Who do I have to sell my soul to do get into one of these groups without being particularly skilled at anything other than being me?

I'll even fill out one of your over the top "Recruitment applications" but I'd rather just go the easy route.

Lmk, Very HQ Soul.

why would anyone want you when there are other people with HQ souls that are particularly skilled in something?

False. None of us are actually particularly skilled in doing anything other than being ourselves, it's what we do best. We may possess other skills, of course we do. But ultimately what we do best is be ourselves :]

They'd choose me because I am me, I am the best at whatever it is I do.

In most groups I have been in, it is 90% inside jokes 10% tutorials. I don't see why in most groups have a skill requirement. Members rarely work together on common projects.

If you want to get into a group you are going to have to apply one. Prove to a leader that you are hq, rather than just stating it. All current open recruitment threads are listed below.
