Be talented in something. For example boost in popular games, or try to be a gold seller. Everything is shit talking about CPA etc. Or become a cracking god. Lmao

You could offer a service, like coding or consulting or something like that

Im gonna say e-whoring but its nearly dead and not honorable job. Personally sometimes i earn 80 dollars aday with ewhoring but it takes time. I dont like sitting on table for 4-5 hours and see dick pics to earn some. So you simply create t-shirts advertise it for very low budget (20 -30 dollars). Or you can sell interesting things on crowded street. You need to take action

The easy way would be to work at a low entry work place like McDonalds or Wal-mart.

Most things in life aren't easy/free and take time/money/research so it's best to take the difficult route and not spend so much time looking for "easy" ways since they don't exist or everyone would do them.

What skills do you have? You have to be able to offer up something in order to expect a return - if not money, then knowledge or a skill....

How much of a time span do you consider quick?

If you're talking online, which I'm guessing you are, ewhoring.

Otherwise jsut get a job at a grocery store or something, most don't require previous experience.

In my opinion, YouTube would be one of the easiest options. Make around 20 to 30 quality videos and you should hit that target no problem.
