

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: dutch cyberpolice contacted me today

w4RNING - August 30, 2017, 4:32 am

Hi, apparantly the police wants to speak with me about some german software I purchased 5 years ago when I was 13.

What am I supposed to do? Any advice

Kyrus - August 30, 2017, 4:34 am

Tell them to talk to your lawyer

DARPA - August 30, 2017, 4:35 am

Speak in French. Go wee mademoseille Si amigo bill gates. Putin veiger.

test - August 30, 2017, 4:37 am

Don't respond to anything without speaking to a lawyer. Also change the IP on your toaster and delete your cookies. But seriously get legal advice.

70s - August 30, 2017, 4:47 am

Burn hdd's dont let them find the loli stash

Get a lawyer and ask about legal advice

Effexion - August 30, 2017, 4:51 am

What was the software, if you don't mind me asking. For that time period, I would have guessed Black Shades, but I know that wasn't German.

Trippie - August 30, 2017, 5:44 am

I would aim towards legal advice to be honest.

Pre-eminent - August 30, 2017, 5:47 am

What software did they contact you about?

My suggestion, for now, would be to speak with a lawyer and hear them out, if they want to cooperate do that, otherwise, burn your HDD and stick to your lawyer's advice.

Danktober - August 30, 2017, 5:50 am

Let me guess blackshades or am I wrong

Mr. Robot - August 30, 2017, 5:52 am

Go in and speak with them. Make sure you have a fake security blog setup for research and malware analyzing - point them towards it and be on your way.

Tell them your old blog hosted on a free domain was removed if they ask about site registration dates.

False King - August 30, 2017, 5:53 am

I highly doubt this story, knowing a bit how Dutch police works online. What software did you use, how did they contact you, what did you answer, etc.

Really you're asking for help, but without giving any information we need to give proper advice.

(Aug 30, 2017 05:52 AM)Mr. Robot Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Go in and speak with them. Make sure you have a fake security blog setup for research and malware analyzing - point them towards it and be on your way.

Tell them your old blog hosted on a free domain was removed if they ask about site registration dates.

Yeah because lying to the police is the way to go.

Ruler2010 - August 30, 2017, 6:17 am

Go and speak to them dont give anything away if you did wrong, if they got something on you then say you want your lawyer if they dont speak to them and see what they want

Mr. Robot - August 30, 2017, 6:20 am

(Aug 30, 2017 05:53 AM)Wessel Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah because lying to the police is the way to go. When isn't it? Always lie to the police.

Bossk - August 30, 2017, 6:49 am

They are probably interested in knowing if you performed any sort of financial fraud. Either way, follow Mr robob's advice.

SIM-2223238 - August 30, 2017, 6:50 am

put heavy morrocan accent and say

IK SPREEK JE TAAL NIET

CryptoWorld! - August 30, 2017, 6:50 am

(Aug 30, 2017 04:37 AM)testaccountplsignore Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Don't respond to anything without speaking to a lawyer. Also change the IP on your toaster and delete your cookies. But seriously get legal advice.

this is what I would do, anyways op gl and let us know what happen

Mr. Robot - August 30, 2017, 6:51 am

(Aug 30, 2017 06:17 AM)Ruler2010 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Go and speak to them dont give anything away if you did wrong, if they got something on you then say you want your lawyer if they dont speak to them and see what they want

1. If they had something on him, he would have been raided to preserve more evidence on his devices.

2. They would put him under surveillance for a decent amount of time before raiding him and/or pressing charges.

You would not be asked, you would be told OP.

SIM-2223238 - August 30, 2017, 6:51 am

lmao did u actually check if it was the actual police

w4RNING - August 30, 2017, 6:52 am

This is about razor software or something like that

The dutch police told me they were given information from the german police about an imvestigation and they are questioning a group of people but are not taking legal action because it happened during underage but just questioning, i need to appear next tuesday at a nearby police station

Sorry for broken english its sent from my phone

MonetizeMaster - August 30, 2017, 6:52 am

(Aug 30, 2017 04:34 AM)Kyrus Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Tell them to talk to your lawyer vital!

Don't talk with police!

Mr. Robot - August 30, 2017, 6:53 am

(Aug 30, 2017 06:52 AM)w4RNING Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is about razor software or something like that The dutch police told me they were given information from the german police about an investigation and they are questioning a group of people but are not taking legal action because it happened during underage but just questioning, i need to appear next tuesday at a nearby police station

Sorry for broken english its sent from my phone

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5229422>

I still have the thread in my user CP subscriptions.

w4RNING - August 30, 2017, 7:10 am

(Aug 30, 2017 06:53 AM)Mr. Robot Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#)

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5229422>

I still have the thread in my user CP subscriptions.

The thing is i dont remember using this software, but apparantly they want to know why I had bought this software.. anyone knows what I can tell them as answer?

I never bought razorcrypt if thats a thing, but i might have added coins to razorscanner for a friend if that is the case

...

False King - August 30, 2017, 7:15 am

(Aug 30, 2017 07:10 AM)w4RNING Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The thing is i dont remember using this software, but apparantly they want to know why I had bought this software.. anyone knows what I can tell them as answer?

I never bought razorcrypt if thats a thing, but i might have added coins to razorscanner for a friend if that is the case

...

Don't take any legal advice from members on HackForums. Get real legal advice. You could try to give Het Juridisch Locket a call and/or visit: <https://www.juridischloket.nl/>

And certainly don't follow the advice of Mr. Robot - lying to the police is considered obstruction of justice and could really get you in trouble, even while you might not be in trouble right now.

Mr. Robot - August 30, 2017, 7:27 am

(Aug 30, 2017 07:15 AM)Wessel Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Don't take any legal advice from members on HackForums. Get real legal advice. You could try to give Het Juridisch Locket a call and/or visit: <https://www.juridischloket.nl/>

And certainly don't follow the advice of Mr. Robot - lying to the police is considered obstruction of justice and could really get you in trouble, even while you might not be in trouble right now.

Most legal advice you will get needs to be paid for, under which if you only seek advice but do not wish to have them represent you - than can report you to the police and then become your prosecutor or that firm may find a way to attack you.

This happens more than you would think. Telling him to seek out a lawyer for a situation that wont give him jail time with basic self preservation is retarded.

Him getting a lawyer (paying) could end him with a larger case at hand too.

Basic self preservation against law enforcement is always rule 1 when doing anything legal or illegal online.

// Your advice Wessel is ill-advised and shouldn't even be considered. OP is quite capable of talking to the police on his own without a lawyer present.

False King - August 30, 2017, 7:33 am

(Aug 30, 2017 07:27 AM)Mr. Robot Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Most legal advice you will get needs to be paid for, under which if you only seek advice but do not wish to have them represent you - than can report you to the police and then become your prosecutor or that firm may find a way to attack you.

This happens more than you would think. Telling him to seek out a lawyer for a situation that wont give him jail time with basic self preservation is retarded.

Him getting a lawyer (paying) could end him with a larger case at hand too.

Basic self preservation against law enforcement is always rule 1 when doing anything legal or illegal online.

// Your advice Wessel is ill-advised and shouldn't even be considered. OP is quite capable of talking to the police on his own without a lawyer present.

You're really one annoying piece of shit at times that thinks he knows all. Basicly your whole post can be debunked by the fact "Juridisch Loket" is bound to some laws and completely free. Laws are different here, and so are the instances that help. Not saying he should have a lawyer present when talking to the police. Never said anything along those lines. What I did say is if he wants legal advice (which he is requesting), he shouldn't ask it on a forum filled with entitled retards like you, but rather get the advice from people who actually know what they are talking about.

Now move along you utter annoying self-loathing egoistic excuse for a human being.

Mr. Robot - August 30, 2017, 7:35 am

(Aug 30, 2017 07:33 AM)Wessel Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You're really one annoying piece of shit at times that thinks he knows all. Basicly your whole post can be debunked by the fact "Juridisch Loket" is bound to some laws and completely free. Laws are different here, and so are the instances that help. Not saying he should have a lawyer present when talking to the police. Never said anything along those lines. What I did say is if he wants legal advice (which he is requesting), he shouldn't ask it on a forum filled with entitled retards like you, but rather get the advice from people who actually know what they are talking about.

Now move along you utter annoying self-loathing egoistic excuse for a human being.

Really is sad you don't understand how privacy really works. You aren't protected when talking to anyone when it involves money - lawyers especially, they talk and share information with other firms to make money from both clients involved.

Never ever trust law enforcement and never trust lawyers. You clearly take this world for granted and for face value.

OP do as you wish, when it comes to criminal activity - I clearly know nothing about it.

False King - August 30, 2017, 7:46 am

(Aug 30, 2017 07:35 AM)Mr. Robot Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Really is sad you don't understand how privacy really works. You aren't protected when talking to anyone when it involves money - lawyers especially, they talk and share information with other firms to make money from both clients involved.

Never ever trust law enforcement and never trust lawyers. You clearly take this world for granted and for face value.

OP do as you wish, when it comes to criminal activity - I clearly know nothing about it.

You should really check out what you are talking about before you even start typing a reply. Juridisch Loket isn't a private firm, they don't even provide lawyers. They do however provide light legal advice, such as the information OP needs. Just because are such a 1337 badass hacker that's indulged in criminal activity, it doesn't mean you have any idea how it works in the Netherlands. I highly doubt you should even help those in your own country. Even though lying to the police isn't illegal when questioned, if it ever comes to a case it will backfire, and not just a little. Doing what you said might even give him bigger problems than he's currently in. If anything, which is better advice, he should just keep his mouth shut and don't say anything.

Mr. Robot - August 30, 2017, 7:52 am

(Aug 30, 2017 07:46 AM)Wessel Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You should really check out what you are talking about before you even start typing a reply. Juridisch Loket isn't a private firm, they don't even provide lawyers. They do however provide light legal advice, such as the information OP needs. Just because are such a 1337 badass hacker that's indulged in criminal activity, it doesn't mean you have any idea how it works in the Netherlands. I highly doubt you should even help those in your own country. Even though lying to the police isn't illegal when questioned, if it ever comes to a case it will backfire, and not just a little. Doing what you said might even give him bigger problems than he's currently in. If anything, which is better advice, he should just keep his mouth shut and don't say anything.

Again you claim to know where i'm from.
Good on you.

False King - August 30, 2017, 7:56 am

(Aug 30, 2017 07:52 AM)Mr. Robot Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Again you claim to know where i'm from.
Good on you.

Never claimed I know where you're from. However I do know, 100 percent sure, you're not from the Netherlands. Not sure why you're even commenting on that part, probably because you have nothing else to say and want to have the final word, so you'll start pouring out bullshit once again as you've done multiple times in the past when you can't win a discussion. You're pathetic.

The Doge of Wall Street - August 30, 2017, 7:58 am

(Aug 30, 2017 06:50 AM)Aggron Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) put heavy morrocan accent and say

IK SPREEK JE TAAL NIET
no no thats not the way you need to say wollah was jouw probleem ik heb niks gedaan aaazemmme a vieze racist spuug

Mr. Robot - August 30, 2017, 8:03 am

(Aug 30, 2017 07:56 AM)Wessel Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Never claimed I know where you're from. However I do know, 100 percent sure, you're not from the Netherlands. Not sure why you're even commenting on that part, probably because you have nothing else to say and want to have the final word, so you'll start pouring out bullshit once again as you've done multiple times in the past when you can't win a discussion. You're pathetic.

You want to get into a voice chat tomorrow and then claim I am not from NL? Sounds like a plan. Just because I don't live there currently, doesn't mean I wasn't either born there nor lived there.

PUBG - August 30, 2017, 8:27 am

Statue of limitations protects crimes committed by a minor? Don't lie to the police and answer whatever fucking shit they are going to ask you and move on. However I do recommend getting some legal counsel/advice.

False King - August 30, 2017, 9:32 am

(Aug 30, 2017 08:03 AM)Mr. Robot Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You want to get into a voice chat tomorrow and then claim I am not from NL? Sounds like a plan. Just because I don't live there currently, doesn't mean I wasn't either born there nor lived there.

Well, that makes you just stupid or incapable of reading in that case, because if you actually read the contents of the site I linked you'd have known almost everything you said was incorrect.

10x - August 30, 2017, 9:33 am

You were 13 lmfao, they ain't gonna do shit bro, at least thats how it works in Canada

Pebble - August 30, 2017, 10:08 am

They are asking you, ignore it. Don't speak to them unless you are actually arrested, and say nothing without a lawyer. The only thing that can come out of you voluntarily speaking to them is self-incrimination.

Vuln - August 30, 2017, 10:31 am

If you only used RazorScanner then you have nothing to worry about. But if you're paranoid then contacting the Juridisch Loket doesn't hurt. You can simply call or email them.

HOMODIN - August 30, 2017, 10:51 am

(Aug 30, 2017 08:27 AM)PUBG Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Statue of limitations protects crimes committed by a minor?Tell that to the chinese people...

Anyhow, getting a lawyer will be expensive and it also states that you have something to hide when you need a shield like that. In theory you don't need to tell the police anything, it's their job to figure things out, if you tell them stuff and they are building a case against someone else they can force you to testify.

Best tip, "I don't remember getting that, we were just fooling around with some friends n didn't really know what the hell was going on".

G3yb01 - August 30, 2017, 10:59 am

(Aug 30, 2017 05:52 AM)Mr. Robot Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Go in and speak with them. Make sure you have a fake security blog setup for research and malware analyzing - point them towards it and be on your way.

Tell them your old blog hosted on a free domain was removed if they ask about site registration dates.

This tbh

hostsailor

--

OP DON'T GIVE THEM SHIT

DOn't Reply to them, dont say anything to them.

If they knocked, let them fuck off.
IF they caleld, delete their shit.

IF they sent u a letter "asking" to talk, shred that shit.

Don't do SHIT for those fucks,- they literally JUST want to fuck over your life with ANY leverage you spill to them.

Keep quiet mate tbh

Pebble - August 30, 2017, 10:59 am

(Aug 30, 2017 10:51 AM)HOMODIN Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Tell that to the chinese people...

Anyhow, getting a lawyer will be expensive and it also states that you have something to hide when you need a shield like that. In theory you don't need to tell the police anything, it's their job to figure things out, if you tell them stuff and they are building a case against someone else they can force you to testify.

Best tip, "I don't remember getting that, we were just fooling around with some friends n didn't really know what the hell was going on".

That's really bad advice, you're still self-incriminating and doing the polices job for them with the statement you said to say. You sound like every policeman's ideal interviewee with the mentality that only people who've done wrong hire a lawyer as well.

sweatpants - August 30, 2017, 12:09 pm

(Aug 30, 2017 05:53 AM)Wessel Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah because lying to the police is the way to go. you see people lie to police when they get pulled over do you not?

how is this any different

Broomop - August 30, 2017, 12:14 pm

(Aug 30, 2017 10:59 AM)Pebble Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's really bad advice, you're still self-incriminating and doing the polices job for them with the statement you said to say. You sound like every policeman's ideal interviewee with the mentality that only people who've done wrong hire a lawyer as well. What he said is true.

w4RNING - August 30, 2017, 1:01 pm

(Aug 30, 2017 05:52 AM)Mr. Robot Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Go in and speak with them. Make sure you have a fake security blog setup for research and malware analyzing - point them towards it and be on your way.

Tell them your old blog hosted on a free domain was removed if they ask about site registration dates.

I don't think its smart to say i was a malware analyst at the age of 13,the thing is that i legit dont know what software from what website ive purchased and if I even made any use of it. If it was real serious wouldnt they have raided me already like others. They want 2 know why i bought it and for what and how ive landed on their software. At 13 you try and buy anytying that sounds curious but i havent done anything criminal with it to be honest

Caleb™ - August 30, 2017, 1:17 pm

I'll give you my advice, and it's honestly probably the best advice you'll get on this thread.

Don't get a lawyer. It's not that big. I was in a similar situation, just with customs instead.

NEVER lie to the police. Because lying to the police is an actual crime, you could simply get in trouble for that, instead of your "razorcrypt" thing, which you won't because you're 13. I ended up pleading guilty with zero precautions because as i said, i was under age at the time of the committed crime. So simply be honest, if you really don't know you can say you don't know or don't remember, however if you do just say the truth, because you won't get in trouble from it. All they wanna know is if you've done any big damage. they're looking for the big fish.

2073436 - August 30, 2017, 1:22 pm

Dutch police? Just explain how you've been explaining on here

You were just 13 years old and foolish

Just make sure you say you completely understand but that you were only 13 and so on

@vincent - August 30, 2017, 1:37 pm

Talk to them and just answer their questions. They can't press chargers against you since you was underaged at the time of the purchase. Just tell them why you bought it and if you used it yes or no etc

HOMODIN - August 30, 2017, 10:55 pm

(Aug 30, 2017 10:59 AM)Peble Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's really bad advice, you're still self-incriminating and doing the polices job for them with the statement you said to say. You sound like every policeman's ideal interviewee with the mentality that only people who've done wrong hire a lawyer as well.

Shit works in different ways everywhere. If you get a lawyer here for a random hearing like that they'll most likly hold you for 3 days and if the 3rd day is on a Sunday then sosad for you, you'll get out on Monday.

Since this was long ago and OP was just a kid back then he can actually use that line, if he on the other hand would have been older then nope, then it's truly the worst thing that can be said.

Silence - August 30, 2017, 11:30 pm

You're fucked bro get ready for some action if you're pussy you're fucked both ways.

Ben je klaar voor volwassen mannen die je bij de kleinste disrespect al een zeepje in je kont stoppen, welke gevangenis ga je? Vught?

Demoralise - August 30, 2017, 11:43 pm

Say that you set up a private Tor node and that others can freely connect to your IP address without you being aware of it because the traffic is encrypted.

There is no way for them to tell if you are lying or not because no information about Tor nodes is available - it is all private.

I have done this before in a similar scenario and it worked for me.

HighFashion - August 31, 2017, 1:09 am

(Aug 30, 2017 04:32 AM)w4RNING Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hi, apparantly the police wants to speak with me about some german software I purchased 5 years ago when I was 13.

What am I supposed to do? Any advice
don't fuck with the dutch cyberpolice bro

w4RNING - August 31, 2017, 2:16 pm

<https://tweakers.net/nieuws/125947/politiediensten-verrichten-aanhoudingen-bij-europol-actie-tegen-malwareplatform.html>

This is what it is about, translate it for yourself to understand

SIM-3386134 - August 31, 2017, 2:22 pm

Confess and tell them everything, do not lie to the police man.

Mr. Robot - September 2, 2017, 10:57 am

(Aug 30, 2017 11:43 PM)Demoralise Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Say that you set up a private Tor node and that others can freely connect to your IP address without you being aware of it because the traffic is encrypted.

There is no way for them to tell if you are lying or not because no information about Tor nodes is available - it is all private.

I have done this before in a similar scenario and it worked for me.
You're joking right?

Bagel - September 2, 2017, 6:13 pm

You could just say you were using the software for educational purposes as a tool to use to reverse engineer and create software to detect the crypted file. If they find nothing on your PC just say you gave up on it years ago.

#Skyline - September 2, 2017, 6:19 pm

Just tell them you're a professional blackhat hacker OP, and you will hack if they charge you.

Kareem - September 2, 2017, 7:01 pm

(Aug 30, 2017 04:51 AM)Effexion Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What was the software, if you don't mind me asking. For that time period, I would have guessed Black Shades, but I know that wasn't German.

It was most likely a RAT of some kind. I know German authorities are very strict about them

KimJongUn - September 2, 2017, 7:03 pm

Encrypt the fuck out of your hard drive and uh yeah seek legal advice pronto

Demoralise - September 2, 2017, 10:33 pm

(Sep 2, 2017 10:57 AM)Mr. Robot Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You're joking right?Not at all. I ended up setting up a Tor node and the police couldn't identify how long it had existed.

Visualize - September 2, 2017, 11:20 pm

Tf would they waste time trying to investigate stuff from 5 years ago especially when you were 13. Unless you are still affiliated with using the same type of software I wouldn't be too worried because you can probably go with the educational use route. I wonder what you did at 13 because if they are trying to question you, then you must have actually did some criminal stuff and maybe they won't buy your educational excuse. Probably best to get professional legal advice that comes from a pro and not HF

HuntedCS - September 2, 2017, 11:42 pm

What means did the police use to contact you OP?

Cagey - September 3, 2017, 12:35 am

Best bet is to act like you don't remember or say it wasn't you they have zero proof you were the one behind the computer.

Raz Riverblade - September 3, 2017, 2:35 am

You were a minor then. Tell them to go suck a dick

Cagey - September 3, 2017, 2:17 pm

(Sep 3, 2017 02:35 AM)Raz Riverblade Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You were a minor then. Tell them to go suck a dick

That normally doesn't matter with cyber crimes. In the US we've sent i think a 15 year old to either like 20 years or life in prison

Raz Riverblade - September 4, 2017, 5:52 am

(Sep 3, 2017 02:17 PM)ODEa Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That normally doesn't matter with cyber crimes. In the US we've sent i think a 15 year old to either like 20 years or life in prison

Here in europe we have a decent justice system so that doesn't happen.

SunsetShop - September 4, 2017, 6:23 am

(Sep 3, 2017 02:17 PM)ODEa Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That normally doesn't matter with cyber crimes. In the US we've sent i think a 15 year old to either like 20 years or life in prison when Americans say the US is the best country ??

ayyboss - September 4, 2017, 7:40 am

Why did they contact you? If the software was illegal... idk but best to find a lawyer

Skyrim Modding - September 4, 2017, 7:41 am

They are probably another hacker pretending to be Police, say them fuck off

Tommccowan1 - September 4, 2017, 8:00 am

Being a minor with now a 5 year gap until contacting you seems like reaching to me. I suppose it depends on the type or software - but it could just be a scare w4RNING - September 5, 2017, 5:55 am

Update: Just came back from an interrogation at the police station, they told me exactly what happened and what went wrong exactly.. they brought papers showing logs of what I had done, it was scary to see they had a list of .exe files I've had scanned. They said they couldn't take legal action against me because I was a minor at that time but they gave me a huge warning about making the same mistakes again in the future. I've made a deal with two of those cyber detectives that I'll take the good path from now on. Conclusion, they were very smart people with a lot of knowledge about crypting, malware and other stuff but they gave me a big chance to make up for it.. I mean the logs contained over 50 files with the name fud.exe in it.. and they didn't mention it..

Lesson learnt and it's done, do not buy any services or software online that might put you in trouble in the future.

-end of story

SIM-2223238 - September 5, 2017, 5:58 am

(Sep 5, 2017 05:55 AM)w4RNING Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Update: Just came back from an interrogation at the police station, they told me exactly what happened and what went wrong exactly.. they brought papers showing logs of what I had done, it was scary to see they had a list of .exe files I've had scanned. They said they couldn't take legal action against me because I was a minor at that time but they gave me a huge warning about making the same mistakes again in the future. I've made a deal with two of those cyber detectives that I'll take the good path from now on. Conclusion, they were very smart people with a lot of knowledge about crypting, malware and other stuff but they gave me a big chance to make up for it.. I mean the logs contained over 50 files with the name fud.exe in it.. and they didn't mention it..

Lesson learnt and it's done, do not buy any services or software online that might put you in trouble in the future.

-end of story>very smart people
> razorscanner located in the netherlands
> took the logs
> control + f

hmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmm

that's why i rename all my malware to hentai.exe smh

btw did you use my method

SunsetShop - September 5, 2017, 6:01 am

(Sep 5, 2017 05:58 AM)Aggron Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) >very smart people
> razorscanner located in the netherlands
> took the logs
> control + f

hmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmm

that's why i rename all my malware to hentai.exe smh

btw did you use my method
I like to rename them to feministseatmydick.exe

?

White Fox - September 5, 2017, 6:01 am

(Sep 5, 2017 05:55 AM)w4RNING Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Update: Just came back from an interrogation at the police station, they told me exactly what happened and what went wrong exactly.. they brought papers showing logs of what I had done, it was scary to see they had a list of .exe files I've had scanned. They said they couldn't take legal action against me because I was a minor at that time but they gave me a huge warning about making the same mistakes again in the future. I've made a deal with two of those cyber detectives that I'll take the good path from now on. Conclusion, they were very smart people with a lot of knowledge about crypting, malware and other stuff but they gave me a big chance to make up for it.. I mean the logs contained over 50 files with the name fud.exe in it.. and they didn't mention it..

Lesson learnt and it's done, do not buy any services or software online that might put you in trouble in the future.

-end of story

Where you scan the files=?

False King - September 5, 2017, 6:07 am

Always said Dutch police (in general) is underrated. Glad to hear everything ended on good terms. They probably know you were just testing stuff out.

Can't be too careful with the new law being passed. Cyber surveillance is also taking on a new evolution in the Netherlands.

Heulen - September 5, 2017, 6:17 am

Imao blackshades all over again.

edit: nvm i didn't read all replies. Glad you got spared.

Demoralise - September 5, 2017, 3:37 pm

I am happy to god that I never purchased RazorCrypt but still got the chance to use it because I won a 3 month subscription one time haha

It wasn't that great to be honest. I was still going to purchase it though (I was an avid crypter collector.)