Doctor Strange - August 21, 2017, 10:12 pm

Sent him $90 CAD and a 17% fee on top. Total of $105.30 + the PayPal fee. In exchange for $90 CAD in BTC.

He's been giving me the run around all day. I waited 6 hours before he showed any kind of proof, and when he did, it was a fabricated screenshot. I still have nothing.

PAYPAL TRANSACTION (Click to View)

HIS FABRICATED TRANSACTION (Click to View)

If he had in fact sent me a payment I would have had something along the lines of this showing in my wallet:

"You don't see this?

I've given him a warning. And he's ignored it. I'm opening a deal dispute and doing a charge back.

He's been made aware of the DD, and ignored PMs from myself and other users. Very suspect behavior.

Here are the few messages I have back and forth at this time (low inbox space, he kept me talking so that I would have to clear it out 3-4 times through the day). If there is any way staff can retrieve the conversations at and around the time of the PayPal transfer which was provided they will have all they need.

I'd also like to add that he was accused during our transaction of scamming another member, but he "cleared it up", I was made aware of it by members that are in a discord chat with me.

Sad that a member of Sheep Gang scammed you. Please don't think all of us at Sheep Gang are scammers. I'll message the owner now and link him this report.

I sent the offending user a PM with a link to this thread, it was read and ignored so don't expect a response.

Very suspicious behavior giving some validation to this dispute. Though you still need to add proof of the deal originating on-site.

I already contacted him. It was Caffery that I was originally going to do the exchange with. But he went offline after asking how I'd like to pay, and immediately after Alucard. contacted me saying he could do it. So it was my own presumption that Caffery sent him my way (because he's a member of Sheep Gang) that got me screwed over. After a period of waiting I outright asked Caffery if he was familiar with him, and when he said no that's when I began to suspect it was a scam. But in no way did he claim Caffery put him up to it. Again, my own presumption.

Lesson learned.

The only way to do so would be if staff could retrieve the original PMs sent back and forth between him and I. He stayed in contact for about 8 hours straight over HF and text. Long enough that I had to clear my inbox at least 3-4 times.

Dude. I was trying to sell OSRS gold earlier and he PMed me. I really wanted to get rid of it, but something in my gut told me wait it out. I did a HF search and found an old account with Alucard. username related to a community warning, so even without proof that this was his previous account I still felt like it would be risky considering the account was made last month.

Probably because he knows he's fucked if he doesn't refund OP... regardless, he's going to get a bunch of DWC rep hits. If he scammed then he's probably gunna try it on a few unsuspecting members and dip.

This Alucard. kid repped me saying "Seems really suspicious, DWC." that's the same thing I repped him so hes technically false repping people too which is breaking a rule I believe.

e?erg1zer - August 21, 2017, 11:00 pm

Sorry you had to find out the hard way, but there's a reason only Ub3rs can create threads in the Currency Exchange section (though it still doesn't prevent scams from happening), not to mention that his account is barely a month old. In the future, make sure you use a trusted exchanger, and keep in mind the "cost" of someone's account (upgrades, time spent, posts, etc.) relative to the amount you're exchanging with them.

He can't refund me is the thing. His PP was in the red. I paid off his balance owing when I sent the $105.30 CAD lol. He had $55.30 left over. So he couldn't refund me in full even if he wanted to. He can either come good for the BTC or is PP is going right back in the red and he'll be limited. Assuming that was true, and it's his real PP.

Would just like to add as a former leader of sheeppgang, his group has nothing to do with this. Not sure why that keeps being brought up, the guy is clearly a scammer though, and instead of replying he is sending other people false reps, saying dwc and such when he has never dealt with those people, because they posted here or sent him neutrals.

Anyways, I hope this is resolved, until then I have -3 the user hoping to warn others because I feel this was definitely a scam.

Best of luck Doctor Strange, be sure to trade with reputable people next time.

Sorry this happened to you. I would recommend calling up PayPal and requesting a chargeback, as opposed to just filing through the dispute centre.

Not sure what can be done since it was done through F&F and PayPal balance. There are other ways to get his PayPal limited, although I'm not sure what good that'll do at this point.

Did you send it from a computer/IP that you regularly use?
