Orchid - October 26, 2017, 5:19 am

I would advise having a very detailed application in order to enhance your admittance chances.

+Cloud - October 26, 2017, 7:12 am good luck everyone, looking forward to reading through some of your applications.

Ash Ketchum - October 26, 2017, 4:01 pm

ugh i cant wait for these updates to be pushed, barely any traffic in this section/others

Disparity - October 26, 2017, 4:28 pm

why would I as a programmer want to join this group?

Terminal is a group for discussion around the following topics

Personal Development

Music

Gaming

Shitposting

Anything else that your heart desires (General Lounge)

There are two different ways to join Terminal

1. \$30 via BTC/\$40 via PP \(Click here\)

2. Application Process - Fill out the code and apply via UserCP with a good enough reason (PM me your application and I will ignore you)

Code Tell me about yourself.
Why do you want to join Terminal?

Terms and Conditions

Spoiler (Click to View) There are no plans to sell the group in the foreseeable future. Buy-ins are for a period of 3 months. If you have a specialised subforum you would like to run, PM me and we can discuss.

so myself and 4 other programmers would join, what would we even do? waste our time developing projects for other group members for free as a "group activity"?

for a start.. you quoted neals thread.

also who said anything was free? don't assume such things and the content of this group will remain anonymous to those who are not apart of it.

don't treat me like bandors

It mean i have to write a very big essay as i cant name my projects here so i would have to describe the nature of them :p i m not trying ot brag or anything ,neither am i saying that i m a great coder :p all i m trying to say that i have been programming for over 13 years so it will take long time to list my projects here

but in brief i can say i did a lot of web automation project. built several big web app and mobile apps. by big i mean apps that are currently handing over 150 million hits per day. and infrastructure consists of hundreds of servers with different type of cluster. as i dont know what kind of coding experience you are looking for, so either i can be very useful to you or completely useless :)

Previous Works/Threads Relating to Coding: I made a kik autoresponder for ewhoring and sold it on here for a while. I'm a web developer so I do stuff all the time. I most recently gave vbulletin 3 with vbportal installed a right sidebar. If you wanted a sidebar on your main forum, you had to chose left or right, but the portal allowed you to have it on both sides. No more! I also made an exchange system in php recently, that took about 2-3 weeks to complete and I wrote a few thousand lines of code just to get it working.

Why do you think you stand out from the typical applicant: I can actually code, my account here is old as dirt, and I use proper grammar. Why do you think you stand out from the typical applicant: This is a difficult question. I guess I love Hackforums and I am pretty active these days too. I happen to be a programmer (not the best but considerably good). I want to contribute (my top priority) and learn from the group members within.
