

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Goods Testimonial/ 2012 - Present

Goods - October 7, 2017, 11:02 pm

The Beginning

I started my account around this time back in 2012. I can remember it like it was yesterday. I had got my first laptop and I was on top of the world. I had always been interested in the word "hack" in general. After setting up my Macbook I was eager to use it and was finding anything I could to use it. One of the first things I did was go to google and type in "hack" im pretty sure HackForums was the first thing that popped up. I was immediately drawn to this site for several reasons. I was also into trying to get original gamertags. It was one of the first things I found on this site. I was also pretty young so I was still trying to DDos people on Call of Duty. Trying to DDos people on Call of Duty is what eventually got me into the RAT section. Now I try my best to post in as many places as possible. I also try to read as much on here as possible.

The Pros

I could go on and on about all the positive things about HackForums. I will just touch on the things that have been the best for me. I would have to say the greatest things about HackForums is the people you meet while posting. You have absolutely no idea what different walks of life are posting on your threads. After sorting through the skids and assholes, I met some the coolest people. Some of them ive known longer than others. Just to name a few I would say @Kenjii, @Uknija, @Ventrilloquism RIP, and @Juicy-. Just these four people alone have made every negative moment on this site worth it.

Benefits To Using HackForums

There is absolutely no way you could possibly name all the benefits of using this site. The valuable information that people post in threads is worth the stay in itself. Im just starting to get into Crypto Currency Exchange; so not only can you learn a ton of valuable information. You can potentially turn that information into a supplemental, maybe even primary income. I have not found a forum that can simply provide that, other than HackForums. That is because there is not a forum out there that does things like HackForums does. The benefits and potential possibilities are endless.

Pauses

There have been a couple different occassions where I didnt use HackForums at all. Throughout the years, for different reasons I have been absent from here. Weather it be work, school, or even a girlfriend or wife. No matter what happens outside of here. I always find myself coming back no matter what. It never fails to put me in a place where I feel better about life in general. Being able to come on here and see people are doing well in various different things puts me in an overall great mood.

Last But Certainly Not least

Last but not least I want to thank Omniscient for dedicating his time to make this forum the very best it can be, as I know he does. Next I want to thank the moderators for being strict but fair in moderating the forums. Last I want to thank all the amazing members that make this forum possible. Thank you!