Title: UNIT 9/23

Act 1

Chapter 1 Pocket of air

* 1:04 am 22nd floor

A bland darkness cover the floor halls when normally even at this late of hour music and talks can be heard throughout the night. But tonight the power was out, it had become normal for the power to go in and out every now and then but lately the 22nd floor was having long periods of time without it, and tonight was not different from the other but no talking. East wing where the bodega is located still has lights on from this other world size power generate. An young adult men sits behinds his credit scanner in the front corner of the store, starting at reruns of cops on his browse pad.

His been watching a good few minutes, before reaches off to the side to grab his drink, when she walks in. The typical door chime echoes in the small business, the cashier can now hear the coolers kicking on. The young black lady is wearing a blue school girl uniform, on her head she has oversized headphones that seem to have glued on bunny ears. She acknowledge the cashier what they smell and begins to walk towards the coolers where the beer is located.

Opening the coolers door she Bend over to grab two Grand English beer. She returns to the front of the store, where she sits her beers on the counter in front of the young cashier. He scans her to beers while already telling her the price from memory at this point. She pay with water see through watch, at the same time places down on the counter an night purple card.

He looks and without saying an word points back to the far cooler door to the right and turns back to his browse pad. The young lady pockets both of the beers in heads towards the cooler. The cooler looking on the outside would never be recognize to something it's not. It looked like your normal cooler an assortment of drinks ranging from small at the top, and bigger bottles at the bottom.

As not knowing what to do to, the young lady turns back around to look at the cashier. but he is lost into his episode playing on the browser pad is enjoying his own world. Just standing there for what seems like a good minute, she just decide to open up the door. The Gold frame glass door is not what it seems.

Like like an optical illusion, one side she can still see drink and cold air moving as if she or anyone else open to get an drink, but in front of her she can see a heavy looking steel door with two opens. No door handles just a door. Stepping forward she pulls out the card again, the highest opening ghut open fast. A hand pops with a note in the nice flower folding. Grading the note she quickly unfolds it, next thing she knows the lower opening pushes out a keyboard. On the note it read password plz, she began typing. B L A C K C A T W H E R E H A V E Y O U G O N E enter. Following a few seconds delay the door began to open, (to be continued. Sept 22)[/font]
