Got a small freelance project but can't seem to find a theme that suits the business

they offer bathroom installations, painting and decorating etc

can build it from scratch but would rather save my time

If you're charging for a full site you'd best deliver one from scratch and not a template.

This. Using a template is not building a website, it's for noobs. Might as well just use Wix if you're gonna use a template.

Regardless, <https://www.templatemonster.com/category/home-remodeling-website-templates/>

If the customer is paying for a custom coded website and you deliver them a public source that's just poor business ethics
