I have a pair of Beats Solo 2's, apart from that no Beats products.
I wouldn't say it's worth the price at all.

Killy - October 7, 2017, 9:31 am

Don't personally have that model as I have the og wired studio one not sure what the full name for it is, as i dont see it in the market anymore ill say beat products are worth the money not only is the sound great, you get all the compliments too :)

GloryToBe - October 7, 2017, 9:35 am

I think Bose is personally better though, the quality is overall better as Beats spends most of its money on advertising.

Beats is just a popular name - that and it being owned by Apple is the only reasons they are still producing products lol.
There are much better quality headphones than Beats.

champagnpapi - October 7, 2017, 9:39 am

Got solo beats 3 but not studio 3 days ago :D

o??ervan? - October 7, 2017, 10:57 am

I had the funds for it in gift cards so why not; I was looking for other products but this one seemed to be the best for me :P

DEA?H - October 7, 2017, 11:00 am

Should've went with a pair of Sennheisers if you want your money's worth. When youre buying beats youre just buying it for the name

HEISENPUG - October 7, 2017, 11:02 am

My friend has the white ones and it works great but its very tight fit on his head which is very annoying at times.

Like I said Bose is better. I've owned multiple pairs of beats over a few years and they end up breaking, and anyways the sound quality isn't as good as Bose. You're buying the brand not the quality when you go with Beats.

Shit, you should have asked me for one lol. We have brand new sealed Beats Solo 3 Wireless Black Matte $150 here and people are being cheap saying "Will you take $100?" Bitch what.

Great headphones nonetheless.

As others have mentioned, you could've gotten a better bang for your buck in terms of quality with a different brand. With that said, you seem happy with your choice, so enjoy them. :)

Bought one of these 2 years ago, they broke instantly, got them replaced, broke after a year.

Bought them again, and they broke again, and got a replacement. I'm not using them anymore though, absolutely trash quality in my opinion (for $400 though).

I bought a pair of sennheiser's

Pronouncer - October 7, 2017, 12:45 pm

i got these and the solo 3's i use em just for gym and UNI

Goods - October 7, 2017, 3:05 pm

I have a pair of these for sale I wasn't really happy with them. Honestly.

Funny, same thing happened to me. That's why I stopped using beats headphones.

They are soooo flimsy and cheap feeling.

Suspense - October 8, 2017, 7:02 am

Nice pair of headphones, but Beats is more of a trendy than quality.

Would definitely recommend Bose any day over Beats. The Bose QuietComfort 35s are pure quality sound.

:Djaja got mine for 120 cad my acquaintances steal from the apple store.

Big Money - October 8, 2017, 7:24 am

I think sennhesier or bose is better but congrats on your earnings bro, beats aint worth it

MyNameJeff - October 8, 2017, 10:28 am

Beats aren't bad but they're just not worth their price. I'd recommend looking towards Audio-Technica as their products are well worth the price.

Spotify - October 8, 2017, 12:05 pm

It's been said like 20 times, but beats is just a name, if you ever listened to beats vs bose you would see the difference. I know that beats is more trendy and may look better visually. But I would never buy them because they're overpriced and are no where comparable to bose

Megatron - October 19, 2017, 11:57 am

I got some Matte Black Solo3 Beats, love them so far. Definitely would recommend to anyone.

BOBBY TARANTINO - October 20, 2017, 5:02 am

Personally theyre good headphones but they break so damm easily, nice purchase none the less OP

Bossk - October 20, 2017, 12:55 pm

got these and i like them a lot, mostly since the lack of wires. they do get a bit uncomfortable over longer periods though, at least for me.

trauma - October 20, 2017, 1:04 pm

My beats never broke, I still don't understand how others break theirs. I dropped them repeatedly, bend them and nothing happened to them. I have had them for a few years.

Datageni - October 23, 2017, 9:45 am

I used to have the same model, until I changed it with Bose QC35. It's a nice pair though.
