Thread: So, you want to join TIN? - TIN - Beginner Programming/Hacking Group

Hoodie+ - November 12, 2017, 9:00 am

I've realized that quite a bit of people posted on the old "TIN - Beginner Programming/Hacking Group"

Mostly people who want to join TIN but the creator of that thread, our fellow ex. member is no more.

So I have decided to make a new thread about it. Here we go...

So, you want to join TIN?

To solve this challenge you are going to need knowledge of networking, information gathering and vulnerability analysis.

Quote:1317035111

The above number is everything you need to know to join TIN.

Once you connect to IRC using SSL (port 6697) don't forget to join #TIN (In case you don't know how to use /list)

To solve this challenge you are going to need knowledge of networking, information gathering and vulnerability analysis.

Good luck, the TIN group.

How is this what Tin was based on?

I thought Tin was for beginner hacking

Jadzia - November 15, 2017, 9:05 am

Seems at least a couple of people solved it. :)

Bouzazi - November 15, 2017, 2:04 pm

It's actually quite easy..

Dahuhn - November 16, 2017, 6:52 am never used IRC before... does s1 has a little advice 4 me? Just started because of some free time with a little bit of coding.

OneManCrowd - November 16, 2017, 8:11 am

I assumed it was an IP, the only possible one being 13.170.35.111. I ran an nmap -Pn scan and no open ports showed (or maybe the server was down). Am I on the right track or am I totally off?

Wrong IP. Keep trying. ?

Lutien - November 17, 2017, 1:49 pm

The other option would be 131.70.35.111 and still doesn't work. What am I missing?

sophrosyne - November 19, 2017, 5:01 am

You're on the right track my friend. Keep it up.

Whoever logged into irc this morning...give it another try. Sorry I was afk...wonderful timezones and stuff.

PublicNetwork - November 20, 2017, 12:32 pm

iam gonna give this one a try!

randomransom - November 20, 2017, 2:57 pm

how long will we (i) have time? have to do sthg 4 school xD

No time limit. lol We're all in different timezones so somebody should be in there to chat with usually. Just one thing is we have a pet troll named x0 and you can just ignore him.

BespeckledCephalopod - November 21, 2017, 12:01 pm

Ok, so I have an IP, but now what do I do with that?

Hmmmmmm

I've hinted it enough times.

If you're unsure try analysing the network.

13.170.35.111

131.70.35.111

I'm stumped. Don't know if I'm going about this the right way, wouldn't these be the only options since IP addresses can only go up to 255?

YourSisterSecret - November 23, 2017, 5:30 pm

So what is it exactly I need to do as I presume its an IP do I have to track it or something and post my findings idk?

you are not going the right way

mrmarvin - January 2, 2018, 12:34 am

70 is 7 digit binary number, I'm stumped after that.

13.70.35.111?

Google Ultron - January 2, 2018, 1:09 am

It's easier than you guys think hahah

[BLANK] - January 2, 2018, 9:30 am

So I found the answer early on but initial tests were not to my approval, but then I went ahead and connected to what I found and it worked.

Hoodie+ - January 2, 2018, 12:23 pm

Care when you connect to IRC, it's SSL only.

SysAdmin - January 2, 2018, 2:58 pm

A great group to learn from, good luck to everyone trying out the challenge (It's not hard).

devac_hbp - January 7, 2018, 1:46 pm

I've find the IP but can't connect to IRC with it...

Are you sure it's the correct IP?

Mr__Robot - January 7, 2018, 11:54 pm

Finally I connected to 1317035111 ?
And found something interesting

HugoBOsS007 - January 9, 2018, 5:57 am

Cellphone hacking, how complex is it? Because recently someone accidentally used his number as their banking details. In other words, my friends cell number is connected to that person's bank account. But all I need is just the password. How do I go about getting a new one?
