Hey forum,

So just a few words, I mean you can look into as many Monetizing techniques you want, but you won't make money that's worthwhile or get anywhere without taking these things into consideration.

1.

You need to believe you can eventually become successful, and reach your goal, We won't get into the conversation about whether Law of Attraction is real or not, but the biggest drive you can get to become successful, is believe you are going to be successful, because if you go for a test really nervous and un-confident for example, you're probably not going to do as well as if you were really confident and driven to do it.

Success is earn, not given, Ok so you need to realize, if you're wanting to eventually not check out a Monetizing section for tips, you will need to put a lot of work in, no matter what situation is, you won't get anywhere without putting work in.

3.

Become obsessed, you need to be obsessed with becoming successful, why ? well in my own personal experience I'm not successful yet, but I started a business 3 months ago and I will be getting paid more from my business than my actual job next month (due to how many people have ordered already + retention rate against current customers) so I'm constantly conscious and thinking about business idea's, ventures, what we can do to improve, how to create more hype in the community that owns the product, and how to draw a lot of attention and create sales.

You can sit in a room and think of idea's for an hour and not get anywhere, chances are if you're obsessed and thinking about it 4-5 hours a day, you're more likely to have great ideas, and ideas in general.

Don't listen to other people if you believe in your business idea, I mean unless your idea is actually ridiculous.

I mean you can tell people how you are doing and stuff, and they'll ask questions, but you'll always get them people putting What If's into 60% of them questions and doubting you and putting doubt in your head.

It's good to have a plan should things go wrong, but don't be disgruntled by the people doubting you and your abilities.

Disassociate yourself from them, if their family members you don't need to never see them again, but don't speak about it in front of them or invite that sort of conversation.

5.

Invest more, don't spend all your profits, OK you'll get no where and stay in the same spot.

In our company me and my friend get 25% each of pure profit, the other 45% goes into our business account to pay for stuff for the business, and another 5% goes into a BTC Wallet for saving in emergency or for a big payout in 2022~

You can get very far with one business, but most cases it will take you more than one business to become a millionaire or a lot more money.

So try and also save up into making other business idea's.

Sorry if these are common sense as fuck to some people, but some people need guidance, there is no method to make $1000 in a week afk on HF, they need to build something or create an idea and should stop buying them EBooks
