Probably "Geometric Art".

But not entirely sure.

Low poly is the term you're looking for I think.

As someone said above, it is low poly art

This seems like a good video from quickly scrubbing through it, if you have the time and passion to learn how to create this on your own.

Good job boys.

As others mentioned, it's low-poly. It takes a lot of time to complete one art piece aha. There's a guy on IG that's dedicated in making these kind of low-poly artworks for sneakers.

You can look up videos on it if you have the patience.

I once made a self-portrait in low poly 7+ hours of work, which was something.

But in the end low poly does look awesome.

Wow lol that's some patience you have there.

I'd love to see the art piece!
