Thread: How do I remove ip matching another user?

Elduin - October 14, 2017, 3:38 pm

Had to make a new account because I lost my 2fa backup code on phone after resetting it without writing the code down.

So made the account to write to the admins.

Is there any way I can remove that?

Yeah you talk to Omni and he'll merge the two accounts together doubt it

omni -10: Don't waste my time with your bullshit again. Why are you talking like a buddy to scammers on Skype too? Asshole.

Saltpeter - October 14, 2017, 4:01 pm

You don't.

I wouldn't contact staff about it either if you like having your account.

Yeah thats why I don't wanna pm him again.

Is there any form I should follow if I should pm him about this?

Scamming prick.

Start by reading the post before you reply on my thread.

I don't believe you are allowed to merge or close TEMP accounts. Chances are you'll forget your GAUTH again and will need yet another way to contact staff, so leaving the account enabled or active is usually the best approached method.

You need to take better care securing your HF account details.

I guess you can log in to the temp account and log it in on another IP. Then it should no longer be matching your IP that you are using on your main.

Your trust scan will show only your "Latest IP Matching with other members" Change your IP and your issue will be solved.

Hint: ipconfig /release

You should PM a staff member and make sure they write a note on your account that says you're the same account to avoid confusion. That's about all you can do.

His other account cannot be accessed and if it were accessible he should be using that account and not making this new one lol.

easy and simple, reset your ip and try log in.
