Thread: Snapchat Gallery Picture to Live Picture Method

Brandi Love - September 8, 2017, 3:30 pm

Since Casper has shut down or whatever is happening with it. Android users can't send live snapchats normally. But I have a method which I'm not 100% sure has been publicised yet so anyone who wants this method can PM me and I will send it to you.

Also if people don't know how to save snapchats/screenshot snapchats without taking a screenshot I also have a method which partially works or that too.

Thanks

Kashira has posted a method of this, you just simply cut the gallery pic and replace it to the live pic (which is normaly dark or sth non sense u do)

I also never said that this wasn't 100% private and nobody knows how to do it because it's quite obvious, to be honest, and I would have thought that some people would have known about it.

Also, since Casper has just recently stopped working; I felt like a lot of people would have needed this method at this current time. And I have had about 20 people ask for this method, therefore, people clearly didn't know about it before.

So yeah there's not really much point of me making a new thread telling people this method and I can't edit this thread so I don't know.

This can be a pretty good workaround. The fall of casper frustrated my future plans so if you could send me this method I'd really appreciate it! Thank you.

ItachiUchiha - September 11, 2017, 5:28 am

Hey! I am looking for a method to send live snaps as i was also using casper & just found out that it's been taken down. I know a method where we need to move pic from gallery to snapchat's pic folder then upload from stories (Didn't tried yet tho) but i'd like to know about your method or if possible with more clear instructions :D

Cheers!

acolegario2 - September 12, 2017, 4:20 pm

Never heard of this, can you share it with me? Thanks.

Brandi Love - September 13, 2017, 11:03 am

Update: I can't be bothered PMing people anymore, due to the fact that half of the people don't even PM me and just ask here. Another reason is that I have limited PM space and it's just a hassle deleting PM's etc.

Also, I would probably say about half of the people asking for the method already knew what it was, which I don't fully understand but whatever.

So here's the method, I will not be responding to anything else to do with this topic unless it is important!

Method:

So what you want to do is have your image you want to send in your gallery, also this is easier on an actual phone not sure if it will work not sure if it will work on an emulator. Then you want to send a random person (could be the target) a picture. You select the picture from your gallery but before you send it, click on the scissors icon. This will make a sticker, so highlight all of the image and then let go and your sticker will be saved. Then exit to live camera where you will need to take a picture of anything - I recommend just a black picture. Then go to your stickers icon and select the sticker you saved from before. You will need to resize the sticker so that it fits the screen and looks legit.

Leave a comment on the thread if you want to.

Thanks!

Can't access memories on Snap. I feel like I'm being retarded, but that's the only thing stopping me. I already know the method hahaha

Why would you need memories? If you really know the method then you would know that memories have nothing to do with anything. And if you are just talking about memories in general, then why are you doing it on this thread?!
