Steam doesn't remove trade bans it will be extremely hard to do this make sure you don't get scammed.

There are ex-steam workers here, might contact a couple- just posting this to see what i can get.

LOL. No. If you really believe someone on here can remove that trade ban - be prepared to lose $5,000.

Delph - August 21, 2017, 1:24 pm

I've seen people get a trade ban removed, however, the method is highly blackhat.
I also don't know if it works anymore.

Either way, best of luck finding someone. Make sure you don't get scammed out of $5,000. ?

Well in the past few months millions of dollars worth of skins was banned if anyone had a method they could get way more then $5k.

A couple of years ago, a guy found an exploit in steams software which made him bypass these kind of stuff, he was white hat though so he just informed steam about it.

There might be someone who sits on a Oday here, you never know if u never ask.

But i would suggest a high reputable middleman though.

wit - August 21, 2017, 1:24 pm

It's incredibly blackhat to get a trade ban removed.

Did he get money out of it when he informed them about it?

I've done it before, it involves social engineering, however, it also has a bunch of other things you need to do beforehand.

I got my account with a $800 inventory unbanned.

Although, I'm going to warn you that it takes longer than a month. It usually takes one month to work things out with Steam support, then the account gets "unlocked" within 90 days.

Roberto Scorpius Malfoy - August 21, 2017, 1:30 pm

Depending on what he has done i can get the account unbanned. Got a lot of contacts working in the Steam support. But it depends on what kind of thing he did to get the ban.

Scamming ban, no community ban or anything, i will double check why its trade banned.

This was about 2012 if i remember correctly, so there weren't the hype of bug-bounties as there are today.

If you logged in to an account and transfered skins to your own with the same ip i wont be able to help you.

it actually depends on the reason there is a tradeban.

There is legit, no way to un-trade ban a VAC'd account.

You are correct, it does depend on the reason.

I can attempt this for OP. I'm going to post proof of my account being unbanned in a bit.

Someone here was just unbanning vad'd accounts though

Nos. - August 21, 2017, 1:35 pm

I've had a friend do this in the past - I've PM'd ya, although he can needs reason etc.

I'm not capable of unbanning vac'd accounts. My method only works for a specific reason.

Even then, I've only done it once so I don't know the success rate.

Prophett - August 21, 2017, 1:36 pm

Make sure to use a middleman (preferable Minimalist) for this deal if you do find someone.

Its a little more then social engineering. Some topic we are not supposed to talk about in the "ewhoring section" to give you a hint ?

@OP its possible just make sure you use a MM and dont get scammed. If you got $5,000 to shell out it must be a nice account though. Goodluck with this

Thanks, got a couple people that have shown interest. I need to clear pms lol

Delph - August 21, 2017, 1:42 pm

No matter who you deal with, use a middleman.
I have sent proof to OP.

This is totally achievable, however, it just takes time.

asvps - August 21, 2017, 1:42 pm

I doubt you are actually offering $5000 PayPal/BTC

I think what you're offering is the person unbanning the account and then you give them $5000+ in skins is this correct? if so this is very risky.

NonLeaf - August 21, 2017, 1:44 pm

I don't think anyone is able to get ur account to be able to trade again.

Moth - August 21, 2017, 1:59 pm
