Thread: I've officially spent 1,000\$+ on Sushi in 10 months

Biggy - October 16, 2017, 4:41 am

Going through my bank statements to see where all my moneys going and getting ready for tax season, when I realized how much money I've spent on sushi.

For some reason it doesn't show all of my transactions in the site I use to order it, but doing the math, I order generally 22-30$ worth of Sushi (and calamari) each time, and I would have ordered at least once every week at that amount.

Never really realized how much Sushi I eat, funny part is, I used to HATE sushi as a kid. Was disgusting to me, then my girlfriend got me absolutely addicted.

I get about the same thing every time, Dragoneye/Philly/California. Those are the ones I enjoy the most, however I try to get something new each time.

I just wanted to share this with you guys cause I thought it was pretty unreal.

While we're on the subject, what's your favorite sushi?

False King - October 16, 2017, 4:49 am

Since I started working at the largest food delivery website in the EU (especially the Netherlands), I've been able to see what I spend on food, even when I didn't order it through my account. Just in 2017 it went over 1.5k. Probably because I also buy loads of food for others when on parties and stuff.

And that's just everything I ordered through this platform, let alone every pickup order and phoned order. Damn.

But 1k on just sushi, that's an achievement on itself.

B?ker - October 16, 2017, 4:49 am

Small hints at the sushi award I see

ZooTedi - October 16, 2017, 4:50 am

If I could find a good delivery place around me we would be in the same boat haha. They probably love you there. But if I would have to pick a favorite it would be Hot California. My girlfriend got me addicted also smh never thought I would eat seaweed an raw fish lol

Best part is, I don't regret any bit of it. I wouldn't take back 1 bite of Sushi.

Same here. Food is love, food is life. What's the fun in earning money if you can't spend in on nice (and/or tasty) things.

I don't even want to check how much I've spent on UberEats. It's gonna be a high number I'm sure of it.

When I'm craving it I just go to my local hibachi place. I've never tried calamari, I think I'll give it a try but it HAS to be fried I don't wanna see it haha.

I tried Sushi, Calamari, Mussels, and some Octopus at this restaurant called Andiamo's (kinda a high class restaurant)

I damn near threw up my whole stomach. Never again

I love me some sushi.

If I had the choice of eating 1 cuisine every day for the rest of my life, it'd be Japanese food, in particular, sushi.

And then Pizzahut is $30 minimum order (22 orders) = $660

And just for the record, here are some more - this one is butter chicken @ minimum order $35 (minimum spent $875)

And this is just mine, I order to my partners email more often - plus use cash a lot.

I actually just went to a sushi buffet in Montreal, it was pretty good. The appetizers and such were terrible though, such as the calamari.
