Thread: [\[THE EXECUTIVES\]Renting out of my group completely](#)

topdog77 - August 29, 2017, 3:57 pm

I am currently just too busy to run a group right now with my 2 company's, I have my 2nd company doing a full launch soon and that is consuming my time for the next few months + my full time college(getting my MBA.)

The group is currently scrapped clean the only member being me.

You will essentially run the group and have full authority over it, I will have no association to what you do unless you violate my terms(which we can discuss).

You can:

- Sell leadership spots, sell buyins
- Have the normal board + TWO sub-forums that you can do what u want with
- Run the group exactly how you want to
- Save money renting ownership of a group vs spending $5000-$6500 for one yourself
- Take over our discord with 150+ members

Note: If you want to rebrand it or something you'll have to pay for that separately but you certainly can do whatever you wish.

Prices can be discussed for this, add me on discord at or PM me.

If I don't find someone to do this the group will sit inactive for a few months as I have no intentions to sell it. Payments will most likely be on a month by month basis.

Don't bother Hating, I don't care, thx.

About how much are you looking for

The GRim - August 29, 2017, 4:00 pm

This is not allowed anymore.

I would think $500 minimum would be the lowest I'd even think about and I highly doubt I'd go that low.

Group leadership spots I know can go for anywhere from $75-$200 a pop, let alone buyins or anything else.

If someone is willing to monetize it they could probably flip this for a nice profit, It'd be hard to lose money.

As I said though its all negotiable, just depends on the individual and what sort of plans you have.

Where is there a rule against it?

I've locked this thread until I hear back from Omni regarding if this is allowed or not, theres nothing in the Help Docs or group section I can find to indicate a rule against this, but if there is then this will stay closed!
