The requirements for being approved for Ub3r are not publicly disclosed, but you can make some logical assumptions.

I hope I don't get denied when I move back to the US from Canada.

Do not do this.

Anything that makes you either more suspicious or low quality will hurt your chances.

No way to know, the requirements are not published.

if you're denied it's likely for another reason, I'm perm denied and I've been on the same IP for 1 year.

I won't answer your question. You can apply and you will either get approved or denied (possible to be permanently denied too).
