Thread: Happy Death Day! - Friday the 13th

Sokar - October 12, 2017, 3:04 pm

It's almost here! Friday the 13th is just a few hours away.

To celebrate I'm going to watch the movie Happy Death Day. Sure it looks pretty cheesy and isn't necessarily an original plot, but I'm hoping that there is a comedic aspect to it.

Curious if anybody here is superstitious or if any of you guys have lit Friday the 13th plans?

I've never made plans for Friday the 13th, but I might do like a special stream with a special giveaway or something. Not sure yet, never actually focused on the 13th lol.

Actually really wanted to see this movie. Always excited about new concepts.

I was keen on Death Day, seen so many ads for it now that I've already lost interest.

Fiance and I have plans tonight for the 13th to just make a home cinema for some horror movies, get mega high, get bulk food and enjoy.

Hey guys! It is officially Friday the 13th! Time to get spooky!!

I also just wanted to let you guys know that I did indeed go and watch the movie last night on the release. There were a few plot twists that I saw coming, a few plot twists that I thought were coming but didn't, and a final twist that I didn't expect. I feel as though they did a good job with the movie, the acting and production were solid and just right for the type of movie that it was. All in all, I really liked it and would recommend it to you guys. Still want to know how you're spending your day. Get wild!

That looks like a good movie to watch

Movie looks bad, I'd rather just re-watch groundhogs day. As for Friday the 13th, no plans, another boring Friday.

Mustys - October 13, 2017, 10:24 am

I have never ever made anything special on Friday the 13th either, but is it just me?

They actually even alluded to groundhog's day at the end of the movie as a joke.

I don't know too many who "celebrate" it. Considering that this time it is in October, close to Halloween, a lot of people I know including myself like going to haunted houses and things of the sort!

Its not just you. Didn't even know it was something people celebrated.
