

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: How much can a booster expect to make?

Tomodachi - September 22, 2017, 4:52 pm

Asking for a friend who use to boost fresh accounts to diamond for 500 a pop.
Wondering if the money is still that good? Perhaps better?

Ixxion - September 22, 2017, 4:58 pm

Not good at all. My friend does boosting to Diamond to $60 to $90 depending on your current division.

Zexo - September 22, 2017, 5:02 pm

Diamond accounts would never sell for 500 nor have they really ever.

SIM-3089037 - September 23, 2017, 11:15 am

Depends how good you are, if youre top challenger so you probably will have higher win rate.
You can monetize league from coaching also.
The money is decent if you deliver it quick means you need higher win rate

IncarnatiOn - September 23, 2017, 11:41 am

Midrange (Plat-Diamond) boosters make anywhere from $20-50 per job.
Highend (Low Challenger+) boosters take long jobs (d3->master for example) and make anywhere from $100-300 per job.

Source: boosting work experience and I owned a whole boosting service/website for some years.

Iwrists - September 23, 2017, 11:42 am

(Sep 23, 2017 11:41 AM)IncarnatiOn Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Midrange (Plat-Diamond) boosters make anywhere from $20-50 per job.

Highend (Low Challenger+) boosters take long jobs (d3->master for example) and make anywhere from $100-300 per job.

Source: boosting work experience and I owned a whole boosting service/website for some years.
which is pretty good because you're getting paid to play video games n you don't have to report to the IRS

IncarnatiOn - September 23, 2017, 11:47 am

(Sep 23, 2017 11:42 AM)oxid Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) which is pretty good because you're getting paid to play video games n you don't have to report to the IRS

Actually it's one of the most stressful lines of work I've experienced because of the deadline nature, and the pay/hr for about 95% of boosters (the midrange ones) is worse than the minimum wage, so you could make much more stable money by working at mcdonalds, the only advantage of boosting imo is working from the comfort of your home, but the stress and all the usual bullshit that comes with any job is there in boosting, make no mistake about it.

Iwrists - September 23, 2017, 11:49 am

(Sep 23, 2017 11:47 AM)IncarnatiOn Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Actually it's one of the most stressful lines of work I've experienced because of the deadline nature, and the pay/hr for about 95% of boosters (the midrange ones) is worse than the minimum wage, so you could make much more stable money by working at mcdonalds, the only advantage of boosting imo is working from the comfort of your home, but the stress and all the usual bullshit that comes with any job is there in boosting, make no mistake about it. well i'd rather deal with the stress in league than the stress in mcdonalds lol

Xepher The Cat - September 23, 2017, 12:52 pm

(Sep 23, 2017 11:47 AM)IncarnatiOn Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Actually it's one of the most stressful lines of work I've experienced because of the deadline nature, and the pay/hr for about 95% of boosters (the midrange ones) is worse than the minimum wage, so you could make much more stable money by working at mcdonalds, the only advantage of boosting imo is working from the comfort of your home, but the stress and all the usual bullshit that comes with any job is there in boosting, make no mistake about it.

Agreed.

It's stressful. When you're smurfing it's different. Your MMR is high, it's easy to rank up, you don't have to be afraid of losing. When you're boosting, you have a 1 rank a day deadline.

czzcxz - September 24, 2017, 5:34 pm pay is pretty bad unless ur a challenger/high master player doing orders in diamond/master ranking and then selling d5 accs will get you like 50-100 per acc prob not worth it at all website pay is really shit, earlier in the season i saw a lot of $20-25/div in plat (one owner I talked to even paid $15/div in plat, basically slave labor)

if you don't mind slave wages and enjoy playing low elo I guess its worth it but otherwise not really, best bet is to try to find your own customers and boost directly but acquiring customers as a solo booster is p hard nowadays

NA Riven - September 24, 2017, 5:50 pm

Depends how good you are. I made a decent income from boosting/coaching. My friend gets Masters within 4/5 days on a fresh account so if you can do that you can make a lot of money. However you need to start on your own or you need to join a boosting service but they take a % (Sep 23, 2017 12:52 PM)Xepher The Cat Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Agreed.

It's stressful. When you're smurfing it's different. Your MMR is high, it's easy to rank up, you don't have to be afraid of losing. When you're boosting, you have a 1 rank a day deadline.

Indeed. I am boosting someone right now and when I play Draven I just won't lose. Sitting at a solid 13 winstreak on Draven only. Sometimes they ban him or I play another role. But this account had a shitty MMR (17lp per game) now it's a pretty good one, I am getting about 25ish.

oreapple - September 26, 2017, 3:36 pm

Terribly low wage imo

And the market is pretty filled too.

The Mogul - September 26, 2017, 3:41 pm

I was boosting 1-2 years ago, but I mainly boosted danish people, since they paid more.

Overall, the pay is really low.

I tried to do it fulltime, and it kinda worked out, but it took a lot of time too. I took all boosting jobs I could get, and played accounts to challenger on Turkey when I had no boosting jobs.

After less than a year, I got tired of League of Legends, because I was playing way too much, just to make everything run around.

lwristis - September 26, 2017, 3:44 pm

(Sep 26, 2017 03:41 PM)The Mogul Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I was boosting 1-2 years ago, but I mainly boosted danish people, since they paid more.

Overall, the pay is really low.

I tried to do it fulltime, and it kinda worked out, but it took a lot of time too. I took all boosting jobs I could get, and played accounts to challenger on Turkey when I had no boosting jobs.

After less than a year, I got tired of League of Legends, because I was playing way too much, just to make everything run around.

challenjour on turkey?? silver V in NA LoooooooooooooooooooooooooooooooooL

The Mogul - September 26, 2017, 3:46 pm

(Sep 26, 2017 03:44 PM)oxid Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) challenjour on turkey?? silver V in NA LoooooooooooooooooooooooooooooooooL Didn't take long to get challenger on Turkey back then either. The skill level is a bit higher now a days, but still plausible.

I could sell them for $200-250.

/wrists - September 26, 2017, 3:46 pm

(Sep 26, 2017 03:46 PM)The Mogul Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Didn't take long to get challenger on Turkey back then either. The skill level is a bit higher now a days, but still plausible.

I could sell them for $200-250.

that could be like a silver V - Gold V boost if you get a desperate soul on NA

The Mogul - September 26, 2017, 3:48 pm

(Sep 26, 2017 03:46 PM)oxid Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) that could be like a silver V - Gold V boost if you get a desperate soul on NASome boosting companies is charging a lot, but getting those desperate customers is rare, and almost impossible.

Rather spent time on boosting and playing, than spending days on finding a single customers.