

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Invalid Scammer rep, but with a twist

Linux™ - September 2, 2017, 8:11 pm

Let's say someone reps you with invalid scam rep, and blocks you so you can't send them the notice as mentioned in the Help Docs. ?

Charger - September 2, 2017, 8:13 pm

Then contact Omni. I'd wait 24 hours after the rep.

Motusora - September 2, 2017, 8:17 pm

you may contact staff / omni himself for that .

Riggs - September 2, 2017, 8:17 pm

Help Docs details it as a suggestion, so it's not a mandatory requirement.

I imagine staff just want you to first make reasonable efforts to reach an amicable resolution without their intervention.

Linux™ - September 2, 2017, 8:26 pm

(Sep 2, 2017 08:17 PM)Riggs Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Help Docs details it as a suggestion, so it's not a mandatory requirement.

I imagine staff just want you to first make reasonable efforts to reach an amicable resolution without their intervention.

That would explain enough. ? I'll keep that in mind.

M?xim - September 3, 2017, 2:30 am

Then they fucked up, didn't they?

Mr. Robot - September 3, 2017, 2:35 am

This isn't for you though, so who's it for

Monk. - September 3, 2017, 3:06 am

Well even if you message them nothing will change , i did it for me once , pmed omni after waiting 2 days and he didn't do anything just messaged them to cahnge the rep.

Elitas - September 3, 2017, 3:24 am

I think making reasonable contact should be sufficient. I'd recommend sending them a shorter warning in their reputation.