I'd suggest putting in a bit more effort if you genuinely hope to be considered.

Who Soup - October 6, 2017, 10:30 pm

Sounds like a nice group, hopefully it stays HQ

Biggy - October 6, 2017, 10:33 pm

I've been I interested in this group since I've joined the forum, question however:

With me being so new, would I have an actual chance to be invited? Versus someone with more rep, awards, and popularity? Looking to be apart of something here.

Thanks for any information. :)

Grim - October 6, 2017, 10:34 pm

Goodluck to all the applicants. Shaping up to be a nice group. make sure you put as much details as possible into your apps.

It's nice to see Sith Lord still rocking the Eclipse userbar, I can personally vouch that he is one of the most loyal members a group owner could ever recruit.

Glad to see he stuck around & best of luck to the group.

What do you think Eclipse intends on contributing to the community? I'm not entirely sure, but I believe they aim to start political debates about various issues.

Why should we consider you as a potential member? Although I am young, I am currently in the process of joining the Navy, part of my application research is being knowledgable about current issues, I believe that this group would allow me to expand my knowledge as well as help me converse about these issues easier.

Do you have a past experience in political debate or debates? (Debate team, political journalist, etc.) I have been on my school's debating team since grade 9 and have won out of my whole school district in debating.

What makes you stand out? I think my debating experience and my unique position gives me a unique edge.

How will you contribute internally and externally on behalf of Eclipse? I will will participate in the Science, Religion etc part of the forums as well as participate in internal discussions.

What is your education history? Grade 12, Diploma of Business

SIM-2273342 - October 7, 2017, 10:58 am

How old are you? 22

What do you think Eclipse intends on contributing to the community? I have a lot of things coming out about IRL - Tips for nailing your dream job, how to create an effective resume, and more.

Why should we consider you as a potential member?

Do you have a past experience in political debate or debates? (Debate team, political journalist, etc.) No I do not - but this is something that interests me. I love to help the community, I may not be the best at debating but overall I can still help create a great name for Eclipse.

What makes you stand out? Unlike most here - I have experience in a lot of areas I feel limiting yourself to one area is ineffective.

How will you contribute internally and externally on behalf of Eclipse? I love helping and teaching people things I already have experience in, for example getting jobs - I won't say I have had the most jobs but I have had interviews and offers from many prestigious companies.

What is your education history? Currently going for my Bach in IT - Then I will be going for my masters in CE.

Feel free to explain all questions in detail. What else should we know? Besides what is mentioned I love to learn about coding front and back end, so if anyone needs help with that inside the group I can work on projects.

SIM-2273342 - October 7, 2017, 7:48 pm

I will be accepting applications via PM or Discord messages if people would prefer to not disclose certain pieces of information.

siddy357 - October 8, 2017, 10:32 pm

How old are you? 27

What do you think Eclipse intends on contributing to the community? spread some knowledge on what i am good at.

Why should we consider you as a potential member? I can help others with my knowledge of expertise

Do you have a past experience in political debate or debates? no not on a higher level.

What makes you stand out? I turn up every day to HF for new content and views on things

How will you contribute internally and externally on behalf of Eclipse? I will respond to the occasion.

What is your education history? Under graduate

Feel free to explain all questions in detail. What else should we know? nothing much i suppose.

Goods - October 9, 2017, 1:20 am

How old are you? 23 years of age

What do you think Eclipse intends on contributing to the community? I think Eclipse intends on providing factual and unbiased knowledge to all areas of HackForums. I also think that Eclipse is contributing a variety of valuable knowledge as well.

Why should we consider you as a potential member? I think you should consider me because I am an intelligent member of this community. I also do my best to strive to be the most high quality member as possible. I also work hard to bring active, positive, and informative posts to HackForums.

Do you have a past experience in political debate or debates? (Debate team, political journalist, etc.) I was apart of a gifted/scholars bowl team in high school. We very normally had debates on current political subjects; and even subjects that were not political.

What makes you stand out? I think what makes me stand out is that I am open to all sides of an opinion. I also have a lot of real world experience that helps me make educated answers to questions.

How will you contribute internally and externally on behalf of Eclipse? I plan to contribute a lot of high quality posts daily as well as giveaways when I can. I hope to educate other HackForum users on things that they might not know. I also plan to contribute ideas that will hopefully help the group and make it even better than it already is.

What is your education history? High School: Graduated seventh in my class out of 432.

Undergrad: I have an associates degree in chemistry.

Graduate School: Start next year to pharmacy school.

Feel free to explain all questions in detail. What else should we know? You should know that I am on this forum quite a bit, as I have a lot of free time. You can count on me to be reliable to this group in the most positive way. You should also know that I am open to constructive criticism because I want you guys to mold me into the best user I can be.

What do you think Eclipse intends on contributing to the community? i honestly don't know about that but i'm willing to give my time to community

Why should we consider you as a potential member? i'm currently not a part of any group so i want to be now & want to help the community through this group

Do you have a past experience in political debate or debates? (Debate team, political journalist, etc.) NO

What makes you stand out? i just want to have this experience honestly

How will you contribute internally and externally on behalf of Eclipse? of course my time

What is your education history? i have completed my intermediate education

Feel free to explain all questions in detail. What else should we know? i'm not captain but a big fan of him ? Thanks!

Fortunate - October 9, 2017, 5:47 am

How old are you?

- I'm currently 20 years old. I'm turning 21 late October.

What do you think Eclipse intends on contributing to the community?

- Helping members, creating usefull tutorials, helpdesks and being active in general. Although I still know Eclipse is much more than that.

Why should we consider you as a potential member?

- I'm an active, passionate and a high quality user. I have time and I can dedicate my time to projects. I also get along with everyone.

Do you have a past experience in political debate or debates? (Debate team, political journalist, etc.)

- Yes I love debating. I've also been a part of the Occult section of Illuminati back in the day. That included daily debates and weekly SRPP threads.

What makes you stand out?
- I'm friendly, active and passionate almost about everything I do. I like to keep things cool and I succeed under a lot of pressure.

How will you contribute internally and externally on behalf of Eclipse?
- I can provide my knowledge, activity and services towards Eclipse.

What is your education history?
- Graduated high school, took a year off and studied Information Business Technology in The Netherlands for a year, currently studying in Helsinki university.

What else should we know?
- I have a great sense of humour. I get along with everyone and I have a variety of experience in a lot of fields.

SIM-2273342 - October 10, 2017, 3:16 pm

We have accepted and contacted some members. Do not feel discouraged, we are still looking for new members! Please, put in serious effort to the application process. We discuss all applicants and their particular application amongst the leaders and group members alike.

Microsoft Agent #3180 - October 12, 2017, 12:32 am

How old are you?

What do you think Eclipse intends on contributing to the community?

Eclipse intends to spread knowledge help and awareness on several topics but not limited to, Science, and Philosophy

Why should we consider you as a potential member?

I like to discuss ideas, big fan of science, and I talk about any and everything that others may not want to discuss.

Do you have a past experience in political debate or debates? (Debate team, political journalist, etc.)

I have participated in mock trials.

What makes you stand out?

I'm a planet... A very large planet with Rings.
On a serious note, I will engage any that wish to be, do not shy away from any topic and in debate I argue the point with nothing but facts.

How will you contribute internally and externally on behalf of Eclipse?

I would keep the sub forum active and entertaining for all members, and help keep any and everyone informed in any way possible.

What is your education history?

I Graduated high school, and got my Associates degree at a community college.

Feel free to explain all questions in detail. What else should we know?

I'm generally a pretty nice person, very straight forward, I'm here to both learn and teach. Also I think you can tell a lot about a person's character not by how they react to a positive, but they are defined by how they handle the negative.

Redwall - October 12, 2017, 12:35 am

How old are you?

22 years of age

What do you think Eclipse intends on contributing to the community?

Mainly activity within the SF and overall quality throughout forums.

Why should we consider you as a potential member?

Past member of many groups and very active.

Do you have a past experience in political debate or debates? (Debate team, political journalist, etc.)

Debates in general yes (Political, religious, etc.)

What makes you stand out?

Not sure ?

How will you contribute internally and externally on behalf of Eclipse?

Representing.

What is your education history?

Currently getting my bachelors in Business.

Feel free to explain all questions in detail. What else should we know?

Nothing any questions pm me.

Danny Khalifa - October 12, 2017, 8:57 am

How old are you?

I am 19 years old.

What do you think Eclipse intends on contributing to the community?

I think Eclipse intends on contributing every member knowledge, activity, communication and improving HackForums.

Why should we consider you as a potential member?

I am a very active, loyal and friendly member. I have lots of skills in marketing and I can contribute with my knowledge and activity. I am most of the time online and I can spend this time to talk to the group or think about doing a project together.

I've seen this group since I joined and I always liked it even if I never been in it. I would be happy to be a part of and make the group more active than it already is and maybe contribute to the future projects.

Do you have a past experience in political debate or debates? (Debate team, political journalist, etc.)

Not really, I rarely argue with people as I don't really love doing that. I mean, I prefer listening and laughing in silence while the other party shows how stupid is he.

What makes you stand out?

I consider myself a very successful man and I am very smart and motivational when it comes to learn and making money. And I am very proud of who I am now.

How will you contribute internally and externally on behalf of Eclipse?

I will contribute with my knowledge, activity and future projects, if there will be some hopefully. And I could mentor someone in the future to start making money.

What is your education history?

I've left college because I saw no future in it and I started working and making money. My parents were all angry, but I gave no fuck. I just started doing what I really love to do. It was a big risk, it still is. But I won't give up.

Feel free to explain all questions in detail. What else should we know?

That's everything.

Thank you very much for the time taken to read my apply, I will appreciate every your decision. Good luck to everybody.

hello friends I am scientific person

[$(5)] - October 12, 2017, 3:34 pm

How old are you?

21 years old.

What do you think Eclipse intends on contributing to the community?

It is to my best understanding that Eclipse will be working towards bringing the community of HF closer & providing a well educated & professional, but laid-back demeanor.

Why should we consider you as a potential member?

I am creative and intuitive. I have motivation like many other people do not. I am very free within my schedule as I work from home and love to contribute in any way possible.

Do you have a past experience in political debate or debates? (Debate team, political journalist, etc.)

I do not, although I am always interested in hearing other's opinions and giving my own where necessary.

What makes you stand out?

My motivation, energy, and attitude. I also always have some crazy outlandish idea to give out when needed!

How will you contribute internally and externally on behalf of Eclipse?

In any way possible. I am extremely personable and have a wide variety of experience IRL and online.

What is your education history?

I'm a high school graduate and completed 2 years of general education at CC.

Feel free to explain all questions in detail. What else should we know?

I'd like to further elaborate that I have a very open schedule at the moment-indefinitely. I work from home and usually at my own times (varying projects)!

Thank you for your consideration.

Your thread doesn't even describe your group, and at first glance in the group section I don't see an informational thread. Why would I apply for something I know nothing about? Is the group still focusing on contributing to HF or whatever it was before, or has it turned into an srpp focused thing? I mean, come on, maybe I'm missing something here, but do you actually not understand why you have no applicants?

(Oct 6, 2017 08:04 PM)Romania Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Why should we consider you as a potential member? Why should I waste my time writing an application for a group forcing a false-sense of exclusivity down people's throats despite not knowing how to describe itself?

We described ourselves. Hence the informational thread. This is a recruitment thread, not a secondary explanation thread. We aren't falsifying exclusivity, please, go find another SRPP or debate group and apply to them. Oh, what's that? You can't? Exactly. We don't want people who are blatant group-whores that solely apply for the userbar. Plus, if someone isn't capable of finding the informational thread/reading it when it is in the proper section, I'd argue that they aren't remotely fitting for this group in the first place.

In response to your post above that comment, when something changes ownership, it tends to change the structuring. Feel free to PM me with your banter as there is no purpose for it on this thread.

EDIT: Asking why we should consider someone as a potential member is a time to explain themselves and their reasonings further. It has nothing to do with exclusivity. Either you're extremely immature, as your reputation tends to indicate, or you simply wish to bash everyone, another thing your reputation further verifies. Regardless of your intentions, you're welcome to PM me. If you don't like the group and the application we have, you're more than welcome to not apply.

Then fucking describe what happened to the group. I don't care enough about HF groups to stay up to date on changes in leadership.

When an employer posts a job listing with no information on the job or the company and expects the applicants to research the company and try and figure out what they'll be doing during their time in that company, believe it or not, they won't get many applicants. It's infuriatingly arrogant.

To be fair, though, you brought up a good point about exclusivity, you're the only SRPP group as far

We don't force members to wear the userbar. It's their choice. We want them to continue doing exactly what they're doing.

Anyone interested in applying is welcome. I will not be wasting anymore posts nor time on an imbecile that lacks the simplicity of intellect. He can continue to harass the members of the group and bash on the thread, he will be dealt with as is fit.

Lukas - October 17, 2017, 8:37 pm

How old are you?

18

What do you think Eclipse intends on contributing to the community?

Per Eclipse's information thread, Romania states that the group's journey includes "debate and spreading information," presumably in the SRPP section. I believe the group's main intent will be to provide information and reasonable debates with factual information provided by the use of legitimized data from reputable sources. The main focus being the strive to maintain a mature, respectable attitude amongst immaturity, while also sourcing the best data possible in order to argue cases.

Why should we consider you as a potential member?

I believe I should be considered as a candidate due solely to my ecstatic work ethic. My passion-driven work ethic does not just become apparent when debating a topic of interest, rather when I partake in any activity that ignites my enthusiasm. This leads me to believe that possessing a key role in a meaningful group such as Eclipse would not only benefit me, but could also provide fellow group members with additional inspiration and ideas.

Do you have a past experience in political debate or debates? (Debate team, political journalist, etc.)

Nothing official, no.

What makes you stand out?

Though I am not particularly active in debate, I believe my carefree attitude and lack of regard of other's opinions regarding my personality or persona as a whole is what differentiates me from most. When speaking, I always bring clarity to my discussion, always attending to my goal of providing my point in the most respectable, yet combative and inspiring way possible.

How will you contribute internally and externally on behalf of Eclipse?

I will provide well thought-out discussions and debates, completely free of opinionated bias to assure that the point being argued is nothing but legitimate, unaltered evidence supporting the case in hand. Internally, I will provide my utmost creativity in order to curate such group ideas one would be foolish to look over, additionally, providing group members with interesting topics in the subforum or Discord.

What is your education history?

Freshman year of college (US).

Feel free to explain all questions in detail. What else should we know?

Truthfully, not much. I'm a fairly straightforward guy; what you see is what you get. If there are any follow-up questions post-submission, feel free to send me a PM.
