Thread: Discord community server \(150+ members\) & hypebeast Discord

Squa - September 18, 2017, 6:50 pm

Hello everyone, today I am looking for a co-owner / partner for two of my Discord servers.

For my first Discord server it is a general, community server called "Boonk" (the name changes on occasion). It has 150 members, currently is pretty dead but has a good community if you can engage them in something. I'm currently getting a custom bot developed to really revive the server. For this community I am looking for someone who has development / moderation skills and who is looking to have fun growing and helping a great community of people.

For the Hypebeast Discord, if you don't know what hypebeast means don't bother inquiring. I need someone who is willing to help advertise and be pretty hands on since it's a new server and my main focus is on Boonk. The name of this server is HypeLine and it has an already developed bot that monitors stuff that has to do with the hypebeast community and posts it in certain channels/

(Server is a WIP, had to start it after I lost access to the old one: CBVt2dT)

If you are interested in Boonk please respond below with your Discord name and discrim, join the server, and fill out the form for applying for staff found in #rules-info.

If you are interested in HypeLine please respond below with your Discord name and discrim and join the server.

Let me know if the join codes don't work, i'm not yet able to post links.

Is the Boonk community linked to a website/forum or is it all just from discord?

All just from Discord, I hope to eventually get a website setup for Boonk, and I have much larger plans for a forums place for HypeLine.

Bump, I am still looking for a partner(s).

Bump, still looking for partners.

Also would be happy to start a another server if it is unique or if you are experienced with Discord.
