

Forum: Hack Forums

Thread: Thoughts on the Indian call center scams

Benny Jamz - November 14, 2017, 8:02 am

[Video: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=dNt8nPA9khc>]

I saw like 10-15 videos today about those scams (The IRS, Microsoft, Property et cetera..) and it's quite funny, because it's all based in India.

I seriously believe that those call centers are a day job like 9-5 with people trying to pull out scams everyday for a living.

If you haven't seen those videos, try watch this one. Its unbelievable these scam bags are getting mad and starts insulting you, because you expose them.

Thoughts on this?

JustAnotherRandomDude - November 14, 2017, 8:34 am

I just screw with them till they get frustrated and block my number. One dude quit while I was on the phone with him. Wish I'd been recording, it was hilarious.

?now - November 14, 2017, 8:37 am

I always question how the fuck people fall for them. Like its such an obvious scam lmao. What I do is just talk in an indian accent back to them and they get so angry

Benny Jamz - November 14, 2017, 8:43 am

(Nov 14, 2017 09:37 AM)?now Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I always question how the fuck people fall for them. Like its such an obvious scam lmao. What I do is just talk in an indian accent back to them and they get so angry

This ^

I mean how do you fall for a guy naming himself Jonathan Baker from the IRS with the huge obvious Indian accent?

James Burnham - November 14, 2017, 8:51 am

Eh, it's a silly method. I read about that somewhere on reddit. There were 3 people trying to make a guy believe his PC has trojans so they can offer to clean it for 175$. I don't consider them really blackhat, because the profit they make is small and they are not forcing anyone. Morally it is on the same level as CPA.

Benny Jamz - November 14, 2017, 8:59 am

(Nov 14, 2017 09:51 AM)? Mr. Burnham ? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Eh, it's a silly method. I read about that somewhere on reddit. There were 3 people trying to make a guy believe his PC has trojans so they can offer to clean it for 175$. I don't consider them really blackhat, because the profit they make is small and they are not forcing anyone. Morally it is on the same level as CPA.

Yeah and they make the victim to install a remote desktop program, so they can fix their computer and clean it, meanwhile they install a malware which most likely a RAT and afterwards they will just make your life a pain in the ass.

So no, it's not the same level as CPA.

Gliese - November 14, 2017, 9:07 am

(Nov 14, 2017 09:43 AM)Benny Branco Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This ^

I mean how do you fall for a guy naming himself Jonathan Baker from the IRS with the huge obvious Indian accent?

There are some Indians named Jonathan though

Savv - November 14, 2017, 9:15 am

They actually make Decent money. More than the average pay In India. It is sad they have to do these scams. India Is a hard country to live In. Their government doesn't give them anything/provide anything to help them get actual jobs etc. I am In no way Justifying their scams, but It is unfortunate.

Hustla - November 14, 2017, 9:16 am

(Nov 14, 2017 10:07 AM)Gliese Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) There are some Indians named Jonathan though Plot twist, Gliese is actually Indian and named Jonathan.

Killy - November 14, 2017, 9:43 am well they are smart enough to have and developed a working method lol

SIM-1589588 - November 14, 2017, 9:50 am

When I was in prison, almost 100 people came from this call center scam. They all were acting like they didn't had any idea about it.

Hackforums97 - November 14, 2017, 9:57 am

I run them all so yea..... LMAO

90210 - November 14, 2017, 11:53 am

Read an article that basically said scammers try to make these scams sound ridiculous (aka nigerian prince) so that they are sure the people that will engage will fall for it. No use investing time in someone if they have doubts midway through.

WageWolf - August 15, 2018, 7:11 pm

(Nov 14, 2017 09:43 AM)Benny Jamz Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This ^

I mean how do you fall for a guy naming himself Jonathan Baker from the IRS with the huge obvious Indian accent?

Well, he told me I need to offer him $1000 in iTunes gift cards, or I am going to get arrested! :(