'd likely be there as an escort, to help if I'm needed in any cases.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? Just basically stay positive and make sure no one tries to bring anyone down. I could suggest changes, give opinions on things. Anything methods I can across of, I'd share with everyone in Revolution and only Revolution.

Why do you want to join Revolution? I'd like to be in a group full of chill people and this is a very chill forum. I figured I'd apply for this group and see how it goes. To meet the members, leaders and hopefully I can gain respect and trust from everyone in the group if I can get in. Thank you for reading my application.

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined from a YouTube video I saw called "Hitler gets banned from HackForums" not even sure how I found the video and i'm like hmm i'll check the forum out.

Why should we accept you? You should accept me because I am a friendly, kind, and helpful person and I will contribute to the group and help members.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I can bring free giveaways and a fun time overall!

Why do you want to join Revolution? I want to join because it looks like a fun group and because most of my friends are in the group so it seems dope.

SIM-3609092 - August 7, 2017, 5:26 pm

Why & how did you join HackForums?

After a pretty serious injury I picked up playing soccer, I was looking for stuff to do online in order to help with my boredom post-surgery. I was basically stuck in bed for 2 weeks not being able to walk, and HackForums was referred to me by a friend of mine that I go to school with.

Joining HackForums was pretty simple. I opened my browser and entered "HackForums.net" in the address bar. I proceeded to click on the "Register" button and the rest is history. Had some trouble with the Captcha but other than that it was pretty simple. Could definitely make a tutorial on it as a HackForums exclusive contribution sometime.

Spoiler (Click to View) I'm so not fucking funny but oh well... I tried to supply quality memes...

Why should we accept you?

You should accept me as I am a very active user who has a lot of free time on their hand. As much as I can play around, I can also be very serious. I am knowledgeable in many fields and have various skills. These skills include, but are not limited to, programming, tech support, gaming, and the "hacking" basics (The skid things...). I get along very well with almost all members on HackForums, and I believe I could learn to make new friends within this group. The group is all about being chill, and I can definitely add some extra chill to the group, making it an even greater environment than what it seems to already be.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

As stated previously, I do have a lot of knowledge when it comes to many different things. This can be used to engage in conversations with many users in the group, leading to a good time for all of us. This group is also known to be a lot more laid back, which is interesting as we can also enjoy ourselves more than we could in other groups. I do see myself lounging around a lot, and I do feel like I would be appreciated. I am always willing to engage in conversations covering different topics, so I should be quite the active user as well.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I want to join Revolution for many reasons. As I roam around the forums, people repping the Revolution userbar seem to be pretty damn cool, and I would really like to get to know them a bit better. I would like to offer whatever I can in order to help the group out in any way possible. Not going to sugarcoat this application with bullshit, the design of the group is fucking lit and I would like to wear the userbar. Thanks for considering my application guys!

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined to further my pentesting/networking knowledge. Since joining I've learned lots of things and met fantastic people.

Why should we accept you? I have a lot to offer to the group. My skillset is wide.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I'm an overall chill person. I care about others and try not to be an asshole in general.

Why do you want to join Revolution? I would love to join a group because I've never been in one before. I feel like this is the one for me.

Why & how did you join HackForums? Because I wanted to join a forum about hackers.

Why should we accept you? I hear this group is very accepting. And I'm hilarious.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? If this group was better, it'd be good. I'm here to make it better.

Why do you want to join Revolution? Groups are lowkey sick but I've never been in one. I think it's gonna enhance my experience on HF.

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I was trying to get into CPA mainly, and heard hackforums was overall a great forum for that kind of stuff, and also learning new stuff/new skills and meeting new people as it is a big forum :)

Why should we accept you?

You should accept me because i really think i can benefit the group, not just with my skillset but with my personality aswell as i love meeting new people and also helping people out.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I can bring all my skills that i've obtained over the years of being on HF to the group, i also think i could represent the group pretty well.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I wanna get to know new people and get the experience of being in a group since it would be my first, mainly because revolution has had my attention ever since it started and this is my time to join it.

Thanks, ?

dogsmix - August 8, 2017, 1:17 pm

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I joined Hackforums back in 2013, when I first joined honestly I just wanted minecraft accounts and minecraft hacked clients. What can I say? I was 15 and thought I was hot shit with hacked clients and many alts. However, around that time I began to focus on my academics and wasn't on the internet a lot until around last year. I won't lie, I wasn't even active on here until very recently. I can now say I am on HackForums network and expand my knowledge of dropshipping, selling on Amazon/eBay, and even start new projects with other users. At the end of the day I am here to make money.

Why should we accept you?

If you were going based off my activity for the past 4 years, you shouldn't. However, now I'm not a scriptkiddie anymore, and I don't leech off other members here. I run a fairly successful Amazon store (Bring in about $1,600-$2,000 profit a week) and would love to share my knowledge with other like minded individuals. Again, I don't have a lot of rep, or post a lot. I don't have "clout", but I am able to share knowledge in many money making projects. It took me a whole year to get where I am right now. I literally started with $0 and now I am netting almost $8,000 a month of profit. I want to share my knowledge, and talk to other users about how they make money. I am here to teach and learn.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

Like I said in the previous two answers, I can bring lots of knowledge on dropshipping on Amazon, eBay, and even Shopify! In my time of doing this I have failed, like, a lot. I have lost $500 in one day, but I've also made $1,600 in one day. I want to help other users avoid the same mistakes I made, and I know I can help anyone make real money. Ultimately, I want other members to avoid the same mistakes I made.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I've active on HackForums for a short amount of time and I really just want to find a community to settle into. Groups seem like a perfect place to network and a place to develop projects. Not only do I want to share my knowledge with your community, I want to learn from others. While I might be very good at dropshipping, admittedly I don't know crap about cryptos and that's something I want to change. I feel that joining a group will help me develop skills I don't have right now.

Mizzy - August 8, 2017, 4:02 pm

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined hackforums to learn about coding , Android coding. But that never happened started liking the community and learning new stuff. I don't remember exactly what I was searching on google but hackforums was in that search so I clicked and joined.

Why should we accept you? I helped a lot of users here , will continue to help , and will help the users in the group a lot. I will be friendly , will not share negativity.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I can help users a lot about shopify and drop shipping

Why do you want to join Revolution? to meet users to make friends here , and I really like the name ?

Why & how did you join HackForums?

It was a coincidence that I found HF, I was looking for different projects and I happend to find a post about memory management, thats when I decided to join.

Why should we accept you?

Because I am a very laid back guy, quite funny & I love to share any knowledge I can, if anyone would have a specific question about programming for example, I wouldnt mind answering with a very in-depth answer.

On my spare time I game, I do marketing and i'm also very into cryptocurrency.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I can offer help when it comes to gaming / marketing, as I stated above, i love to help!

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I joined HF a while back, I didn't had any specific reason back then, I recently joined back because I have nothing else to do in my life _. I also invested into cryptocurrency and I thought this would be a good place to share thoughts and speculations & learn new things

Why should we accept you?

I'm looking to meet some new and interesting people, I'm sharing the same interests as many people in the group, I'm talking about crypto and gaming then. I'd love to share my knowledge with everyone else and I hope to learn new things from other group members aswell.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I could try bring some more ambiance, I could offer my advice on different things aswell. I will also bring activity, I'm online daily and I try to post some things daily aswell.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

The main reason is that I want to get myself involved some more in the whole HF community, I want to share my knowledge with others and I want to learn new things from others and to start off with that I thought I'd join a group. Why & how did you join HackForums? I originally joined Hack Forums because I was really into the whole Minecraft griefing scene and everyone told me that this was the best place to find hacked clients. After joining, I soon realized that Hack Forums was more than that and that it had a lot more to offer me.

Why should we accept you? I'm not gonna beat around the bush, if I am accepted, Revolution will gain a chill member who is always down to make friends, and contribute where I am needed. I will regularly produce content for the group in public forums, and within the group's private sub forum.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I will increase the overall value of the group, in my opinion, because the group will be gaining a member who isn't just looking to make his profile look cooler, but its genuinely looking for a community that he can bond with. I'm looking to meet people and be a part of something, and contribute in any ways I can.

Why do you want to join Revolution? I want to be a part of something that will add value to my internet browsing experience. I really just want to be a part of something where I can gain close friends, and contribute in a genuine way.

I believe I found the site searching for a CS:GO skin changer on Google just under a year ago. About two months actually, the time here sure has flew.

Why should we accept you? I am a heavily active member that will engage in all topics I know of, just ask all my fellow Order alumni already inside. I'm also fairly easy to talk to. I also avoid drama pretty well, which I think would probably be a good fit for a group based on talking to people.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I can bring the unhealthy amount of time I already spend on this website. I also have knowledge on quite a few topics that would allow me to join in as well as create discussion within the group.

Why do you want to join Revolution? Because this website starts to become stale to me without an active lounge group to participate in, I'm sure a few of your current members feel the same way. I do also miss posting in lounges with all the old Order guys also, if I'm going to be completely honest here. I've also heard a few tales about the lounges in there and I'd like a chance to take part in them.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? All I know how to bring is a good attitude and post contribution.

Why do you want to join Revolution? I'm not interested in groups with high requirements, and Revolution seems to be a group with general focuses and no requirements. It seems like a group I could probably fit into.

(Aug 4, 2017 07:46 PM)Dessie Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Why & how did you join HackForums? My friend Shay was the one who recommended me it at first. It took me like half a year until I joined The Order, where I really got the feeling for this forum, a great place where I met a lot of great friends and just had an awesome time.

Why should we accept you? As I know some people there from earlier I think I would fit in quite well. I am looking forward to getting to know more people and continue with what I thought was enjoyable with this forum. I will most likely just be active within the subforum as what I am looking for right now is a cool and chill community to hang around in. That's why I can ensure the group that I will stay active and contribute.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? Usually, when I enjoy something, I put time into it. By joining Revolution I would be able to contribute a lot, and letting people take a part of my knowledge. I do think I would be a great addition to the family, taking part of conversations and just simply meeting new people.

Why do you want to join Revolution? To be fair, a lot of members from an old dead group is here, and I've heard a lot of good things such as how social, active and crazy the group is and that would fit me well. Being surrounded by a lot of like-minded, social and crazy people is what I enjoy about this forum. Furthermore, it's the reason why I am able to stay active, having a place I know I can post in every day.

(Aug 5, 2017 07:49 AM)Lukas Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Why & how did you join HackForums?
Nearly 6 years ago, I was the average 12-year-old computer nerd who thought that DDoSing someone was considered hacking. I joined this forum because I wanted to expand my knowledge about general hacking and further my capabilities. In the long run, even though this was not the case, I still adapted to the forum and picked up common interests among users in the community. If my memory serves me correctly, I made my way onto the notorious search engine Google, and typed in the keywords: "hacking, forum." This is when I met my first love.

Why should we accept you?

I am a very active and involved member of the site, I will partake in discussions, offer my services when needed, and provide quality material in, and out of the sub forum. I enjoy meeting new people, offering advice, and discussing any topic that sparks my interest. I'm a very opinionated and self-respected user, but I know my limits when it comes to discussion. I state my opinion in a kind manner and am considerate of the other's view, as I always try to look at a point from their perspective.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I have substantially large plans for my future here, and I would love to assist Revolution's name in doing so. I will bring myself: a hardworking, active, self-motivated, developer, designer, and young adult. The possibilities to enhance the group's stature are endless; therefore, I would fit amazingly.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

Revolution has been an organization that I've only wished about joining. I wasn't sure if I'd ever have the opportunity, and even if I did, if I was a pristine enough to join this respected group. When posting in any section, I always see a member(s) from Revolution on the thread. I believe you one of the most active and involved groups on the forum, which I heavily respect and believe could contribute to your crusade.

I was recently asked this question again by a member of Revolution and this was my response:

Spoiler (Click to View) Overall it just looks like a great group to be in. I considered buying into it, but I've never bought into a group before and decided to take the gamble of waiting for a recruitment. I respect the group's activity most importantly, but to throw some additional reasons as to why, I'd have to say because of the image that it portrays. It's lead and owned by a respectable user who is actually involved with the forum, rather than just milking it for rep and money. From what I can tell, it looks like one of the groups that has its shit together unlike most.

I did not take this forum serious until Formal told me that he uses it. I was not very big on forums before I started using HF. I think I thought of them as pointless and outdated, but being on HF has changed my opinion on them. I honestly think that if it was not for my friend, I would not even be using HF right now.

Why should we accept you? I like to think of myself as a chill person. I get along with pretty much everyone that is not a dick. I try to treat all members the same whether they are upgraded or not. I am very respectful towards other members, and I do not sales trash. I try to help new members out by showing the the Help Documents so they can get a better understanding on the rules of HF.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I can bring my good attitude and friendliness. I have a problem with very few members on this forum. I have a good attitude and try to bring good vibes everywhere that I go. I do not really have an ego online. I tend to try to be funny, so I can also bring some comedy in to the group. I also play video games, so I could bond with other members via gaming.

Why do you want to join Revolution? Revolution seems like a chill group to be in. The members that are already in the group seem to be laid back and chill members that do not cause any problems for the other members on this site. I want to surround myself with good vibes, and Revolution seems like the right group to fit in.

I originally joined Hackforums when one of my friends here on HF had introduced me to it and I generally was curious about the whole concept about it so I ended up signing up and have been here since.

Why should we accept you?

I feel as I would be a great asset to the group as my qualities can better improve the group in general. I love motivating and speaking with others and this would be great to have within the group. Not only this, but I do have a passion for gaming on top of this and it would be nice to find others with this same passion to interact with them and speak of some games we both find in common. I recently had started by business online and had managed to make thousands in months. I recently had started my business online and had managed to make thousands in months. After starting up on HF, I posted a thread in which I offered to help others succeed in their business and give them insight on how I started mine (what I do etc.). I have PM'ed and helped over 150+ users now and it is something I definitely want to keep doing.

I can definitely be a positive vibe within the sub-group and outside of it to encourage positivity all around the group.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I wish to join Revolution to simply encourage motivation and positive vibes throughout the sub-group. I love interacting with others on a day-to-day basis and I feel as if I can do that best within a group that shares the same encouragement as me.

I changed the order of the questions, I think it makes more logical sense this way. ?

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined HF over 5 years ago in 2012. I joined because at the time I was very interested in the OG Gamertag scene at HF seemed to be the center of the trade. I quickly realized HF was much more than just a market for Gamertags and fell in love.

Why do you want to join Revolution? There are many reasons why I want to join Revolution however these are some of the most important ones to me. I am interested in joining Revolution because I want to make more friends and connections on HF. From being here all these years I have realized that connections are the most important thing. I also think it's easier to make a difference on HF when you are in a group as it gives you a place to share your opinions and ideas.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I think by joining Revolution I could make a positive impact on the members and the forum as a whole. I have a lot of experience in different subjects such as Dropshipping, Social Media Management, and Marketing. By joining Revolution I would have the opportunity to share my experience with other members, and also have the opportunity to learn from them. We could bring our knowledge and passion together and create something we couldn't do on our own. I also am a very active member meaning I would keep the sub-forum and Discord always poppin'. I think I would be a great addition to Revolution since I am a sociable person with a passion to share ideas.

Why should we accept you? I am a friendly member who would fit in great with the members of Revolution. I look forward to increasing my presence on HF in every way and am hoping I can do that alongside Revolution. I hope Revolution can provide me guidance in all of my projects and that I have the opportunity to return the favor.

Thank you for reading, and I hope you consider me for your group.

If you have any questions about my application, please don't hesitate to ask. ?

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I joined Hackforums a couple years ago with the sole intention of learning how to code so that I could produce and distribute hacks for a game. That project turned out to be a fail but I quickly learned that there were other aspects to the Internet that I was not fully knowledgeable of yet.

Why should we accept you?

I'm not the smartest when it comes to marketing or cryptocurrency but this group stands for something bigger than educational/strategic discussions I can't offer new methods to market something but I do come bearing knowledge in the emergency medicine sector. I'm currently a certified EMT, CNA, and Pharmacy Technician. My passion is medicine with my hobbies include some coding and interacting with people.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

Besides my swag I can't really bring much besides my point of view and opinions on various topics. I like to think I have a little information on a variety of topics. Take a chance on me.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

The idea that there are no requirements to maintain membership to this group in terms of projects is something that appeals to me. Not to mention the laid back characteristic I would love to be able to destress in an environment where I don't have to censor myself or be completely absurd and talk about rainbow shitting ponies. All I can say is I'm definitely a cool laid back guy and would love to meet individuals that make up this group.

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I personally joined Hack Forums for the Marketplace/Currency and the lounge side of the forum. I believe I can bring an attractive/active sector to the forum by selling my items, and doing currency exchanges in large stacks for members.

I joined by a referral from a work colleague who I noticed seemed active on a forum, so I asked about it and decided to join and here I am.

Why should we accept you?

I will be a new unique member who will help contribute and help as much as I can to the community and especially to the group, and each thread I release will also represent the group.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

Hard question here, as I'm an active member I could bring active discussions, and plenty of effort to the group.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I want to join the Revolution army, and get involved with the HF community within the group to meet and learn new things but to help and contribute as much as I can.

Thank you for giving us the opportunity.

At the end of the day, group recruiters don't care much about their group's GFX being used in an application. Usage of group graphics does not make your application more HQ or 'better' for that matter, it's just pure aesthetics. What is the effort that you speak of? Just a minute of copy-pasting and making a basic layout for the actual application. What matters is the group application itself, they wish to know more about you and your reasoning, standpoints, some basic facts about you and the reason why you wish to join the group. Well, that is atleast what I hope the situation is.

I've nothing personal against you nor I was singling you out for any reason - so much people don't bother writing more than a single sentence per question yet want to join a group. It is quite saddening. My advice to you is to try and write a few more sentences. Will increase your chances of getting accepted a lot and it will only make you appear more HQ, which is what many group owners care about. Just my two cents on this, have a nice day.

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined HF originally because I wanted to further my knowledge of SEO and internet marketing. Though it wasn't titled accordingly, there were a lot of links to SEO topics on HF whenever I searched about it so I eventually joined up and stayed.

Why should we accept you? I am online at least once every day. I may not post a lot, but that is only because I try to stay away from LQ posts and will normally only contribute if I can bring something to the conversation that either 1: Isn't already brought, or 2: Help someone who needs it.

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I've come across HackForums through a Google result I made. At first, I was a leecher and downloading as many free programs as possible. However, after a few weeks on Hack Forums, I noticed there was a community that was active. So I decided to upgrade myself to L33T for more inbox space and longer threads. Ever since I did that upgrade, I become a bit more involved in the community. After a Month break being a full-time worker, I decided to come back. I changed my behavior as well since then; I now try to make my threads as lengthy and detailed as possible where I before rushed everything.

Why should we accept you?

I'm an active and social user on HackForums. The fact that I am online on hack forums for at least 4/5 hours a day is a contrast of how much I post and type. I'm not necessary a lurker, but I do not always post on threads anymore. I do read threads and analyze them, but sometimes it's not necessary to reply anymore. Since I came back I have changed my communication interaction and socializing skills; I try to help new users or users that are not upgraded. I know how I was treated when I was a beginner here, so I'd like to give that back. After a numerous of extremely lengthy reviews and guides, it's time for me to enter the next chapter.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I think I could be contributing to Revolution in forum-sided contributions. I don't have a lot of funds to pump into giveaways or events, although I do have time I want to provide to the group as much as possible. As probably noticed before, I made reviews for the group Influence. I'd like to make the same styled lengthy threads again. Not reviews, but preferably guides or helpdesks. These apply to sections outside of the Group, but also within the group I'd like to make tutorials and guides, if needed or possible. Overall: Bringing a detailed perspective that other's don't.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

One of the main reasons I'd like to join Revolution is to post guides and/or helpdesks on behalf of the group. This provides more visibility and engagement to users which make it more helpful for the greater good. Connecting the dots outside of the group is good, but linking them within the group is even better. I'd like to meet new people I didn't meet or have spoken to before. And Revolution has the most compatible environment for that.

Thanks, although technically I withdrew after your post ^ _ ^

Anyway, might be helpful to take the time and quote some of the applications you feel are "trash" and provide details as to why you feel that way, instead of just labeling them all as such as a cluster. Might help clear up any potentially bad perceptions (either on your end or theirs) and just seems more HQ that way, doesn't it? Well, at least in my view.

Just a thought ?

Wouldn't wanna turn this into a discussion or so forth so I'll stop posting on your recruitment thread. Thanks for the time.

If you go thru the apps, most of them are one liners. A few users PM'd me asking why they weren't accepted and I kindly told them why

(If I missed someone please PM me again, I got a lot of PMs)

I don't mean to argue here with you, just gonna state my opinion (if that's allowed). Some of the applications I read, are effortless I agree, but there are some "one liners" (not talking about my application here) that in my opinion, are actually good applications. It's not a wikipedia group where the one that writes the most story gets accepted. Again, just my opinion, don't mean to argue or anything.

My logic is this, if you really want to get accepted into the group, you will take some time and write a decent application (decent application != one liner). One liners just make you look like you applied for the hell of it and you're hoping a leader/owner will just randomly accept you. Again, that's my logic and that's how I decide who is accepted and who is not. ?

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined back in 2013 to browse the gamertag market in hopes of purchasing one but I was broke but ended up accomplishing my dream of getting one in my later years. I joined through one of my good friends that told me to look on here for gamertags at the time.

Why should we accept you? I steer clear from the drama and like to have fun and enjoy life. I game a lot in my free time (when I'm not working/in class). I will bring fun and laughter to the table as well as a laid back mentality.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I can bring an up minded individual into the group to make others happy by having a positive mindset and engaging in conversations.

Why do you want to join Revolution? To make friends, as I don't have any on here really and to have fun. I don't really get to talk to many people as I only knew one guy on here and he got busy with his job so I never talk to anyone really. It'd be nice to make some acquaintances though.

Thanks for reviewing my application and I look forward to your response. Best of luck to the other guys who are applying. ?

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined hack forums back in 2011 with the intent to expand my knowledge in technology

Why should we accept you? You should accept me because you want to accept me, not because I'm telling you why. I believe myself to be a rather different individual, I tend to have a very outside perspective on things, on the outside looking in so to speak. I bring positivity, encouragement, knowledge and much more to the table.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? Every person that joins this group will be serving a different purpose and bring different things with them. To answer this question, I will bring perspective to the group.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I want to join revolution because there is no actual necessities needed by the members, its a way for all of us to relax and spread knowledge to each other. It only gets stronger from here. Cheers ,

kairo

Why & how did you join HackForums?When I started getting into Private Investigating, I found HackForums through google (Which is what a lot of people talked about). I guess it was mainly for that reason, but when I started getting into this forum, everything changed.

Why should we accept you?I'm very easy to get along with. If a member is having some type of problem, I could do my best to fix it. Any questions they have, I could possibly answer (Logical of course).

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?I am a GFX Designer, obviously not the best, but my style is unique at least. Maybe if people in the group want any type of graphics or have any questions, they could come to me.

Why do you want to join Revolution? From what I see is that there are a lot of chill people in the group that I've even talked to before. I guess there isn't a specific reason, but I'm sure you won't regret it.

JAX010800 - August 16, 2017, 3:33 am

To whom it may concern,

Why & how did you join HackForums?

- I joined HackForums randomly trying to be a cool hacker kid. Once working my way around the forums I went inactive for a bit. I came back for my official join and started posting. Mostly graphics area.

Why should we accept you?

- I feel as you guys should accept me because I'm easy going and always willing to help out. I feel that I could become useful when it comes to graphic design work and even help out where ever else is possible. I am willing to learn anything to help others benefit.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

- I feel as I can bring my determination to Revolution and really help out with design work and maybe use my hectic organisational skills to help out within the group.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

- I want to join join Revolution due to never being apart of a HackForums group and I feel by being in one, it will push me to drop more high quality content and really come on HackForums more with the mindset to help out others. I also feel that I can help within the design side and do a little makeover of the group if you guys like the work I complete while in the group.

It may be short, but its to the point. No messing around.

Kind Regards,
Jax

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined hackforums for a numerous of reasons, one of the main things was to learn about crypto currency more. I also joined as it has such a wide variety from hacking, games to marketplace. Best decision i did was click that register button.

Why should we accept you? I would just love to be given a chance, im a really laid back user which loves to get along with all members. I see this group has a range of subjects that can be discussed which is a massive factor on why i want to join, i dont apply for any groups but when i seen this i wanted to join straight away so i really hope i get granted a opportunity to be apart on the group.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I feel i could bring something to the group, i love crypto so i feel i could play a huge part in this section. Once i seen gaming and marketing i new that this is the group for me, it would be great to set up games tournaments etc, maybe have our own gaming leaderboards etc. I see myself as a good gamer so would be great to play other members :)

Why do you want to join Revolution? First of all DAT USERBAR :O, it would look perfect under my username. For real, gaming, marketplace, crypto and having general discussions with other members. Would be great to be given a chance, a chance is all i ask to proof myself :) .

Thanks for reading my Application.

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I joined hackforums when I was starting highschool, I just started a Java programming class, and wanted to do further learning (Making my own website, exploiting Java). I then ended up on this site. I have an older account, but I lost the email and password, and made this account, and I have been on here ever since.

Why should we accept you?

I believe that you should accept me because I have a lot of things to talk about, and lots of general knowledge that I would like to share, be it setting up plugins for a game, or doing something with programming, or something as simple as diagnosing a computer.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I am currently certified by TestOut for the PCPro certification, and I am looking to do all of the CompTIA certifications throughout the next few years. I love having conversations with people, and helping them out.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I want to join Revolution because I want to be a part of something bigger than myself, it is always nice to be welcomed and accepted into a closed group of people. I look forward to sharing my knowledge with others, and at the same time, seeing what this group has to offer for me. All while enjoying the experience of being in a group like this.

Feel free to PM me if you have any other questions, I don't mind telling you what I know.

Why & how did you join HackForums?

Because when i was joined i love to being a hacker but actually after few time i realized that there's a lot more things to learn other than hacking & i think HF is the one of the best place to learn almost everything

Why should we accept you?

TBH i don't know but actually i just want to have that experience

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I'm ready to give my time (if it's really worth it) & we all know that's the most i can do for the group however i'll do my best to serve in group wherever group will needs me

Why do you want to join Revolution?

Because i want to have this experience, i want to see how much is different than basic forum

MissChiff - August 17, 2017, 12:07 am

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I first discovered HF back in 2012 when my brother would frequent the site for deals in the Marketplace. About a year later, I decided that I'd hop on and take a look at what the forums was really about. After about a year of habitually browsing on here, I joined a few groups including Specialists, Instinct, and ye old Pirates. Life got in the way for a bit but I've been active in the last few months and I'm quite involved in cryptocurrencies.

Why should we accept you?

You should accept me because my posts are unparalleled in quality and competence (that's a joke). Evidently, I'm not the most popular user on here but I'm very active in the marketplace and I enjoy enthusing with other people in the Crypto sections. I'm active in various sections on HF, I've made good connections with others, and I've been around for quite some time (or so it feels). I genuinely enjoy the content on the forums and I give my two cents when I feel it's valuable.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I think I'd be able to epitomize what any HF group strives to be like; I'm active, I engage with other members, and I enjoy a sense of community online. Building connections with people in other user groups opens the door for potential partnerships and mutually beneficial relationships in the future.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

Joining Revolution would be a fun new experience on here and it's a way to get closer with people that I otherwise wouldn't have. It's a way to forward business potential but also have a good time with people that share similar interests.

Good luck to everyone that's applying ?

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined HF a long while back! The main reason I joined is because I wanted to meet new people and learn a lot! - While I learned a hell of a lot, I rarely posted and lurked in the shadows for the most part. About a month ago I decided that I was going to change this and since then I've been much more active. I've met new people, joined discord groups, made deals, helped users out, etc. I'm here to stay baby!

Why should we accept you? Because I bought Income Layer dammit (Riyu is the goat).. But in all seriousness I'm just looking to meet another group of people, make more friends, and share my knowledge.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? First off, if there are any gamers in Revolution then I'm your man. I have a fairly successful boosting site for LoL and I hop on Overwatch when I'm not making mad stacks. I'm a big business guy which means I have a ton of experience making businesses (Online, LLC's, Websites, Development, Trademarks, Investments etc) As I know there are plenty of business savy people in Revolution I'm happy to share any connections, ideas, or resources. Additionally I'd love to share what I've learned off of HF to anybody who is curious.. ? methods for days ?

Why do you want to join Revolution? First off, I like the sense of humor that everyone seems to have. I noticed when in one of the ebook discord chats that a lot of the Revolution members go back and forth with each other and just have a fun time - That's the shit that I'm all about. If you want nothing else but a good time, I'm your guy. If you need someone for business/something serious let me know and it's already done. Game time.

ICento - August 18, 2017, 9:49 pm

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I joined HackForums to well basically just find as much info as I can about this ever-elusive "hacker world". In the beginning, I was really just looking for a forum that will provide the info that I needed, (for example, soon after I joined, I downloaded tons of ebooks and pdfs that relate to the topics I am looking into). But after going through the forum, I realized the depth and ever-strong community and as result, I have been trapped ever since loll.

Why should we accept you?

Bluntly, it will benefit you in a positive way 100%. You will gain a chill member who is always info-hungry and never afraid to share what is learned. Therefore benefiting not only me with knowledge, but the entire group (or so I hope :P).

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

Like stated before, the group will obtain new knowledge and info. But not only that, I am also very eager on making friends and having a good time in general just hanging around chatting, therefore, improving the sociability of the group as well. Which is never ever a bad thing right? loll

Why do you want to join Revolution?

To be honest, I find life really boring, which is one of the reasons why I'm in this "hacker world" in the first place and by joining this group I sincerely hope to find more amusement and fun, as well as learn obviously :P

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I joined hackforums because I was amazed by what my friend told me that this forum is the best out there and I could spend my life with here.

Why should we accept you?

You should accept me because I could give you all free adobe upgrade!

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I can give out suggestions once I'm in and check if there's some that needs to be changed or improved.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I want to join revolution because I don't have any groups to jam and by joining this group, I could expand my knowledge and share the knowledge I currently have.

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I was referred to Hackforums by a friend and decided to join because it is an extremely active forum containing many selfless members. I also wanted to find and learn about new subjects.

Why should we accept you?

You should accept me because I can contribute to the discussion of cryptocurrency and gaming. Can't contribute too much to marketing but I will be involved in discussions regarding it. On top of that, I am an extremely active forum user.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

Post contribution and a great attitude.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I want to join Revolution because it would be the only group other than Skill that I have been in. I'd like to participate and build relationships with the users within this group.

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined Hf years ago and have been on here ever since. It's a pretty great place to learn interesting things and to stay up to date on certain subjects. Honestly I don't even remember how I found out it now that it has been so long ago.

Why should we accept you? I do spend a decent amount on here and will be active in the group. I'm a very easy person to get a long with and will contribute to the group whenever I can.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I have knowledge in various things pertaining to Hf and just in general. I am always up to help whoever needs it and don't mind in the slightest. All you have to do is shoot me a pm and I will get back as soon as I can. I will be active in the group also ?

Why do you want to join Revolution? I just want to be a part of a group and meet some new people who can hold some intelligent conversations. I know of several members in the group and from what i have seen it has some high quality users. Also groups are a great place to teach people some new things and a great place to learn a lot from, which is never a bad thing.

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I joined Hackforums because I was a interested in penetration testing as at the time our gaming community was suffering from DDOS attacks and other issues. I soon got tempted to learn more about malware and the market surrounding it, and began selling various tools. Now I'm mainly focused on whitehat projects due to past legal issues and have several running both on and off forums.

Why should we accept you?

I'm not going to sit here and type about how I should be accepted over other members. I provide you with my profile, you decide whether or not you want me as an addition to the group.

I can just say with confidence that I will contribute as best as I can, wherever I can.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

Whatever is needed from me and is within my power, I can contribute. I view helping people beneficial to both parties and definitely don't mind spending my time doing so. I have probably learnt more by helping others than I ever could by just research and practice alone.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I'll be honest, I've been away abroad for a few months. Sadly I do not feel comfortable using Hackforums there as the internet is heavily censored and surveilled. Now being away from Hackforums for a couple of months always comes with the hassle of getting out of touch with the community a bit. IMO contributing and being active within groups is a good way to get on track again.

Thanks in advance to everyone who spend their time to read my application. I hope it wasn't too boring.

Hiper - August 20, 2017, 1:32 am

Why & how did you join HackForums? I have been on hackforums since 2016 and started out using the market place to buy and sell gamertags and other social medias to make some money on the side.

Beginig of 2017 I have really got into crypto currencies and invested some money into Bitcoin, Ehereum, Ripple and Litecoin and many other alts.

Main reason for me joining HF is that I heard a lot of people say that it has a massive user base, users actually have decent amounts of cash to spend unlike other forums.

I've also heard that the community is a lot more mature and has far more useful threads and post that can help out along the way. joining HF was probably the best decision I've made in terms of online forums and communities.

Why should we accept you? I would like to be part of a smaller group on HF. This group seems very well rounded and has interest in gaming, crypto and market place, which all interest me too. Hopefully there are some like minded people in the group that I can have some interesting conversation and debates with.

I am very active and use the forum every day. You are more than welcome to check my recent posts and threads I feel that I post some HQ information and provide users with helpful tips.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I have a very good knowledge of the market and can help new users to invest. However I am no expert and really want to grow my knowledge as well as making some money. I am always looking out for news and info around gaming crypto and market place. I will always update the group with first hand information to help users out.

Why do you want to join Revolution? Mainly I would like to be part of a nice chill group where people don't take things too seriously but also have a lot of good information to offer. This group seems very easy going so that's why I feel that there might be a place for me inside.

Thank you for taking the time to read this.

Why & how did you join HackForums? As the name implies, I believed it was a programming forum where I can learn to do things for science. But I soon found out what it was really about, and that it wasn't just hacking.

Why should we accept you? I'm a laid back person that doesn't really engage in many arguments and just likes to watch from the distance, hence the low number of posts ever since I joined. I believe I should fit right in considering the group policy.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I'm not very talented and do not have extensive knowledge in a specific field, so whatever I do will be minuscule compared to the vast efforts of the group, however, I will try to do the best of my ability.

Why do you want to join Revolution? I would like to get to meet some new friends and be a part of something bigger than myself. :)

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined HackForums not too long ago because of a friend reference. He thought I would have an interest in that kinda stuff in which i did so I'm kind of a newbie here but I thought this group looked pretty cool.

Why should we accept you? You should accept me because I'm positive I can provide the group with much information and keep the chat positive and active. I can help others if help is needed.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I can bring a positive attitude and much information about many different things like cryptocurrency and other pending subjects. I have a tendency to do much research on needed or wanted topics.

Just wrote up a thread about aged bitcoin in the sub. Big incentive to you guys to join.

Kidjohnz™ - August 24, 2017, 7:53 am

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined HF a while back, maybe in 2013-2014. Don't remember the exact date but it was because the 12 year version of me really wanted to learn hacking but eventually, I became a graphic designer instead lol. I got ripped off from some ebook seller and I stopped coming to HF ever since, staying clear from any sort of ebook from now on lol. I'm back now, I've fallen in-love with how active the community is and how helpful some of you guys are. I'm here for good this time.

Why should we accept you? I hope to grow and be an exceptional graphic designer to HF's community and in-return contribute to this great sub-forum. I'm not going to over-exaggerate and say that I'm the best member for the group but I hope to actively contribute content to HF and Revolution.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I'm a chill and friendly member of HF, willing to offer help and share my knowledge of years of expertise with the members of revolution. By doing so, we all can grow as a group.

Why do you want to join Revolution? Everyone seems laid back and chill. It just seems like a fun group of people to be around, it seems like it would add the much needed excitement for my time here in HF.

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I joined HF back in 2010 to learn about hacking tools and its usage.

Why should we accept you?

Because I know a lot of many things and I'm a cool member from Chile. The only one on the board.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

Advices of life, as a retired blackhat hacker and as a father if 3 children.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

To know more people in HF and who knows, maybe to make some new friends.

AVirtualKinG - August 25, 2017, 12:55 pm

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I joined hackfourms at the start of 2017, and it was learning to crack and resell.

Why should we accept you?

Because I am a really nice chill dude, also have some plugs that I can get some stuff to giveaways or sell for cheap for the group

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I can bring a dedicated guy that is willing to work on projects and help other members succeed.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

Im looking to make some new friends and maybe some business partners. Also to help people out and maybe get soem advice.

Moneyroller - August 29, 2017, 4:10 pm

Why & how did you join HackForums?

Well I had always lurked before I joined, but I joined mainly to learn more things computer related. Also joined to be apart of the community because it seemed like a good thing to do to help time pass by

Why should we accept you?

Because I am a HQ guy and love playing games. It seems this group has a gaming section so I will definitely be active if accepted.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I am a nice and welcoming guy. I have been more active recently because college started and I'm not working 24/7. So I can be actively participating in events and what not.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

If I'm being honest to meet more people and converse more.

Why & how did you join HackForums?

Years ago there was a big Anonymous hype and at the time I was like 13-14 years old and really believed in the movement.

So I went to the internet to become a hacker. What better place than Hack forums ?

Why should we accept you?

I have been around for awhile and every time I join a group they usually collapse shortly after. Whether it be from the leader leaving the forum or getting ewhored.

In my opinion I think my personality is healthy in a group setting and im not a toxic or spammy person.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

Jokes, thoughts, stories, healthy discussions and generally I would probably help keep the image of the group with my posts.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

Looking for a group of people to talk to again without it disbanding shortly after. Meet new people and make some new friends.

I'm kinda new to the forums so here we go.

Why & how did you join HackForums? Well one sunny morning i woke up and received some text messages from a friend saying HF is the best forum he has ever been on. He stated it was a community of hackers, coders, cryptos and everything. I told him before i was looking for some new forums and communities to join because it always fascinated me. I'm in college currently studying computer science and technology and the coders section would be right up my alley. And also was very interested in getting started with cryptos. So a couple days ago i decided to finally join. And so far i think im addicted and will be staying a very long time. I learned a lot from the forums in the past couple days. I was already invested in BTC but now invested in many other coins i never even heard of like ETH. And im always interested in new ways to make money in the marketing scene.

Why should we accept you? I believe i would be a good fit in the group, and it would help me move forward on the forums and i would help others too.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I can bring whatever knowledge i have of coding and cryptos and a good, loyal, and helpful member that is active in his free time when not studying.

Why do you want to join Revolution? I would gain more knowledge about everything you guys have to offer and make some new lifelong friends while making the community a better place! And as you guys said it would be a great time and i am always looking for a great time :)

Thanks for reading my application!

Sooty - August 30, 2017, 12:13 pm

Why & how did you join HackForums? I joined hf because of a personal friend, who is currently a member here. He described the market place and online accounts, which I was currently very interested in. I mainly joined for the online accounts and the chance to make some profit but found so much more.

Why should we accept you? I'm a well-rounded type of individual; I find intrest in meeting new people and hearing their stories. I'm an active member and I'll definitely be a decicated user! I was recently removed from the Order (they sold it) and I'm seeking a new home.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I can't bring anything to the group because it's already perfect! ;)

I could bring my personality and my dedication to the group. I'll definitely be a very active member!

Why do you want to join Revolution? Ive heard wonderful things about this group and want to experience it for myself.

CA905 - August 30, 2017, 2:23 pm

Why & how did you join HackForums? My friend from school told me about it and I decided to give the whole forum thing a go and it's been pretty cool thus far. I am often bored at home in between activities and it passes the time which is the main reason I asked him for suggestions on what I can do when I'm chilling at home and not down for tv or getting drunk.

Why should we accept you? Well, I've been pretty active as of now. I pick up on things pretty Quickly, for example, a month ago, I knew next to nothing about cryptocurrencies and now I do. I only mention that because in the first post it states Crypto discussions. I'm not going to lie and pretend I am a mass gamer per say since the games I play are on my cell phone(Clash Royale, Game of War, etc). I am willing to stay on here, active, even during my education year to learn and grow with the community and the group if I am fortunate to make it in.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? Well to be honest, I am not certain, but I can definitely leave a positive mark on the forum and not ruin Revolution's current reputation, even promote it somehow through a positive vibe. I know it sounds kinda gay, but the only reason I'm even typing this is because I did an exchange (OSRS code for ETH) with a member that's part of your group and he was a pretty chill guy, and a fellow Canadian it seems. I peeped his profile and it seems like it was throughout the boards, not just with me and I looked into the group, even sent him a PM about it, but I found this section and found out about the group and here we are.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I could list a bunch of bs reasons that are lies, but the truth is, I really like the userbar, and I can genuinely say the members of the group I've seen active on HF as a whole seem to be HQ members, and I'd also like to be recognized with them on the website. Also, who doesn't want to have a great time and vibe out, eh?

Severus_Snape - August 30, 2017, 10:41 pm

Why & how did you join HackForums? HF is a family of programmers, researchers and geeks. I love this community all along the way i have joined this and knew this since old time as well. As a programmer and marketer i feel myself always a part of this learning community.

Why should we accept you? There is no specific reason for this, but what i know is Revolution group is specially dedicated to Marketers and Researchers. I just want to learn more and more and want to share as much as i can with community in return.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? I frankly don't know how much work is on-going in the sub-forum but that's sure whatever i knew i will try to help the group and community with. I am not a racist and i don't love to differentiate any part of my knowledge. I will try my best to help whatever and whomever i can with my skills and knowledge.

Why do you want to join Revolution? As i feel this is a core group, i feel to be part of this group to excel my self more and more and take my knowledge to next level.

Thanks for opening this Recruitment! Would love to be part of this family. Good Day.

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I found Hackforums by a mistake actually. I was Skyping some friends while playing an old RuneScape private server and he accidently sent me the wrong link for something he was trying to show me. I clicked the link and it lead me to here. I browsed for a few minutes and I decided I wanted to join. I joined because I was interested in cyber security at the time and wanted a place to hone my skills and get better advice, which I never ended up doing anyway. Instead I became very active in the gaming sections and would like to think most people have seen my name around there more than once.

Why should we accept you?

Whether or not I'm accepted is obviously up to the decision of the person that accepts people. However, I'd say bringing me onto the roster would benefit both myself and the group. I'm not the smartest, nor the best with marketing and such, but there's one thing for sure, I know my gaming and I know it well. I started as an independent developer many years ago and have worked with/for a couple big studios in the past few years. That said, I love sharing my opinions and insight on games and believe this is my biggest asset.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

I'm a fairly active person and I'm not negative by any means. My sense of humor is dark and dry but I'm also a very nice person with a big heart. I help as much as I can, whenever I can. Most of my posts are high quality and when I'm a part of something, I give it my all. I don't just bow out a couple weeks after joining something.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I'm very selective about what I get myself involved in and Revolution seems like a very high quality group, therefore I want to be a part of it. Finding something that strives for such a high caliber of quality is rare for me, so when it does happen, I jump at the opportunity. I think I would make an excellent addition to the group. With that, I thank you for the time it took to read this and hope to hear back soon.

Cheers,
Geralt

I'm not sure if a member like me that is not upgraded yet can apply but still, here's my application.

Why & how did you join HackForums? I just surfing the net about computer related forums then i saw this forums on the result. At first, i just clicking on some forum category here and not the topic as i don't have permission yet. I've been browsing this forums for a half months until i decided to register here as all the category seems to be active.

Why should we accept you? I may not look a high quality members but i can assure you i don't shit post or make some troubles with others. I am a friendly person that can help others whenever they need. I am also becoming active now here as i'm leaving other social media like fb and twitter.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is? As your member, if i get accepted, i can share my knowledge to everyone on whatever topic it is. I will surely contribute on every topic that i've seen on your group. I'm also a gamers and i love playing fps games like cs:go.

Why do you want to join Revolution? Your group has a lit userbar. I know this seems to be unrelated but i'm starting to become a designer and i love the design of your group. It isn't just a simple userbar, i'm pretty sure you put a time on it and thats how i can see your group as a high quality group. If i get accepted, this group will be my first group ever here and it will always be an honor to me to become part of this.

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I joined HackForums almost 2 years ago. I've never been on forums before, I didn't really liked to chill on forums since a lot of them are just useful.

My friend told me you can learn a lot of stuff and make money on HF, that's what got me interested. And with time going, I got to making money and having my services on this forum.

I think, quality gets proven with time going.

Why should we accept you?

I don't pretend you to accept me in, but I am a very active, loyal and trustful guy who is always up to make new friends, learn and teach new things.

Life is all about learning and teaching something new.

I will bring my activity in this group and try to contribute to everything.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

This group will definitely be more active with me in it, since I do stay online almost all day everyday and I will be a good friend for everyone since I do share only good vibes.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

I love to interact with new people every day, that's what my business is about.

Revolution looks to be a nice organized group, with nice people in.

So, I think I will fit amazing.

Chasun - September 3, 2017, 1:12 pm

Why & how did you join HackForums?

I first found HackForums off of multiple Google searches that revolved around the word "Hack." At the time, I wanted to learn more about ethical hacking and penetration testing, as well as overall development. Upon reading the technicalities behind both fields, I quickly lost interest and took a hiatus from HackForums. Months later I came back and found myself browsing the marketplace as well as the financial sections of HackForums. Weeks of browsing and reading without posting a single comment, I eventually came across social networking and media, which planted the seed for my interest in social media today.

Why should we accept you?

To be frank, there are a lot of characteristics and qualifications I lack. I don't have a high post count, nor do I have insane amounts of reputation. Heck I'm not even an upgraded member. But despite all those drawbacks, I'm a relatively smart and knowledgeable person. For the time I've been on HackForums I've seen lots of unreasonable and stupid actions, such as shitposts, irrelevant remarks, poorly crafted threads, and so on. These comments and posts had little to no value, and clearly emphasized the gap between low quality and high quality. Despite the fact that I lack the fancy badges and the colored names, I know that as a high quality member I will provide value to Revolution.

What can you bring to Revolution to make it a better group than it already is?

My professional skill-set primarily revolves around social media. While I can't guarantee that I'll explode Revolution's social media presence, I can promise that I can become a great asset in collaborating with other social networking monkeys within the group. In addition, I'm a pretty frequent gamer, playing games all the way from Gen 1 Pokemon to PUBG. Last, but not least, my all-around character and personality will become a huge bonus to Revolution. I enjoy having formal discussions around business, entrepreneurship, and evolution. But my formal side doesn't stop me from becoming a complete down-to-earth and relaxed guy to chill with. Oh, and I have a pretty cool voice.

Why do you want to join Revolution?

The biggest reason why I want to join Revolution is to meet new people. Ever since I've joined HackForums, I've always thought that the community was very close-knit and tight. People had mountains of friends that would vouch for them and it always felt like I was missing out on something. As a new member with no acquaintances whatsoever I found it difficult to develop new connections, thus prompting me to eventually lose interest in HackForums. However, now that I have returned, I want to make it a full-fledged commitment to interact with fellow members. As much as an acceptance into Revolution would help me, I'm confident that my participation and interaction within the group will create a positive impact as well.

Recruitment is closed until further notice.

Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I am suspending the group. All leaders are removed. No one can join the group. The private forums are currently closed.

This is due to continued abuse in the Marketplace by the owner and the group even after warnings. It's been so widespread and continuous that Staff and I have no choice but to take this action.

Group will be suspended until I say it's not. Group owner is currently banned for 2 more weeks.

If the abuse continues after I lift the suspension then I just close the group entirely.

Nuff said and no discussion required.
