Thread: WaltonChain, just hit the exchange, PATENTED RFID blockchain.

d4rkj4y - September 1, 2017, 12:33 pm

Currently trading on Binance.... They own patents on RFID technology and will run the Internet of Things in China... They pay dividends, former Samsung Vice President is on the team along with other all star Chinese tech people, 20,000,000 coins in circulation and 100,000,000 max supply. Since they own patents on RFID tech all upcoming tech companies like #TenX #Monaco #IoT #uTrust and all other companies using RFID tech will have to pay and rely on Walton Chain since they own RFID patents... This will be massive!!! The price has gone up from 50 cents to $1 over night... They are backed by the Chinese Government as well.

Here is the whitepaper - <http://www.waltonchain.org/upload/1498722281869.pdf>

This is a very good buy, do your research. Price currently $1.45USD or 0.000300BTC.

FAQ - from Bitcointalk thread.

What is the WALTONCHAIN?

WALTONCHAIN ("?????" in Chinese, or WTC for short) is a genuine, trustworthy and traceable business ecosystem with complete data sharing and absolute information transparency. It is created by the combination of technologies of RFID and block chain, which push forwards the integration of block chain and the Internet of Things.

Can you summarize what WALTONCHAIN is for in only one sentence?

To address the bottleneck problem of the business application of the block chain -- how to incorporate physical assets into the block chain automatically. Please refer to the White Paper of WALTON at <http://www.waltonchain.org> for more details.

What's the total issuance volume of Walton Coin?

The total issuance volume of Walton Coin is 100 million coins with no further issuance in any case.

Why is there a pre-sale for the ICO of Walton Coin, and how to participate in it exactly?

Recently, many of the ICOs of premium block chain projects encountered the situation that "the major customer makes a block booking". But the WALTONCHAIN is a public block chain ready for rapid business application, which requires a large number of participants. The commercial value of the WALTONCHAIN will be higher with more participants. In order to let more participants join the WALTONCHAIN, its officials plan to conduct a three-day pre-sale of 5% - 10% of total amount of Walton Coin. The procedure of participation is to become a registered user of the official website firstly, and then proceed with subsequent actions according to the instructions on the successful registration page. In the pre-sale phase, the maximum investment quota for each participant is relatively small, so as to guarantee that more participants will be able to join the WALTONCHAIN. Specific details of pre-sale will be announced later. Please take heed of the WALTONCHAIN official website for further notice.

How does the WALTONCHAIN Foundation ensure the security of the fund?

All the funds raised from this public offering will be deposited into a multi-signature wallet, and its encryption key will be held by all the persons in charge and management personnel of the WALTONCHAIN Foundation. What's more, any transfers of money must be examined and verified by several people.

How the money raised through ICO is used?

Content of Project——Percentage (100%)

R&D, testing and production of RFID tag chip——15%

R&D, testing and production of RFID reader-writer chip——20%

Design and test of RFID system scheme——15%

Development of application platform of project chain ——15%

Salaries and rewards of R&D personnel——20%

Salaries of other personnel, and costs of operation,maintenance and material——8%

Promotion of system application scheme——7%

What are the technical advantages of WALTONCHAIN?

1. High security;
2. It is possible to truly trace back to its source;
3. It is possible to achieve the anti-counterfeiting goal;
4. Realize the decentralization with less demanding requirements for credence;
5. Reduce labor costs.

What is the value of WALTON Coin?

1. It can be used as currency to purchase related commodities;
2. It can be used as the unit of measurement for credit of the Internet of Things;
3. It can be used as the unit of measurement for the workload or quality of the Internet of Things;
4. It can be used as the storage of value or the value transfer method;
5. It enjoys high popularity and increasing demands, while the issuance volume is fixed; thus, the potential of its appreciation is tremendous.

What kinds of chips are involved in the WALTON project?

It involves two types of chips: the RFID tag chip and the reader-writer main control chip.

What are the advantages of the RFID tag chip designed in this project?

Compared with traditional RFID tag chip, the RFID tag chip designed in the project has the following advantages:

1. A dissymmetric encryption and decryption module is integrated into the tag chip of this project, bringing out safer tag communication;
2. A dedicated storage space is integrated into the tag chip of this project for the storage of hash value of tag status and key information, which makes the tag content truly tamper-resistant;
3. The tag chip of this project adopts the low voltage and low power consumption design, and applies advanced technology; though with an increased size of design, its power consumption is lower than that of traditional design;

4.The anti-collision logic is added to the design scheme of the tag chip of this project. As a result, the collision probability is lower, and the probability of skipping - reading is significantly reduced.

What are the advantages of the RFID reader-writer main control chip designed in this project?
Compared with traditional RFID reader-writer chip, the RFID reader-writer chip designed in the project has the following advantages:

1. A dissymmetric encryption and decryption module is integrated into the reader-writer chip of this project, and this module makes the communication safer when reading and writing the tag;
2. A processing logic of hash function is integrated into the reader-writer chip of this project, capable of hashing the key information of tag. The hash value generated is written back to the tag, so that the tag information is truly tamper-resistant;
3. A relevant processing logic is added to the reader-writer chip of this project in accordance with the characteristic of block chain; it plays a role similar to the miner to share the workload of the chain, and the reader-writer may serve as a node in the chain;
4. The reader-writer chip of this project truly combines the block chain and the Internet of Things, bringing the assets into the chain in a genuine and reliable way; and it offers strong support for the asset management, warehousing, and logistics and other applications.

What are the competitive advantages of the RFID system schemes of this project?

1. The RFID system scheme in this project has already been successfully applied to the closed-loop system of each link, such as the production, logistics and warehousing and chain stores and so on in the garment industry and the manufacturing sectors for years. The executive team is well experienced in related industries, and capable of ensuring the good quality and effect of specific project implementation;
2. The enterprise standardization system established by the team in the industry application has become systemic industry standards. It's easy for the wide application of the project and very likely to replicate.

Why choose the application of garment industry as the breakthrough point in Phase 1.0 of this project?

- 1.The RFID tag has achieved the management of item level in the application of garment industry. Hence, the number of usage is enormous. Large amounts of experimental data can be obtained easily in the development and early application of the chip, as a result of which the chip and system technologies will mature quickly ;
2. Many core members of the team have years of industry experience in the field of garment, and they are also familiar with the garment industry, the application of RFID intelligent system, and the promotion of software informationization products and other areas. With abundant resources of customer channels, the upfront cost of customer development is low. Therefore, it is possible to enter the market rapidly and to build up customer base in early days.

What is the difference between the WALTON project and the security traceability block chain project like the Inchain?

The WALTON project adopts the scheme of the combination of hardware and software. While, other security traceability block chain projects have no hardware. Therefore,the scheme of the WALTON project is intrinsically different from that of other projects in that:

1. The memory of tag chip of this project contains the hash value of tag status and critical data, making sure that the tag content is tamper-resistant;
2. The tag and reader-writer, as well as the WALTONCHAIN platform, make sure truly anti-counterfeiting and traceable to the source on the whole;

3. From the commercial value point of view, the WALTONCHAIN uses the RFID system as its carrier, and the wide popularization of RFID system is an irreversible mega-trend; its tremendous commercial value is foreseeable as a growing number of merchants will adopt the RFID system in the future, and the number of users of WALTONCHAIN will be increasing continuously.

Both WALTON and Sigma project involve the chip, what is the difference between them?

The chip of Sigma project is mainly used as the miner, but not a major element for business application. But there are two kinds of chips in the WALTON project -- RFID tag chip and reader - writer main control chip. RFID tag chip is the interface on the commodity side to upload the physical commodity to the chain. In other words, each commodity (such as the garment hangtag, care label and so on in the Phase 1.0 of this project) with a RFID tag chip in the future can upload relevant data to the chain through data exchange with the reader - writer, with no manual intervention needed. Reader - writer main control chip is the interface on the server side to upload the physical commodity to the chain. It may serve as the node of the main chain or child chain of WALTONCHAIN. As the number of merchants using the RFID system increases, there will be more and more nodes of WALTONCHAIN accordingly, and the robustness of the whole system will become better and better. As stated above, the chip of WALTON project is the vital element of the whole system, and closely related to the future business application.

I was planing to try some development on RFID blockchain transfers. Fuck patenting.

I honestly think patenting in blockchain industry shouldn't be allowed.

True, see they just got added to BNB. There will be a good hype around it rn, I'll buy when hype dies (and hope I don't regret)

But this tech is good. It can do wonders.

I was planning to a pilot RFID or a NFC transfer on NEM/Waves blockchain, didn't think I was educated(in the field) enough to do it.

Some more info from their website:

Innovation mode: the Walton Project intends to develop RFID beacon chip with independent intellectual property rights, which is expected to achieve the perfect combination of Internet of Things and blockchain. The chips researched and developed will bind the Walton Coins to create the intelligent ecosphere of application of Internet of Things based on Walton chain. During the course of expanding block chain technology to the Internet of Things, the Walton chain will definitely become the leader of the changing times;

Market space: With a trillion-level potential market, the Walton chain has possessed the applicable program able to be quickly implemented in the total value chains in the clothing industry, including the production, storage, logistics, stores and other full circulation areas. Years of working experience and customer resources accumulated by the team members in the clothing industry and electronics industry will provide a favorable and ideal condition for the implementation of the project. It is also expected to be used in many fields like electronic license plate and asset management, etc. in the foreseeable future;

High-frequency application: the Walton chain is loaded on the RFID hardware system to breakthrough the bottleneck in commercial application of block chain, namely, the problem of how the real assets off the chain are quickly, efficiently and safely chained. Therefore, the Walton chain is the commercial ecological chain with a low threshold and high-frequency application where there will be a wide range of application scenarios and very high popularity;

Ecological network: the Walton chain will establish the ecological chain of Internet of Things with its own content. As the only token of fundamental chain for this ecological network, the Walton Coin will be circulated in a wide range of business areas, so it has multiple significant functions including value storage, value circulation, credit trading, commodity payment media etc. With the increasing popularity of RFID beacons and the expanding demand for the network, the demand for Walton Coin will be expanding correspondingly, so Walton's early investors will get substantial returns with the development and growth of Walton Chain;

Profit mechanism: the Walton Coins issued by ICO are the tokens of Walton's fundamental chain. With the development of the fundamental chain and its sub-chains, the protocol mechanism of Walton system has decided that the Walton Coin, as the mother token, will receive dividends from all levels of the system in order to nurture the block chain system of Walton, making it more robust and safer and bringing about a harmonious virtuous circulation.

Not sure man. But it seems these guys have patented RFID tech in the blockchain space.

Bakedman - September 1, 2017, 2:33 pm

I have been doing some research on this coin and I agree that it has amazing potential. I'm not a big fan of the patents but as far as profiting in crypto trading that could be key to the success of this coin. I just made an investment myself I'll be holding till next year some time.

For anyone still thinking about it, read through their whitepaper, do some research on them yourself, and make a decision.

The reason this is HUGE is not the platform, but the PATENTS they own. If it's true they own the patents for the integration for these things, it means that every project where digital wallets are connected with a chip (like OmiseGo and Utrust) will have to pay to WTC. But also IOTA might have to pay fee to them.

I read up further on this coin and I don't think this is actually the case. It doesn't seem like they own the patents. They named the project after the guy who invented the technology and owned the patents but no where does it say they own the patents now. In the white paper they talk about all the members having patents of their own or having applied for patents but none are related to RFID tech. So correct me if I'm missing it but I don't think they own them. Regardless, I still think this project is going to be successful simply because the team behind it.

They have a very solid team and the most recognized of those being the ex samsung VP. I bought a couple hours ago and it's gone up nearly 20% already.

Apparently he does in fact own the patents. Look up - Jin Xiji.

This coin has been doing nothing but killing it the past few days. I would imagine it may go a bit further then probably slow down until the event on the 8th happens. This is one to just hold for a little while. They have a lot of events happening this month so it should keep increasing with each one.

HODL this shit for 1-3 months. These guys who run the coin genuinely care about their investors, unlike so many other coins.

I get that vibe.

Also, this has a huge real world use in the manufacturing industry as well. Trust your gut, these guys are legit. Ignore the FUD shit spread by amateurs who think "they missed out".

You think this is to late to buy when the market cap is only 60 million?

There might be a dip but this coin has alot of room to grow.

Thing is a crash is inevitable atm. I can recognize trade opportunities, but it's a bit silly to hold atm when you can buy back lower.

There's another hard fork coming soon that'll probably start a bear market again just like what we saw with BCC.

Also another crash when BTC rallies to break ATH as all money from alts -> btc train

And as always... Margin traders will short the market and crash the price of btc momentarily -> alts also crash

$10+ million volume every day, consistently. They're only on Binance.

In October (October 1st to be expected) they'll release the official wallet.

People are only screaming that its getting delisted to spread fear so they can buy cheaper. Binance doesnt trade fiat and banned all chinese IP's so they wont close. Both Binance and Walton said its fine.

WTC is not currently being investigated, but actively seeking advice from their government partners regarding the swiftly changing landscape in China.

As of today, there is no plan of suspending the trade on Binance. But this, should it happen, even though unfortunate would not be the end of Waltonchain and WTC. Besides Binance WTC is currently being traded on Allcoin and Etherdelta. And as of now, there are no plans to change this.

Waltonchain is in negotiations with 3 renowned Korean exchanges of whom at least one should start trading by October. They are pursuing to add to that number and are also in communication with 3 western exchanges. With hopefully at least one starting to trade a WTC/BTC pair within 2 weeks from now.

GUYS WE ARE SAFE FOR THE BAN!! KEEP INVESTING

Binance released this pressmessage 3hours ago :

Quote:Hi Everyone,

In accordance with the recent notice from China PBoC and requests from various government offices, Binance will make the following adjustments:

Per requests from their respective core teams, we will suspend trading and deposit services of the following tokens: HCC, LLT, ELC, BTM, YOYO. Withdrawal will continue to work. Each team will announce the refund plan of their tokens.

We will restrict all Chinese IP addresses from trading. They will continue to be able to visit the user center and make withdrawals.

Binance will perform a system upgrade from 2017/09/07 00:00 (Beijing Time). The upgrade is expected to last 2-3 hours. We will suspend registration, login, deposit, withdraw and trading during the upgrade. We will try to shorten the downtime as much as possible. The above 2 changes will be in effect after this upgrade.

Going forward, Binance will refocus and redouble our efforts in servicing our international audience, which currently accounts for 82.5% of our user base (according to Alexa). We will also speed up listing of popular western coins. We want to thank the communities for supporting us, and will list 5 coins from the voting list. Details will follow.

As always, thank you for your strong support!

1. It is only an ERC-20 token for some weeks more after that they will have their own token.
2. The only exchange with volume for WTC is Binance and they are based in Hong Kong. Binance banned all the chinese users and coins with ICO on binance are offering refunds for chinese people. I doubt it will still delist from Binance but even if it does soon it will be on more international exchanges.

China is not banning ICO's they only want to regulate them. Also walton isn't a ICO anymore so there is nothing to be worried about.

Do your own research.

Don't buy into this terrible hype.

1. They'll have their own chain and wallet end of October.
2. The only Chinese exchanges they were on did very little volume. This has and had zero effect on the price. Binance is not delisting them plus once their chain and wallet is out there is a good chance they'll be listed on other exchanges.
3. When you look into their team and then research each individual team member you can lookup the patents they (each person) own(s).

Hype? Maybe. Nevertheless during all the major crashes WTC has almost always been able to keep a steady price or rise. It shows strong support regardless of hype.

How does their video show this is a "dumb project"? Give us arguments. Their ICO was a while ago, they raised $7m, but are complying with the Chinese government. Every Chinese citizen that participated in the ICO or bought WTC during that time has the chance to apply for a refund.

Time will tell, but I at least am giving them the chance and I see the potential both in their company, technology as well as the coin/money.

d4rkj4y - September 17, 2017, 1:08 am

@Omniscient I remember another familiar Chinese project in their early days, trading at around 50 cents.

The name was Antshares.

They had a shitty white paper, bad organisation, shit website, basically no PR to western investors. However once they sorted the flaws, price sky rocketed.

I think WTC will do the same if not sky rocket more, simply because it is fulfilling a niche & the team they have.

Throughout this China FUD WTC has held extremely steady. I am very excited to see what this coin does.

True; I just don't see it panning out in the long term until they figure out their RFID, because they're not in the currency market, or at least it doesn't seem like they want to thus far.

For sake of comparison, this is the same price as when NEO was at $1.

Plenty of room for growth.

?Lucky Luciano - September 25, 2017, 6:31 am

WTC at $2.10 now ?

If this is anything like the last pump a week ago, I think it'll raise a bit higher than it did last time then dump quite a bit again. When it hit $2.50 just recently, nearly doubling its value in under two days, it promptly dumped to $1.50-60 in the matter of 10min, then back to around $1.90-2.00 another 10min later.

In my opinion I think we'll see a steady rise to around ~$2.80 today, then possibly a dump back to ~$1.90

All I'm trying to say is that this coin is great for day trading, but the ride to $4-5 is going to be a very bumpy roller coaster, so I'd rather day trade it back and forth than hold for months on end just to hit a desired price.

You can store in <https://myetherwallet.com/> - I just store on Binance myself.

We're now at $2.72.

I first talked about WTC 3 weeks ago. I said to invest under $1.50 and under $2.
At one point I was down 25% of my initial investment. As of this moment I'm up ~70%.

Aiming for $5 to $8 within the next month.

ChunkyCoin - September 26, 2017, 4:35 pm

I can see it dropping back down a bit it's all good drops are healthy guys. Not surprised if it drops might not though we'll have to see. I'd like people to also know that it was $3 and rising rapidly right before the china FUD and all the cryptocurrency dropped prior I can see it going to $5 easily before having a correction. I ain't selling yet almost sold at 2.9 fuck that i bought in around 2.7 majority and another bunch around 1.5 i'ma need more profit before i dump no ones getting my wtc for cheap.

alright boys gonna sell small amount alright boys whenever ye boy shreder sells right it goes up it happens everytime never mind i don't have .01 eth in my MEW so cba atm i'll wait till it goes up even more because it will happen no doubt.

I quote from reddit:

Why is it so hard for people to believe that a coin with such a low market cap can raise its floor price without it being a pump and dump?

The ICO refund stage has passed and no news of a delisting which means there won't be any delistings. If you remember that was the FUD that caused WTC to be down for so many days now and now that it's passed investors are flocking back in.

Also, remember that NEO and GAS went crazy yesterday so naturally there are some NEO and GAS investors putting their profits into WTC.

And why wouldn't they?

The official blockchain will be getting released in less than 1 months time.

New website as well soon.

Also, the circulating supply should shrink due to the ICO Chinese refunds maybe. But also there is soo much news that can drop between now and the blockchain release date, such as new exchanges/WTC winning that competition/new contracts/etc.

1. I do completely agree with this entire post, but even though WTC is finding a new ground that doesn't go to say that it won't face a correction. I personally think it'll hit the low ~$2 range as a floor price. I sold mine at a nice profit, planning to re enter once it does correct.

2. One thing I do disagree on, though: NEO has had great short term gains but if people are selling it now then I feel bad for them when it reaches a new ATH in the near future. But that's just my opinion, I believe NEO has worlds of potential that haven't been fully tapped yet.

There's even the first NEO developer meeting being held in London today, they literally had to switch to a larger venue because of all the notoriety their event had gained.

Yeah, I hopped in twice at $1.30 and $1.71, it can't triple in 72 hours without some kind of correction. Obviously it's finding a new ground, but I don't see why it wouldn't dump to the low ~$2 range after all this rallying.

- 1 - This coin will have masternodes.
- 2 - 25m circulating supply. Coins purchased from the ICO are locked up.
- 3 - Businesses are incentivized to purchase large amounts of WTC and hold to use their technology.
- 4 - New blockchain October.
- 5 - More exchanges planned for October.
- 6 - The actual technology and the niche they are targeting (supply chains).
- 7 - Their team and business connections (Septwolves).

There hasn't been given an official date as of yet but they did previously confirm that their Wallet would be released sometime in October along with the release of their blockchain. Neither have been given a definitive date. Expect some updates from them in the next couple of weeks regarding it.

The coin already has some very strong business connections and it didn't even get its own blockchain yet. In my opinion WTC will grow faster than NEO/ANT did since it is already being used and has some real world patents behind it. Everytime I talk about this coin I get so pumped up xD. Well mathematically there's only 30 million coins, so with a market cap of $1 billion, the coins will be valued at $33.33.

Good try though.

Yes, but the current market price is ~$7.50, so it doesn't really hold.

Anyway, the price of a coin is slightly skewed just because the supply that can be traded is less than the actual supply of the coin (holders/lost coins), so while Walton may have 30 million coins, you can see the daily volume is significantly less.

How can you compare two different platforms like that. Don't invest with false hope.

We are passing OMG in price and our market cap is still very low. Could go to a billion, if not this year then next year.

your logic doesn't make much sense either. two similar platforms are often not comparable. NAVCoin is similar to Monero, both are privacy coins but one has a 1.4 billion dollar market cap while the other has a 41 million dollar market cap. WTC and NEO are both Chinese coins. That fact alone makes it comparable.

But price is irrelevant, it's pretty much more or less defined by the market cap. Higher market cap means more supply means lower equilibrium prices..?

I know how the price is defined but I am saying that the price is almost the same. Since me and many people I know bought between 1-2$, there is still a easy x5 and then we will only be on 1 billion market cap.

I agree with You and I am heavily into WTC. First I planned to be short-term in it but after all the announcements and after their first AMA I changed my mind. I might just have it and collect masternode fees.

My fear is that they announce something big while we are still on the downtrend, if they could just time the announcement that would be big!

Today was an AMA on slack with the Walton team. A lot of information about the hardware was released. But I really liked this part. I quote a reply on reddit:

"Yes! While this isn't news per se, it's one of the reasons that Walton is so exciting and has seen such a rise in valuation. The immutable database that's enabled by blockchain (the same total security of information that makes crypto a viable system of currency in the first place) is one of the central value propositions for using the tech in supply chain management, and why, for example, IBM is already working with Walmart and other huge retailers in their supply chain solutions. An untamperable blockchain database can be used to provide all kinds of valuable information to all players involved in a product's life cycle, while ensuring that that information is 100% valid. This is nothing short of revolutionary, and again why major players are scrambling to implement it across all kinds of industries.

This is why Walton has become one of the most talked-about coins of the past several months, and why in my opinion it's still severely undervalued. If they can establish themselves as the first mover to provide a blockchain-powered supply chain management solution to the world's largest manufacturing economy (and it looks like they have the fundamentals to pull it off), proper valuation will be measured in billions, not millions."

Good post I found on telegram about WTC

"Ok, I've been a bit quiet of late, partly due to my Fiji break (Thanks Wally) and also the current rough waters which I'm not trading my WTC through. It's a long term hold for me currently and I'm less concerned about these movements while BTC runs and forks. But here's what I think, and importantly what i know about what's coming up for WTC in the coming days.

I'm very bullish on the WTC position at the moment. There is steady price and volume increases in the past week, broken only by the sell offs against the BTC run, which is a very strong indicator of the current strength behind WTC. It's one of, if the only token with this sort of steady increase and bodes very well for the short term (next 2 weeks and end of 2017). Especially coupled with the news below!

Ok, regarding the fork. I've posted in depth on this previously. We may see a sharp sell off on the death before the fork, but you'll see an immediate recovery and very likely a buying run well past the price pre-selloff. This will obviously depend on whether Binance even agree to support this shit BTC Gold. Personally, I'm ignoring it for the moment.

As far as the wallet, masternodes and other upcoming releases, I can CONFIRM that as recently as of today, I've been in touch with the WTC team and both the wallet first version and Masternode details are to be released by the end of the month. This is very good news and will affect the price of WTC positively.

There are also other announcements that will be coming very soon. Though they are waiting until the Chinese Congressional Meet is complete as there are sensitive political issues which they need to navigate. This meeting deals with the current government make-up and will affect the ongoing government regulations. So once clear of it, expect some very positive updates ? It is currently underway and finishes on the 25th, but likely the end of the month before they can officially drop the new announcements. One of which in particular I believe could set the WTC price on a big run!

So all in all, we have some confirmation on big updates in the coming days and are expecting more by early November. With price and volume building, I'm expecting a good run in the price coming from now forward (already seeing it). This will only be stifled temporarily by BTC runs and possibly the fork. But if you are looking for an entry, take this as your notice given as those who've followed my posts know, I don't make these calls lightly and I think from memory, I've been spot on everytime.

I'm expecting an extremely high chance of an $ value ATH very shortly, with the SATS level test of the ATH next month, maybe earlier as long as BTC doesn't go through to $7k soon.

Good luck whatever you choose to do! ? "

shreder - October 23, 2017, 3:24 pm

Reading about this coin. They are releasing a wallet and migrating to their own chain this week or next. I for one genuinely believe that it will be $100 and more. By mid-end of next year, 2019 definitely, when they release the product on the market. Which is way too far away for most crypto traders. But that doesn't matter, I just hate it so much that I didn't buy enough for a master node. I think running a master node would set me good for life. And I hate it even more that it dips now and I still can't afford one. Should have bought a master node amount when it was $1.50.

Yes, it was hard for me to learn how to sell and not hold on to higher profit.

It was only after I got burned by holding a pump I learnt that selling at a profit especially if it's 5x the initial investment is always the right choice.

Yeah well I'm not sure what effect a video will have. Positive for sure (hopefully), but in regards to actually pumping the price up. Maybe.

I think he makes informative videos that just gets people to look into things that they didn't know about before, but not necessarily pump the price up the moment the video is released.

Either way, just sharing it, because we might get some new insights and I see that as a plus. Whatever the effect on the price may be.

Their goal is to be able to differentiate fake products from legit products this would only be needed in countries like china where they lack food regulation and inspection its like their only focus. Their niche is very small for example in the states we have usda there would be no point in wabi here. Competition is good but even vechain and wtc have different strengths.

They don't dump because it's 5k for a masternode, that information have been out for a long time. The problem is that WTC is only on binance so its very easy to manipulate at the moment.

I've been in since $1.26 and have continued to HODL. This still has a long way to go so if you're considering jumping on nows your chance. WTC will be listed on the 5th biggest Korean Exchange on Tuesday and have confirmed there in talks with the like of Betfinex, Bithumb. Once this gets listed on a major exchange and people lock away their WTC tokens from the 10th December to secure a Guardian Masternode expect a massive bull run! On top of this their own blockchain, Wallet and Masternode information and implementation will be released next month.

It's probably one of the only coins that have barely started the engine of their train this alt season.

When all the shitcoins go x7 in a week, or competitors that have developed nothing and are all about shills went x15, Walton remains silent.

P.S. I'm 50% in WTC so may be a little biased, but then again, if I didn't believe in Walton I wouldn't be 50% in it, right? (p.s. I'm in huge profits from it already) 2018 is gonna be huge for Walton. The mainnet release is expected within 3 next months, which will be ADOPTED by one of their partners (remains unknown for the time being) immediately, + they got China's government support and a contract for smart city etc etc.

Personally not selling my Walties until they are at least $300/each, which I understand might sound absurd to some of you but that's how much I believe in the project. :)

Walton already has several multi billion dollar company partnerships. The net is expected to release soon Q1 or early Q2, along with staking. Walton is going to be huge by the end of this year, 2018 is it's time to shine.

A huge percent of the coins are locked up in nodes already with such a low supply all it will take is some good news and you may never see this below $20 again.

If you have some extra money I would advise to buy some and hold 6 months at least and see what happens.

How do you people really feel with WTC compared to Vechain?

I've read a lot of Vechain lately, Consider is was about late last year Vechains telegram for example was 910 members, WTC was 2,298

WTC community/reddit was 7,201+subscribers, Vechains was 1,258+subscribers

Now have a look at there reddits etc

now i'm just giving an idea, Vechain was no where as big as WTC not long ago, Anyway now fast forward to now Vechain has gained a lot of traction leaving WTC behind, Vechains been here since 2015 and I think is just starting to blow up due to the partnerships they are getting.

I know WTC is gaining some nice partnerships aswell, But I honestly think they could get left behind with Vechain.

I'm here to have a discussion, I'm not here to diss either coins. I'm pointing out facts, Considering investing some money into WTC but I think %80 i'll put into Vechain. Vechain is partnered with national levels in China, In china right there is a city called Shenzhen another city aswell but there developing new economics/so to speak a "smart city" which are trying new things new ecommnics, using the blockchain to their advantage, Wine authority is very important over there and that's a another major implement, All lots of good stuff in testing.

Look I know WTC is very similar in what they do both there plans are to help solve a similar problem, But I really feel like Vechain has gained to much traction there literally the the technology provider for Gui'an/located next to Guiyang, it's the future, Now china does not fuck around, They might not like ICO's scams and bullshit there a smart country, they've came to see how much potential is in the blockchain, same as in Russia from what i'm researching there nearly ready to take on technology that's proven to be successful and is solving world wide problems.

The way is seems vechain is doing extremely well and literally in in partnership with national levels, and if there test there doing is quiet successful it will probably spread extremely quick and be implanted all over china before you know it.

I'm not trying to shill any coins here, I am having a debate I am a very opened minded person, I've looked into a lot of projects, startis/lisk/neo (antshares),salt,dent,ark,wtc the list goes on i'm very opened minded, I was VERY bullish on lisk the past year.

I have a strong feeling for Vechain and I want to have a disscision don't be immature think 'm trying to shill anything you're fucking $100 investment doesn't bother me, I'm generally curious what people think about what I've just mentioned in regards to WTC

I think Vechain and its community is manipulative (as fuck) and I would never trust them.

I also think Vechain's team blatantly copies all crypto trends and hypes. Almost like Tron/Verge 2.0. I also think they take advantage of people.

I've never trusted Vechain from the day they started making marketing efforts. That was back in September/November.

Sure you can make money, but it's not for me.

As for WTC they need to step up their game when it comes to marketing/pr.
Just wanted to state my opinion when it comes to Vechain.

There is still so much FUD but as soon as mainnet is out and the partnerships will roll out we should be fine. I will never sell.

WTC is ahead of Vechain in terms of roadmap and partnerships etc. Even with all the partnerships it hasn't blown up, but if it does, it's going to the moon. They do need to work on their marketing though

Waltonchain wallet release first they said October then November then they speculated December then January then February Now they say March Let alone parent chain they cant create a wallet pbs.twimg.com/media/DXqNZljXcAMRwnp.jpg

Also they publish news and partnerships with no 3rd party source which one could verify. All they do is make a medium post.

Yeah delays happened, not unusual with software. I'm not too worried about it.

It wasn't exactly how said it happened, but a couple delays with mainnet yeah.

Just keep your eyes and ears open the next week.

If you got out, you may get burned as I think we're very very close to mainnet release.

You answered it yourself, it's just fud.

That guy has no life honestly (I've seen all his posts) and I can't be bothered taking him seriously. He has made a couple "ok" points in the past, but nothing alarming in my opinion.

Then again, I've been following Waltonchain daily for well over a year and my opinion hasn't changed since I started doing so.

Thanks. Saw some discussions on reddit and telegram group and the admins said the website just doesn't work properly...which is not shocking since the main website sucks anyway.

What I can't fathom is the excuse "doesn't work properly", when it's not even working, the increments are hard-coded. I'm confused why a professional team like them can't pull out a decent website. I understand they're software/hardware pros and not web dev pros but with the size of their company's employees and the money they have I can't believe they can't get a proper website. I'm glad they'll be releasing the new website though.

WTC at a little over $2 right now. Unfortunately hit just as hard if not harder as many other coins.

Could be a good entry point for those not in yet, but mainly bringing this back up for some attention.

Personally still believe Waltonchain could be a homerun in a few years, I'm not trading this one, holding it long term.

I agree. Was just checking the price and seen how cheap it is compared to the bull-run when it hit $42. I think the current price is a steal. Will be adding to my portfolio for the long run.

Bandi - November 18, 2018, 10:16 pm

At these prices you can scoop up a Waltonchain Masternode extremely cheap. They were over $200,000 in January and now they're only about a little less than $10,000.

BUMP for the lulz

This is a perfect example of hyped 2018 ICO that mooned and pumped to $41 in a short period with weird RFID patent technology as some sort of basis for price jump.

Here we are about 4 years later and WTC is dead and at .50 now.

Don't buy into weird hype. Look for value and technology that makes sense long-term. This wasn't it.
