Thread: [\[Official\] Notorious for sale - UPDATED](#)

Vitani - August 17, 2017, 3:37 pm

As some of you might know, TheChief transferred ownership of the group Notorious to me this week.

Due to personal reasons he felt it was best to leave HF but as he still owned the group he asked me to sell it for him.

Price: $5000,- and you pay the $250,- transfer fees to Omniscient.

Current offer: -

Feel free to PM me your best offer and be sure to be approved by Omniscient prior to sending me a PM.

F.A.Q.

Question: TheChief's asking price for the same group was lower, why is that?

Answer: He was in a rush to sell the group. Now that I'm here to sell it for him there's no rush anymore.

Question: Will you accept payment plans?

Answer: No.

Question: What's your gain in all of this? Will you get part of the money from the sale?

Answer: No. Any and all money made from this sale will go towards TheChief.

Question: How many subforums does this group have ?

Answer: It has 1 subforum. A group is allowed to have 2 so if you want you can purchase another from Omniscient after you purchased the group.

Doubtful anyone would spend 4k+ for a friend as a gift. You're either getting paid to find one at a lower than market value or you have too much money to spend in which case you can do as you please.

If it's the first (since you're not using the words gifting it to a friend, this is the more likely scenario) one might say that using status and reputation to manipulate group prices in hopes of buying one below market value is actually quite clever. I hope it works out for you ?

She is married to someone and lives halfway across the country lol.

I gave it to a friend of numerous years now.

The sad fact is people believe you can only be friends with a female whom you're sexually attracted to and would only give a gift to them because you're sexually unsatisfied. I assume I will also be called a homosexual virgin because the next one is for a male colleague. Like most things the ones pointing the finger are normally the ones guilty of said act.

No matter. I truly, honestly, do not care how people view the situation it just shows me the type of people I wish to avoid or ignore.

All the rage stems from jealousy. Who here wouldn't want a free 5k? They know Froggy is a girl so they harp on that. If you want to give away 5k to a long-time friend then that is your prerogative as far as I'm concerned.

Idk why you're selling it on his behalf after he treats you like that. But I'm assuming you must have your reasons, so I won't berate you.

Do we have to contact omniscient to get pre approval for ownership or can anyone get it after winning the bid? curious!

Contact Omni, although you'll need to fulfill undisclosed criteria.

I respect you are still willing to sell it for him. Personally I'd tell him to go do it himself or find someone else.

Just because he went back on his word doesn't mean I do. I promised him I would help with this and that's what I am going to do.

You have to first contact Omniscient and get approved. Alternatively you can get an already approved user to hold the group for you.

It's a matter of perspective. His actions technically make the given words void. But like I said, I respect you're still willing to sell it for him. That's what I call trustworthy.

Could someone explain to me why a group cost $6k+? and why it costs $250 for Omni just to do a query in the DB to switch leaders?

You pay to be a staff member in your own corner of the site.

And omni owns the site so he has the last say in things. He doesnt have to do anything, especially for free.

So you pay to be a mod in a group that could potentially be inactive AF...? Why don't these people just start their own sites?

Groups on HF never made much sense to me. Excuse my ignorance.

HF already has a large userbase and buying a group is a one time fee, unlike having to host and maintain your own site. There is also the potential to monetize them.

I heard people are doing fake bids so. I will still do my original bid as that at least is valid.

Views can buy it otherwise... 5k. I honestly doubt that a real bid. For this group one to pay 5k nope thanks. Its all views.

So my original offer stands.

My bid was active and valid until yesterday whenever the cryptocurrency market crashed, in all honesty the group is worth more than $5000 the reason I offered $5000 is because what you find whenever you search TheChief's UID.
