Thread: [\[Official Group\] Prosperity - Crypto and Business Recruitment - Join us now - FREE !](#)

SIM-3323508 - November 8, 2017, 3:07 pm

"It's better to hang out with people better than you. Pick out associates whose behavior is better than yours and you'll drift in that direction." - Warren Buffet

We are currently hosting a recruitment for business minded individuals and cryptocurrency investors.

Please answer the following questions in a response to this thread to apply. If you participate in crypto but not business then just fill out the crypto application and vice versa. If both apply to you answer all questions

Business

1. What type of business do you conduct?
2. Have you ever used a platform if so which do you prefer and why? (Shopify, WooCommerce, Ebay, etc)
3. Which platform do you prefer the least and why?

Crypto

1. What coin do you think has the most potential and why?
2. Which coin is the most under appreciated and why?
3. What skills do you use to analyze coins?

Tides - November 8, 2017, 3:09 pm

Best of luck man. Seems promising.

Captain P. - November 8, 2017, 3:11 pm

1. What type of business do you conduct?

Website trading and dropshipping.

Been trading websites for several years now and has built me some nice revenue along. Right now I'm on the road to build a legal dropshipping business. As I'm still abroad, I will have to wait several weeks/months until this can be realized and fully set up running. Besides that I'm conducting business in real life as I will move to India to learn about their textile factories.

2. Have you ever used a platform if so which do you prefer and why? (Shopify, WooCommerce, Ebay, etc)

I have used other sales platforms to trade/sell my websites. I will be running opencart for my dropshipping business. Opencart and Prestashop have both caught my eyes, where I think Prestashop is more professional in comparison with Opencart, but Opencart has more freedom. I think creative freedom is necessary to have a successful business and that's why I've chosen to roll with Opencart for my dropshipping business.

3. Which platform do you prefer the least and why?

Dislike all platforms due to lack of customization. I prefer freedom to do all sorts of unique things. Boosting the SEO off the maps for example. For example Shopify is very limited straight forward, where Opencart offers a large range of customization options, Shopify is limited.

Business

1. What type of business do you conduct?

I run a medium size price comparison site. Revenue comes from affiliate links. I also do freelance web development work but lately have been too busy to freelance.

2. Have you ever used a platform if so which do you prefer and why? (Shopify, WooCommerce, Ebay, etc)

On the side I do eBay stuff, but it's just for side money for investing in crypto.

3. Which platform do you prefer the least and why?

eBay since listing an item, getting followers, and more is very easy to do on the platform. People know about eBay so it's easy to trust. Sure the fees are bad but if what you are selling has a high enough ROI on each sale then it's at least worth it to try to get sales there in addition to anywhere else.

Crypto

1. What coin do you think has the most potential and why?

OmiseGo. Their parent company, Omise, is experienced in transaction tech already. That's more than I can say about most alts and reason enough to be somewhat interested.

Their dividend structure will bring the value up for sure if their project is successful. And I think they have a good chance. Their roadmap is realistic, they have great advisors, and valuable prior experience.

However, it's currently an ERC20 token but they are building their own blockchain. They are still very early in development so this is a LONG term hold. I am holding 100 OMG and plan to hold for several years.

I expect OMG to hit around $12-15 sometime Q1 next year. And then the sky is the limit from there. I see OMG hitting a 40b market cap in 5 years if they are very successful.

2. Which coin is the most under appreciated and why?

I'm not an expert on crypto, so nobody take this as financial advice or any of this post for that matter.

My friend who works in pharma is bullish on Modum (MOD). Their marketcap is only around 30m. And I think it is the next one to get shilled to over 100m market cap. However I am considering it for a longterm hold.

I also think 99% of all crypto is over-valued at the moment. So this question is difficult to answer.

Read more about MOD here:

https://www.reddit.com/r/CryptoCurrency/comments/7ajdw0/why_modum_mod_will_be_worth_so_much_more_soon/

3. What skills do you use to analyze coins?

Fundamentals. I don't do day trading. I do long term. I follow smart crypto enthusiasts who don't care about the current price to shitcoins. Look up Cedric Dahl's Youtube channel for an example. He analyzes BTC and ETH's network effects using calculus and other means to see which one is getting more development done and is growing at a faster rate without caring about the current price. Hint: It's ETH.

Business

1. What type of business do you conduct? As of now, (besides selling methods and products on HF, as well as flipping SM OG's), I run sadtags.us

2. Have you ever used a platform if so which do you prefer and why? (Shopify, WooCommerce, Ebay, etc) Currently I am utilizing Shopify.

3. Which platform do you prefer the least and why? Though I do not have much experience with other platforms, I dislike eBay the most. I feel as though the connotation associated with the platform is very important to potential customers and, for ebay, many claim that it is sketchy. To that end, In addition to the high fees and the slow shipping eBay retains, I dislike it the most.

Hustla - November 9, 2017, 7:43 pm

1. What type of business do you conduct?

At the moment I am involved in the resale business. I love to buy things for a low price whether it's used or brand new and I know I can make a profit from it. One of my passions is street wear so I associated that passion with making a profit. Anything that is hyped I like to get my hands on with intentions of flipping it. Supreme, Bape, Jordan Sneakers are things of the nature. Occasionally I'll visit my local thrift store and scope out any vintage gear that's worth some coin. Aside from the psychical sales I love to buy and sell original social mediums. I started flipping original gamertags back in 2011 when the first ever reset came to the xbox and from there it just opened a gateway for other social outlets like Twitter, Instagram and Tumblr.

2. Have you ever used a platform if so which do you prefer and why? (Shopify, WooCommerce, Ebay, etc)

The only two platforms I use is eBay and grailed. eBay is known worldwide so whenever I have something that's not street wear I like to post on there to get a quick sale. Ever since I got introduced to grailed I've had great success moving clothing because it's a community with like minded individuals all trying to sell and buy hype, designer and cool clothing.

3. Which platform do you prefer the least and why

The platform I prefer the least would be eBay just because the fee is higher on that site and eBay has a program where they make you wait the whole week until the item is shipped plus three extra days once they know the item was shipped to release your funds. PayPal makes a hold until they know the sale went smooth.

Already spoke to Orchid about joining, I'm in, as I am in Influence // Business Division, just that he hasn't added me for some reason.

Good luck everyone, let's keep this group pure and full of the top flight. We all learn better as a collective, especially surrounding ourselves together, and not only learn better/more, but also EARN more ?

I'd say because he doesn't have the power to add you. (He told me to add you and I denied and told him exactly what I am about to tell you)

If you want to join then you need to apply :)

Oh, alright, no problem. Anyway, he randomly was the one who PM'd me asking me about my skills and asked if I was interested, and to add you.

Will apply then.

And I did apply to Influence // Business Division and was accepted but not added for some reason after 1-2 months +.

1. What coin do you think has the most potential, and why?

One of the coins that I think has the most potential is Enjin Coin (ENJ). My reasoning behind this is where it's going to be implemented. The team behind Enjin Coin are the same team behind Enjin, a website platform for gaming communities, who've spent countless years, since 2009, offering their service to millions of gamers and perfecting it along the way.

The idea behind Enjin Coin is to implement it into the store that is used by Enjin communities, and through the plugins that the Enjin store uses, people will be able to purchase things that they will receive in-game, but by paying with ENJ. Enjin Coin is also an ERC-20 token which means it's being made under Ethereum which is arguably one of the best cryptocurrencies. The plugins that will be implemented into servers already exists, Enjin Coin will be implemented into already existing plugins that are used by many communities on Minecraft and Unturned with ARK Survival Evolved coming in the future. This means that Enjin already have an audience for their coin, and they already have an audience that'll use it, this helps to ensure the success of the token. Along with implementing the coin into plugins, they are also releasing a Unity, C#, Java, iOS Swift, Android and PHP SDK and an Unreal Development Kit to allow developers to implement this into their games. Enjin Coin will have both a mobile wallet and pc wallet which will be followed by an official mobile app for Enjin itself. Not to forget that they are also implementing an escrow trading system to ensure safety when trading in-game items. Enjin coin will come with many use cases and be instantly adopted by the communities that use Enjin, which might I add is over 50M views a month to over 250K communities with over 18M registered gamers, over 3.5M of which are active. Millions of dollars a month goes through Enjin and now that will be able to go through Enjin, but decentralised, over the blockchain.

2. Which coin is the most under-appreciated, and why?

I think one of the most under-appreciated coins is SYS Coin (SYS). SYS Coin is built for marketplace transactions and has a wallet which features it's own fully decentralised marketplace called Blockmarket, Blockmarket allows for low-fee purchasing of tangible, and intangible, goods over the blockchain. SYS Coin has one of the best teams I have ever spoken to, they are all extremely active on their Slack server, actively responding to users and interacting with their community, it's one of those teams that make you feel like you matter.

SYS is designed to have a base value of $1 due to its marketplace aspect, which might I add works very well. I feel like people under-appreciate SYS Coin because they aren't used to decentralized marketplaces and because all the big sellers don't sell on decentralized marketplaces, this is a huge issue in a world like today and I believe that people who sell on eBay, Amazon and other platforms would be much better suited selling on a decentralized marketplace.

3. What skills do you use to analyze coins?

I don't really know what to put here as skills, other than reading and listening, as they are the only skills that someone would use, if you understand what I mean, but how I find out about coins and information about them is completely different. I like to watch YouTubers, specifically Suppoman Udemy (warez disallowed) (warez disallowed) who is a superb cryptocurrency YouTuber and provides daily videos where he discusses coins, he is a god at what he does. Other than that, I often spend my time browsing the cryptocurrency section on HackForums and ready on what people say about coins and ready all the threads about cryptos. I would like to say that I'm quite good at analyzing graphs, in a sense that I can identify support and resistance lines and identify trends and patterns and use them to predict what will happen next. Reading news articles is also another thing I like, and I am also a fan of getting inside the communities and using Slack channels to talk to coin devs and other people who the coins and using Discord servers to speak to like-minded people.

Thank you for taking your time to read this,
James.

Accepted.

1. What type of business do you conduct? In-game item and account services.
2. Have you ever used a platform if so which do you prefer and why? (Shopify, WooCommerce, Ebay, etc)

Mainly i have just used paypal and BTC to accept payment. I am looking to expand my knowledge in business world

3. Which platform do you prefer the least and why? currently i have not used anything except paypal and BTC for my services as they are not automated.

I am applying to join this group because i want experienced individuals that will build knowledge together. nn

1. What type of business do you conduct? I sell products, I also trade crypto from time to time. I sold some stuff that used to be allowed here on HF that I won't mention, made about 8k with it on ebay in a few weeks because it was very very hot back in the day. I find an opportunity, and I exploit it. If there are thing being sold for very very cheap that sell well otherwise, I buy it and flip it. Beats at a garage sale for $10? Let's resell those used for $100 on craigslist. Stuff like that. I've made a kik autoresponder and I sold it here in the ewhoring forum for a while, that was a good learning experience.

2. Have you ever used a platform if so which do you prefer and why? (Shopify, WooCommerce, Ebay, etc) I've used ebay before, made some thousands off of it. I've also had my own online shop before. I like ebay but I don't like their fees, or how they treat their sellers. They treat sellers like absolute garbage. I'd prefer running my own site but you have to drive your own traffic there...

3. Which platform do you prefer the least and why? Ebay because of their fees, and that people can just close your account whenever they decide to report you enough. Really got screwed over by ebay/paypal in the past, and even though I still use them from time to time I do try not to.

Manipulate - November 23, 2017, 12:40 am

Business

1. What type of business do you conduct? Currently running a clothing line with some designs up for sale on the website. It is a street/skate wear based clothing line.

2. Have you ever used a platform if so which do you prefer and why? (Shopify, WooCommerce, Ebay, etc) Shopify because we use Printful linked with Shopify to fulfill orders. Printful prints the designs on the shirts and ships it straight to my customers.

3. Which platform do you prefer the least and why? I would have to say eBay because listings get pushed down many pages, high fees, only accepts paypal as they are partnered.

Crypto

1. What coin do you think has the most potential and why? Bitcoin, currently highly invested in it and will be the next currency.

2. Which coin is the most under appreciated and why? Solarcoin because the coins are generated when 1MWh of solar energy is generated. This may influence people to start solar power and can save fossil fuels as the main goal of the coin.

3. What skills do you use to analyze coins? I usually go off trend lines.

The-Fluffy-Kitty - November 23, 2017, 11:11 pm

Business

1. What type of business do you conduct?

I am a trained salesperson, run a Shopify store, occasionally run some arbitrage dropshipping deals on eBay, I build websites for businesses. And I'm looking to put my newly acquired social media marketing knowledge to use for other businesses.

2. Have you ever used a platform if so which do you prefer and why? (Shopify, WooCommerce, Ebay, etc)

I use many platforms. I use Shopify which I believe is quite good for its simplicity and low cost. I use eBay every now and then as an extra stream of income. When building websites I often custom code, but can also use Wordpress and other platform. I enjoy learning and I am not afraid to utilize any advantageous tools.

3. Which platform do you prefer the least and why?

I remember trying to sell on Amazon a while ago and didn't find it to be good for me. It was mainly the upfront costs and I was less experienced.

And while I am not overly knowledgeable of crypto currency, I am more than interested and willing to learn. The most I've really done was adding very small amounts via faucets, but I would like to one day begin investing and trading.

1. What type of business do you conduct?

Mainly Dropshipping Digital items using Multiple eBay Stealth Accounts. I source digital items from various forums and flip it to my customers on eBay.

2. Have you ever used a platform if so which do you prefer and why? (Shopify, WooCommerce, Ebay, etc)

S.

Mainly use eBay for Dropshipping, Getting started with Shopify and Optimizing Ads through Facebook Pixels. I'm keen to learn more.

3. Which platform do you prefer the least and why?
WooCommerce, I do not like WooCommerce because it isn't that user-friendly. Shopify's customer support is more quick and knowledgeable and makes it easier to fix any critical bugs instead of mailing the developers and waiting for weeks till it is fixed.

Windows - December 2, 2017, 12:49 am

Business

1. What type of business do you conduct?

Shopify Dropshipping Store, Clothing brand (opening very soon), Sneaker Reselling

2. Have you ever used a platform if so which do you prefer and why? (Shopify, WooCommerce, Ebay, etc)

I use Shopify for 2 of my businesses, in my opinion its easy to manage, add products, etc.

3. Which platform do you prefer the least and why?

I don't really like eBay because of the fees. I also don't like WooCommerce because it's harder to use than Shopify and you don't get 24/7 support.
