Sheeple - November 20, 2017, 1:28 pm

Did anyone get infected from this? Downloaded it and opened it and got 3 DLLHost.exe processes spawned and chrome redirects me from any website I visit to some philipino website and my icons have been flickering since I disconnect the internet

Bruce Willis - November 23, 2017, 2:46 am

@Sheeple The tool is clean and we would never put our hard work at risk. The "dllhost.exe" execution is important so that Windows can run important processes (COM applications) as NET.Framework but i pm'd you about that please take a look to your inbox :)

@W_W_W, @Chaii

Thank you for your post :)

1. Yess there is a limit but this depends on your provider (Gmail, Gmx....)
however, this is freely selectable.

2. I never tested this but i dont think so... only it can be that the phone will be slow in this time but this depends on the phone.
