From what I gathered I heard that Goku's is getting a new form and was confirmed just recently when they showed the actual animation in the dragon ball super episode 110 Preview.
If anyone who is not caught up the transformation looks something like this.

My question is what are your guys opinions on this and how do you think he might obtain this new form? Sure as hell not going to be krillin dying.

I can't wait for the episode to be released Jiren vs Goku

I believe he obtains the form by when he throws the spirit bomb on him jiren hits back and gokus absorbs it something like that

That's actually a good theory I didn't think of that xd I expected something like half of his team being taked out and probably going on the verge of death or him being the last person standing.

Also sorry I didn't see that thread >.>

Wow that was a really great guess on your part. that was exactly what happened lol. i know dbz has just become a power struggle but i still enjoy the epic fights so its fine by me if they keep doing this
