Theocritus - October 28, 2017, 1:39 pm

I am making this now because many people have messaged me about imposters trying to deal with them as me on Discord, Skype etc, and multiple members have also been scammed already by these assholes.

Current skype: Theocritus hf, theocritus_hf@mail.com

Current Discord: Theocritus#5511

Anyone else posing as me on Skype or Discord are asshole imposters!

Known imposters:

Theocritus#7842

i think it's kinda cool if some impersonates you, like oh i'm famous they wanna be me haha jk all jokes aside that's fucked and hope you find out something

Enzio - October 28, 2017, 1:41 pm

Same here. A few people got scammed by someone impersonating me. (It was me though)

MarSy - October 28, 2017, 1:42 pm

It's their own fault though if they get scammed.

Never do a deal offsite without getting a pm from the person.

Biggy - October 28, 2017, 1:45 pm

It's pretty easy to just pm the person on site to confirm that you are dealing with them.

People shouldn't just be blindly dealing with anyone without confirming the transactions.

You should link this thread on each of your threads where you sell something, just to make sure everyone is aware! Thanks for this post!

You are an idiot for thinking that.

Try explaining to someone pissed off at you for something you have NO CLUE about. Telling you that you scammed them for some random bizarre sequence of events, that again you hve no idea about.

Cool? Hell no, it a royal pain in the ass.

@OP.

Suck, and good thing you made the thread, keep it updated with any new impersonator IDs that pop up, it will happen.

Chances are its the same scammer as Cryptic and Myself.

Not really. There is a guy that makes anything from $40 to $1000 a month scamming people by impersonation. He seemed like a chill dude but really didn't give a shit about people that were getting scammed. I kinda agreed with his logic, he said if anyone is dumb enough to get scammed by not verifying deals then its their fault. I don't agree with scamming people but I agree people being dumb enough to fall for scams.

Pretty much the easiest way to not get scammed by an imposter.

They'll come back.

They stay quiet for a bit, then come back to scam the new members who don't know the situation.

They stay quiet for a bit, then come back to scam the new members who don't know the situation. Just keep an eye on the Requests for hacking and the Service requests sections, they like to linger there.

Easy to spot also once you figure the pattern out.

yes if you do not PM on site to confirm you are not the smartest. but it is of course still regrettable that it happens in the first place

Ludicolo - May 6, 2018, 5:04 am

This is why I don't post my discord or skype.

Theocritus - May 7, 2018, 7:21 am
