

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: help i think i clicked on a phishing link

TNB Jeff - August 9, 2017, 6:43 am

can anyone help me i think i clicked on a phishing link... what can they get from me clicking on the link?

Conceal - August 9, 2017, 6:44 am

As far as I'm aware phishing links are linked designed to look legitimate in order to bait your login information. As long as you didn't login you should be okay. However, if you did I suggest changing your password asap. Other than that you're okay.

5chn4pp - August 9, 2017, 6:48 am

Just change your passwords and maybe reset your browser, unless it contained an exploit nothing big will happen.

TNB Jeff - August 9, 2017, 6:55 am

how do I tell if it's got an exploit?

5chn4pp - August 9, 2017, 6:56 am

(Aug 9, 2017 06:55 AM)TNB Jeff Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) how do I tell if it's got an exploit? What type of site was it? What did it imitate?

V?rt - August 9, 2017, 7:02 am

You'll be fine unless something downloaded, or you logged your information.

TNB Jeff - August 9, 2017, 7:03 am

it was a picture scontent.fprg2-1.fna.fbcdn.n3(this 3 was an e)t/v/t1.0-9/20429925_107394416610499_5526970450626460460_n.jpg?oh=200b6db922072ed3f454537eee2ab497&oe=59F6C313

5chn4pp - August 9, 2017, 7:07 am

Nah that shouldn't contain any exploit, change passwords and reset your browser, then you're fine.

TNB Jeff - August 9, 2017, 7:16 am

(Aug 9, 2017 07:07 AM)Bromo-DragonFLY Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Nah that shouldn't contain any exploit, change passwords and reset your browser, then you're fine. so you think he grabbed all my saved info on my browser?

5chn4pp - August 9, 2017, 7:17 am

(Aug 9, 2017 07:16 AM)TNB Jeff Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) so you think he grabbed all my saved info on my browser?

Nope, but as a security precaution I would recommend to do it, there is a small chance he could but the link doesn't look that bad.

TNB Jeff - August 9, 2017, 7:19 am

(Aug 9, 2017 07:17 AM)Bromo-DragonFLY Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Nope, but as a security precaution I would recommend to do it, there is a small chance he could but the link doesn't look that bad. okay thankyou very much! would + rep if i could.

Emma_parker - August 9, 2017, 7:20 am

Hi

Do you have any software which can protect you? Mostly people send emails to get your credentials and your get access to your data.

I will advice you to change all your accounts password and install antiviruses. I use a vpn service and they claim that they protect with phishing attacks as well.

Nyx - August 10, 2017, 2:33 pm

(Aug 9, 2017 07:03 AM)TNB Jeff Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) it was a picture scontent.fprg2-1.fna.fbcdn.n3(this 3 was an e)t/v/t1.0-9/20429925_107394416610499_5526970450626460460_n.jpg?oh=200b6db922072ed3f454537eee2ab497&oe=59F6C313

That is just a facebook image link.

NeverForgotten. - August 10, 2017, 3:09 pm

Nothing to worry about OP, It belongs to Facebook just as witch said. I just wanted to confirm it.

QQ Spitfire - September 5, 2017, 7:21 am

Would just reset the browser to be on the safe side!

onsomeshiz - September 5, 2017, 7:23 am

I love clicking on phishing links I always just fill in the blanks like this:

User: fuck pass: you :)

freefall4ever - November 29, 2019, 4:57 pm

It all depends on what information you put on the phishing link but they may have your IP address.