Thread: Growing a FB page advice?

StarUhm - August 30, 2017, 12:11 pm

Hey guys, so I was wondering if anyone has any tips on how to grow a Facebook page? I just created my first ever one (Scary lol) but it's related to a blog I run... I was just wondering best way to get people interactive/like the page? X

Thank you ?

Can you tell us what "niche"? I use a variety of methods to grow Facebook pages, however it depends on the niche.

It's a FB page based off my personal blog (the blog is based on beauty, fashion & lifestyle) I've only ever published on the blog website & instagram so was looking to push out to FB hopefully?

If you have a Skype, PM me when you have a chance. I'll set aside 20 minutes for you and give you some ideas that you can make your own.

Cheers! ?

Quality content and quality promoting

Content:

Posting consistently based off the demographics of your audience and the peak times for the best engaging activity possible

Don't post too often, make sure your post gets time to reach the audience

Try to be original

Put effort into your content

Make sure your content relates to your page and your audience

More engagement = more trendy

Promoting:

Shout outs perhaps. These will cost you but at least only people that like your page will follow you
Do not buy fake likes or fake followers - these will decrease your reach of the posts
Do actions which require the audience to like, share or comment - this will increase the reach of your post
(This is why you need engaging content)

There are maybe more details but these are the most important
Also, most people give up shortly after their motivation runs out because of high expectations

These are some solid fundamentals to follow. If I could +1 this post I would.
