

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Members Returning

Linux™ - August 10, 2017, 11:21 am

Let's say a person requested an account closure, or was closed for inactivity years ago. Are they allowed to make a new account if they return? I'm going to college soon, and the field I'll be going into wouldn't look kindly at me being a part of communities like this. ?

Sheeple - August 10, 2017, 11:22 am

If they get closed for inactivity you can come back on a new account. Pretty sure you're just not allowed to:

Have multiple open accounts

Return if you've been banned for breaking rules

b?xxy - August 10, 2017, 11:23 am

Well, hopefully you don't link your personal life to your HF account.

'Ryan - August 10, 2017, 11:24 am

Just ask the staff for a 4 year vacation ban.

SIM-2875347 - August 10, 2017, 11:25 am

I doubt you can get opened again if you requested closure. Being closed for inactivity might be possible if you message a staff member, I know you can make temp accounts to request appeals so that might apply as well?

Not entirely sure so dont quote me on this.

Sharjah - August 10, 2017, 11:26 am

Pretty sure since you're uber you have 0 chance of getting closed for inactivity

BeNT- - August 10, 2017, 11:27 am

(Aug 10, 2017 11:21 AM)Linux™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Let's say a person requested an account closure, or was closed for inactivity years ago. Are they allowed to make a new account if they return? I'm going to college soon, and the field I'll be going into wouldn't look kindly at me being a part of communities like this. ?

If you requested closure, odds are the account is done permanently.

Try using the form, Omni can I believe reopen, but he basically never does.

Cheers

B

Zexo - August 10, 2017, 11:28 am

Friend had his account closed and made a new one and ended up getting closed so I guess meh.

Wet Rag - August 10, 2017, 11:31 am

(Aug 10, 2017 11:23 AM)b?xxy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Well, hopefully you don't link your personal life to your HF account.

Pretty much lol

M?xim - August 10, 2017, 11:32 am

Quote:and the field I'll be going into wouldn't look kindly at me being a part of communities like this.

....

Wouldn't they look kindly at you for being in a security forum? Where you can learn and share things? Alright.

Take a vacban and return later.

?now - August 10, 2017, 11:32 am

Omni removed the ban on inactivity I believe. Dw about it

SIM-2875347 - August 10, 2017, 11:34 am

(Aug 10, 2017 11:32 AM)?now Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Omni removed the ban on inactivity I believe. Dw about it

I believe accounts that were previously closed for inactivity still are though.

Zexo - August 10, 2017, 11:34 am

(Aug 10, 2017 11:34 AM)Buildoman Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I believe accounts that were previously closed for inactivity still are though.

They were re opened but awards still gone.

SIM-2875347 - August 10, 2017, 11:35 am

(Aug 10, 2017 11:34 AM)Zexo Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) They were re opened but awards still gone.

Ah I didn't realize that, rip awards

minimalist - August 10, 2017, 11:44 am

Once you've requested closure, you cannot rejoin under any circumstances.

Eagle 95 - August 10, 2017, 11:45 am

Closed accounts are almost never opened again. That also applies to closures on member's request. However, Omniscient doesn't close accounts for inactivity anymore so you can drop by from time to time to retake 6 month vacation bans if you want to keep your account super secure.

Accounts closed due to inactivity (while that policy was valid) can rejoin again.