There's a legit company providing a stealth software to help you track your phone. The software contains more stealth features like Phone calls records, Pictures taken from the camera, Messages received/sent.

Check your PM.

There is a very reputable spyware application that can also be (licensed through reverse engineering) called Flexispy. I heard about it at the last hacking conference I went to and the presenters' went into great depth explaining it. I can link you the site and then maybe find you the article that goes in depth about it. <https://www.flexispy.com/en/android-spy-app-flexispy.htm>

Ah, here we are.
